Effect of potato blight felt by the poorer classes, not only in the prices of food, but also by the destruction of the crop of the labourers where the allotment system prevails	6
This felt most in Wiltshire, Somersetshire, and Devonshire	6
Long and severe cold of last winter contributed to produce distress	6
Workhouses of many Unions became full during the winter	6
In these cases out-door relief allowed, under Art. 6 of Prohibitory Order, or subject to out-door labour test	7

THIRTEENTH ANNUAL REPORT OF THE POOR LAW COMMISSIONERS.

TO THE RIGHT HON. SIR GEORGE GREY, BART.,
Her Majesty's Principal Secretary of State for the Home Department.

Poor Law Commission Office, Somerset House, May 1, 1847.

PROCEEDINGS IN ENGLAND.

SIR,

1. WE commence the Report of our proceedings for the last year, by laying before you the account of the receipt and expenditure of the moneys levied as poor's rate, in England and Wales, for the parochial year ending at Lady-day, 1846, together with a comparative statement of the several items of the same amount for that and the preceding year.

AN ACCOUNT of the Receipt and Expenditure of the Poor's Rate for the year ended Lady-day, 1846.

Receipt.	£
Amount of money levied by assessment	6,809,318
Received from other sources in aid of poor rate	187,620
Total Receipt	£6,996,938

Expenditure.	£
For relief to the poor	4,962,026
Law charges, parochial and Union	83,285
Expenses before magistrates, and constables' expenses (parochial and Union)	52,266
Payments under the Parochial Assessments' Act (for surveys, valuations, &c.) and loans repaid under the same	21,169
Expenses under the Vaccination Act	27,486
Expenses under the Act for Registering Births, Deaths, and Marriages	54,901
Payments for county and borough rate, and for county and local police forces	1,297,505
Cost of voters, burgesses, and jury lists	21,609
Expenses of parish property	15,858
Money expended for all other purposes	218,745
Total Expenditure	£6,754,850

2. From the comparative statement, it will be seen that the amount received as poor rate in the two parochial years, 1845 and 1846, scarcely varied ; but that in the expenditure for the relief of the poor there was in 1846, as compared with the previous year, a diminution of 77,677*l*. In the law charges, likewise, there was a diminution of 12,112*l*. The payments towards the county and borough rate increased by 21,280*l*.; but in the total expenditure from the poor rate there was a decrease of 102,552*l*.

3. The following is a statement of the expenditure for the relief of the poor in the four last parochial years ; whence it appears that the expenditure in the year 1846 was less than in either of the three preceding years.

1844	4,976,093
1846	4,962,026

4. Although there was a general diminution in the expenditure for the relief of the poor throughout England in the parochial year 1846, amounting, as compared with the previous year, to 2·2 per cent., yet its rate varied in different parts of the country. In some counties it exceeded 10 per cent., while in others there was a slight increase. Some of these differences will appear from the following table :—

COUNTIES.	Years ending Lady-day		Decrease per Cent. in 1846, compared with 1845.	Increase per Cent. in 1846, compared with 1845.
Salop	60,657	49,779	17·9	..
Westmoreland . . .	18,225	15,469	15·1	..
York, West Riding .	186,321	163,364	12·3	..
Chester	76,124	68,794	9·6	..
Durham	75,824	70,243	7·4	..
Stafford	98,266	91,198	7·2	..
Brecon	21,354	19,817	7·2	..
Berks	92,615	94,032	..	1·5
Montgomery . . .	24,892	25,450	..	2·2
Middlesex	285,945	293,886	..	2·8
Pembroke	21,294	22,106	..	3·8
Lancaster	211,694	220,062	..	4·0
Carnarvon	26,577	27,640	..	4·0
Flint	19,711	20,491	..	4·0

5. The diminished expenditure in Shropshire, Durham, Staffordshire, and Brecknockshire may probably be attributed to the improvement in the iron and coal trades, which occurred during this period. The diminution in the expenditure of the West Riding of York has been progressive in the three years ending at Lady-day, 1846.

This increase in the latter year is however confined to a few Unions, and is mainly owing to an extraordinary outlay in the Manchester Union for a new pauper school.

6. The following table exhibits the principal items of the Poor Law Expenditure in the Unions and parishes, acting under the regulations of the Commissioners, from which the accounts are transmitted to us in a prescribed form:—

7. It will be observed that (with the trifling exception of the miscellaneous item) there is a decrease in each branch of this expenditure for the year 1846, as compared with the preceding year. A similar diminution, as appears from the subjoined table, took place in the number of paupers relieved in the quarter ending at Lady-day, 1846, as compared with the corresponding quarter of the previous year.

8. Confining ourselves to the able-bodied poor, we find (as is shown in the subjoined table) that the number relieved in the workhouse, during the Lady-day quarter of 1846, was less by five per cent. than that relieved in the corresponding quarter of 1845. In the number of able-bodied persons receiving out-door relief, the diminution was still greater, being equal to $12\frac{1}{10}$ per cent.

9. We are not, at present, able to state the complete amount of the Poor Law Expenditure for the year ending at last Lady-day; but we entertain no doubt, from the partial accounts which we have received, that it has considerably exceeded the amount for the preceding year. During the summer and autumn of 1846, the employment of the working classes throughout England, both in the agricultural and manufacturing districts, was indeed sufficiently constant, and the rates of wages not below the average. There was, however, in England, as in Ireland, a general failure of the potato crop of 1846; and the destruction of this important article of food, by contributing to raise the prices of grain and other provisions, materially influenced the condition of the poor. The extent to which the prices of grain and pulse have, by a concurrence of various causes, been raised during the last winter may be perceived by a comparison of the recent averages as declared in the Gazette.

	Average Prices for the six weeks ending April 3, 1847.		Average Prices for the same period in 1846.

Oats . .	31	8	21	11
Rye . .	56	3	33	9
Beans . .	52	5	34	9
Total . .	325	6	209	2

Therefore, whereas, in the spring of 1846, a quarter of the six principal sorts of grain and pulse could be purchased for 10*l.* 9*s.* 2*d.*, the same articles could not be procured in the present spring for less than 16*l.* 5*s.* 6*d.* The contract price of potatoes for Lambeth Workhouse for the half-year ending last Michaelmas, was 5*l.* 10*s.* per ton; for the half-year ending next Michaelmas, 10*l.* per ton. Butchers' meat and bacon have likewise somewhat risen in price since the spring of 1846.

10. The effects of the potato blight were, however, felt by the poorer classes, not merely through its indirect influence on the prices of food, but also, more immediately, by the destruction of the crop planted by the labourer in places where the allotment system prevails. We have found that this direct dependence of the agricultural labourer upon his own crop of potatoes is most prevalent in Wiltshire, Somersetshire, and Devonshire; and in several unions in those counties, the failure of the potatoes has, during the past winter, been represented to us as a cause of peculiar distress among the agricultural labourers, and as a ground for giving them temporary out-door relief.

11. To the causes already enumerated as contributing to produce distress among the working classes, may be added the long-continued and severe cold of last winter—a circumstance which exercises a most important influence upon the employment of the agricultural labourers.

12. In consequence of the state of things which we have described, the work-houses of many Unions became full during the winter; and in these Unions where the prohibitory order had been issued, we either permitted out-door relief to the able-bodied in cases reported under Art. 6 of that order, or issued an order authorizing generally out-door relief to this class of poor, subject to an out-door labour test. The following is a list of the chief part of the Unions in which the workhouse was thus filled during the winter :—

Axbridge.	Manchester.
Basford.	Melksham.
Bradford (Wilts).	Newbury.
Bridgewater.	Newmarket.
Calne.	Nottingham.
Canterbury.	St. George in the East.
Caxton and Arrington.	St. George the Martyr
Cheltenham.	(Southwark.)
Chipping Norton.	Shepton Mallet.
Chipping Sodbury.	Thame.
Chorlton.	Wellington (Somerset).
Clifton.	Wells.
Henley.	West Derby.
Hereford.	Whitechapel.
Hinckley.	Wigan.
Holborn.	Wincanton.
Hoxne.	Winchcomb.
Kensington.	Wokingham.
Kettering.	Woodbridge.
Leicester.	Worcester.

Amongst these Unions, several, such as Canterbury, Chorlton, Holborn, Kensington, Manchester, West Derby, &c., are under no limitation with respect to out-door relief. In Worcester, the insufficiency of the workhouse was slight, while in Caxton and Arrington, and Newmarket, the necessity for out-door relief recurs every winter. In Hinckley the difficulty was only partial, owing to a dispute between the stocking-weavers and masters about wages. In Clifton and Chipping Sodbury, the workhouse was crowded through the want of employment of the hatters.

13. We may here mention, with reference to the failure of the potato crop, that it became necessary for us, in numerous Unions, to sanction an alteration in the workhouse dietary by the substitution of some other article for potatoes. The substitutes have for the most part been bread or boiled rice; in other cases, turnips, carrots, parsnips, cabbage, peas, or hominy, have been used. We have, likewise, at the desire of the Board of Trade, instructed our Assistant-Commissioners to obtain information upon certain particulars respecting the failure of the potatoes. From the reports which have been sent in, and which have been transmitted to the Board of Trade, it appears that the failure of the potatoes has extended generally over the country, but that the early sorts of the potato have failed the least.

14. Other causes also have contributed to increase the expenditure for the relief of the poor since last autumn in the manufacturing districts and the large towns. Owing to the high price of cotton, and the diminished demand for manufactures, the hours of work have been shortened, or the work has been even temporarily suspended in some factories in the Lancashire district. Moreover, the severity of the distress in Ireland has produced an influx of Irish, in a state of extreme destitution, into several towns on the western coast of England. Liverpool, as being the port nearest to Dublin, and with which the principal steam communication is carried on, received the largest number of this class of immigrants. The numbers having begun to increase in December, advanced rapidly in January and February last, and still more rapidly in March and April. From the 13th of January to the 20th of April, during which period an accurate account of Irish immigrants was kept, there arrived at Liverpool 133,069 persons from Ireland. The Select Vestry adopted prompt and efficient measures for meeting the increased number of applications;* and it will be seen from the annexed Report † of our Assistant Commissioner, Mr. Austin, that these measures were attended with considerable success in preventing imposition, and in providing for the destitute. The precautions taken by the vestry against the spread of fever and disease, from the crowded dwellings of the Irish, are on a large and expensive scale; but not, it is to be feared, beyond the necessity of the case.

15. It has not been thought advisable by the local authorities to make any attempt to pass the Irish immigrants back to Ireland under the 8 and 9 Vict., c. 117. Some have remained chargeable on the rates of Liverpool, others have proceeded further into the interior of the country, but several thousands have emigrated to Canada or the United States. Many have reached Manchester and the other manufacturing towns of Lancashire, as well as of the West Riding and Cheshire; and we have received statements from several Boards of Guardians on the subject of a provision for the increased number of Irish vagrants. Large numbers of Irish have also landed at Newport and Chepstow, and have thence moved on to Cheltenham and other towns in the midland counties. A considerable number of Irish poor (estimated at about 1000 within a week) have recently been landed in London by steamers from Cork and Dublin. In addition to these, some Irish have reached the metropolis from Bristol and Newport.

16. The Removals Act of last session (to the operation of which we shall advert more particularly hereafter), has likewise increased the amount of relief to the Irish in the large towns, especially in the metropolis. By the operation of this Act,

* The Reports of Mr. Austin, and other correspondence and documents on this subject, have been printed for the Houses of Parliament (House of Lords, Sess. Paper, Nos. 24 and 28. House of Commons, No. 193.)

† App. A. No. 8,

Irish and Scotch, who have been resident five years in an English parish, become irremovable from that parish; and thus many Irish, who had been resident for that period, became applicants for relief, although previously to the passing of that Act, they had been deterred from applying by the fear of being passed back to their own country. The expectations of benefit under this Act formed by the resident Irish in the metropolis appear to have been excessive, and led to their applying in large numbers to several London parishes and Unions at the beginning of the winter. The pressure was however only temporary, for the applications have been generally met by an offer of the workhouse or out-door labour, and the offers were in few cases accepted.

17. Owing to the combined operation of the causes above stated, (namely, the general failure of the potato crop throughout England, the high prices of corn and other articles of food, the length and severity of the winter, the diminution of manufacturing prosperity, the large immigration of destitute Irish into England, and, in some degree, the operation of the Removals Act,) the pressure upon the poor rates has been considerably increased since last autumn, and the Poor Law Expenditure for the year ending Lady-day, 1847, will, when ascertained, doubtless prove to have been greater than that for the preceding year. We have, however, the satisfaction of being able to state, that the Boards of Guardians and other local authorities have found no serious difficulty in overcoming the obstacles against which they have had to contend, and that the system of relief has been efficient and orderly. Indeed, we are not aware that, at any time since we have held our present offices, the administration of the Poor Law has been in a more regular and satisfactory state than during the period since last autumn, or has been conducted with a more willing co-operation on the part of the local authorities.

18. In our last Annual Report, par. 24—7, we described the measures which we had adopted for the formation of district asylums for the relief of the casual poor of the Metropolis; we likewise adverted to the appointment of a Select Committee of the House of Commons, in last session, to inquire into the manner in which the discretion of the Commissioners had been exercised; and we added that we had abstained from taking active steps for carrying the provisions of the Act into effect, until it appeared whether any alteration of the law was likely to result from the recommendations of the Committee.

19. After the date of our Report, the Select Committee completed their examination of witnesses; but they merely reported the evidence, without expressing any opinion upon the question referred to them (12 June, 1846).

20. Sir William Somerville subsequently addressed to us a letter, dated the 3rd of September, referring to the subject of the district asylums, and conveying to us your opinion that further proceedings with respect to them should be suspended, until an opportunity had been afforded to the Legislature for considering the evidence reported by this Committee.

21. Before we adopted any step for suspending the proceedings of the District Boards of Management, we thought it right to take the opinion of counsel, as to our powers over the Boards which had been called into existence. We accordingly submitted to Mr. Tomlinson this question:—

“Whether the Poor Law Commissioners have any power, under the Act 7 and 8 Victoria, c. 101, either separately or in connexion with the previous Poor Law Acts, to issue an order for the purpose of suspending the monthly meetings of the respective Asylum District Boards indefinitely, either in the cases where the Boards have continued to hold their monthly meetings, or where they have not done so?”

In answer to this question Mr. Tomlinson stated as follows:—

“I am of opinion that the Poor Law Commissioners have no power under the Act 7 and 8 Victoria, c. 101, either separately, or in connexion with the previous Poor Law Acts, to issue an order for the purpose of suspending the monthly meetings of the respective Asylum District Boards indefinitely, after such Boards have been once duly constituted, either in the cases where the Boards have continued to hold their monthly meetings, or where they have not done so. The 43rd Section gives the Commissioners the same powers for regulating the proceedings of any District Board, as they have with respect to the proceedings of Boards of Guardians. The power of regulating does not imply the power of suspending indefinitely, which is in effect a power to nullify the constitution of the Board. The Legislature treats these Boards as a permanent institution. By the same section, the Commissioners can only add any parish to the district, or take any parish from the district, with the consent of a majority of the Board. No power is given to the Commissioners to dissolve such district or such board, directly or indirectly. In the parallel case of Boards of Guardians, an express power to dissolve the Union is given by the 32nd section of 4th and 5th Wm. IV., c. 76, but only with the consent of a majority of two-thirds of the guardians, and the necessity of such consent to a dissolution is not taken away by the 66th section of 7 and 8 Vic. c. 101. These provisions, and the obvious intent to give permanent constitutions to the newly constituted relieving districts, in effect limit the general power to suspend, alter, or rescind the Commissioners' rules given by the 15th section of the first Act, at least after Boards have been once fully constituted. If this construction is not put upon the Acts, the Commissioners might evade all the limitations of their powers of adding to, taking from or dissolving Unions, by rescinding the orders constituting such Unions, and issuing new orders constituting new Unions, with entirely new classifications of districts.”*

* App. A. No. 3.

22. After the receipt of this opinion, the Commissioners addressed a letter to the several Boards of Management* (dated the 21st of September), stating it to be advisable that these Boards should not take any further step in pursuance of their powers, beyond what was rendered absolutely necessary by the engagements into which they had entered, until an opportunity should have been afforded to the Legislature, in the next session of Parliament, of considering the evidence reported to the House of Commons by the Committee. In the same letter the Commissioners announced their intention, with a view to enable the Boards of Management to act on this advice, of issuing an order, modifying that part of their orders constituting the respective District Asylums, which required the Boards of Management to hold their meetings at certain stated periods.

23. The Commissioners subsequently issued orders* to the several Boards of Management, providing that, until the Commissioners should otherwise direct, it should not be necessary for the Board to hold a meeting once in every month, as required by the previous orders. Since that time no steps have been taken by any of the Boards of Management, except by that of the North-Eastern Metropolitan District, which having previously entered into a contract for the purchase of a site, and having obtained a loan of 3500*l.* from the Public Works' Loan Board, have been in treaty for the purchase of a site and buildings.

24. Having described the course which has been pursued with respect to the asylums for the houseless poor in the metropolis, we proceed to give some further explanations which are rendered necessary by the present state of this question.

25. It appears from the proceedings of the Select Committee on District Asylums, that the Poor Law Commissioners are believed to have introduced a lax system of administration too favourable to the relief of casual and wandering poor; in particular, there seems to be an impression that the letters of instruction and proceedings of the Commissioners in 1837, 1838, and 1839, relative to the casual poor of the metropolis, recommended the indiscriminate relief of this class of poor, without setting the able-bodied mendicants and trampers to work; and that in consequence of this interference the vagrancy of the metropolis has been greatly increased.

26. The belief, to which we have just referred, appears to have arisen from a misunderstanding either of the real state of the law respecting casual and wandering poor, or of the precise nature of the steps taken by the Commissioners with regard to this difficult subject.

27. In our last Annual Report, we stated our view of the law relating to the relief of casual poor, and we showed that a wanderer, becoming destitute in a parish, though not settled in it, was entitled to relief. We there made the following remarks on this question:—

The laws relating to the relief of the poor confer a right to relief irrespective of settlement. All destitute persons have a right to be relieved at the cost of the parish in which they are. This right in the first instance is absolute; but if a person so relieved has a settlement in another parish, the officers of the parish to which he has become chargeable can, if they think fit, remove him to the place of his settlement. According, therefore, to the established law, a wandering poor person who applies for relief in a parish, metropolitan or rural, although he has not acquired any settlement in it, must, if he be destitute there, receive parochial relief. It is doubtless desirable, as far as possible, to avoid all encouragement of habitual mendicancy and vagrancy, by affording undue facilities for obtaining relief to persons leading a life of this sort, which is always accompanied with laziness and vice, and almost always with crime. But a wandering mendicant, if he become destitute and applies for relief, has as good a legal right to it as any other poor person in a similar condition.*

28. With respect to the proceedings of the Commissioners for enforcing the legal relief of the casual poor of the Metropolis, the Commissioners (as we showed in our last Annual Report, par. 29) confined themselves, in their letter to the Commissioners of Police of Sept. 6, 1837, to a statement of the law, and the obligation of the officers under it. In the same letter they likewise pointed out the necessity of punishing vagrants properly so called.†

29. The same views were afterwards expressed by the Commissioners, in a circular letter to the Metropolitan Boards of Guardians, dated December 12, 1838, in which especial stress was laid on the performance of work by the persons receiving relief. One passage of this letter is as follows:—

“These arrangements contemplate the performance of work proportioned to the bodily ability of the applicant in a part of the workhouse appropriated to that use, previously to the administration of relief in kind to the casual poor, in all cases excepting those of sudden or pressing emergency, to which succour must be administered without delay, independently of all ordinary considerations.

“The Commissioners conceive these arrangements, when generally adopted, will promote the success of the exertions of the police for the suppression of habitual mendicancy, inasmuch as the difficulties and hazard attending the profession of a common beggar would be greatly augmented thereby.” (Fifth Annual Report, Appendix A., No. 10.)

* Twelfth Ann. Rep., p. 17, ed. 8vo.

† Concerning the large amount of vagrancy, and its increase, before 1834, see the Report of Mr. Codd, Appendix E. to the Report of the Commissioners of Poor Law Inquiry, p. 36.

The whole tenor of this letter will show that the Commissioners were desirous to secure relief for the destitute, and to exact work from such as might be able to perform it; a distinction is drawn throughout between the really destitute poor and those who may be habitual vagrants or common beggars.

30. In the Circular Letter of 1839, the propriety of imposing a task of work is also impressed upon the Guardians, as will be seen by the following extracts:

“The Commissioners request the Board of Guardians to warn their officers, that no consideration of past service will be deemed by the Commissioners a sufficient reason for their hesitating to remove any officer who, after this period, shall have neglected his primary duty in relieving any case of urgent casual destitution brought under his notice, by affording such relief within the workhouse, in all cases in which there is ability to labour, or in which relief within the workhouse is desirable, such as cases of houseless destitution and casualty, or by affording such relief as may be appropriate in other cases in articles of absolute necessity.”

“The necessary arrangements having been made, the Commissioners hope the Board of Guardians will not hesitate to issue to the rate-payers of their parish or union, tickets entitling all wayfarers to be received into the workhouse, and there provided with necessary relief and assistance, and at the same time set to work proportioned to their bodily strength.” (Sixth Annual Report, Appendix A., No. 6.)

31. It is apparent from these extracts that the letters of 1837-38 and 1839 did not recommend indiscriminate relief of vagrants, without setting the able-bodied to work, but that they distinctly inculcated the necessity of providing such work, and kept this principle in view throughout. It is right, however, to add, with reference to the letters in question, that when those of 1837 and 1838 were issued, only one of the present Commissioners was a member of the Commission, and he was absent on duty in Dublin in the latter year; whilst, as regards that of 1839, only one other of the Commissioners, now members of the Board, was then acting in England.

32. The expediency of enforcing a task of work from casual poor and trampers admitted into a workhouse was always recognised by the Commissioners; but the difficulty consisted in its practical application. As persons of this class usually applied for admittance at a late hour in the evening, and departed at an early hour in the following morning, they thereby obtained a supper, a night's lodging, and a breakfast, without the possibility of being required to work. The Commissioners, aware of this difficulty, on the 15th of February, 1841, addressed a circular letter to the Boards of Guardians throughout the country, intended to ascertain their views with respect to a remedy for this evil. The following are the most important passages of this letter :—

“There is a class of paupers who contrive to enjoy the physical comforts of the workhouse, without performing the labour, or submitting to the discipline which are in general the necessary conditions for obtaining those advantages.

“Those paupers do not, as a class possess or deserve the compassion of the public; and even if it were desirable to relax the discipline of the workhouse, and to convert it into an almshouse or lodging-house for paupers, they are probably the last class of persons to whom it would be thought expedient to extend this supposed indulgence at the expense of the frugal and industrious part of the community.

“These are the mendicant vagrants, who are known to be generally persons of dissolute character, to lead habitually a life of laziness and imposture, and not unfrequently to resort to intimidation and pilfering.

“Vagrants of this sort usually apply for admission into the workhouse at a late hour in the day; obtain a supper and a night’s lodging, and leave the workhouse at an early hour in the following morning, without performing any work in return for the relief which they have received. In this manner, wandering beggars convert the workhouse into a lodging-house or inn, where they take up their quarters at the end of the day’s tramp, and are maintained at the public cost without any inconvenience to themselves, or any interruption to their ordinary mode of life. * * *

“For the purpose of diminishing the evils of mendicant vagrancy, the Commissioners have recommended the establishment of a ward for vagrants in the workhouse, and the admission of vagrants by tickets distributed among the rate-payers. This system has been introduced into many Unions.

“The Commissioners have likewise advised that every vagrant should as far as possible, be required to perform some work in return for the relief which he obtains. The Commissioners have also, in a few instances, sanctioned a difference in diet between vagrants and other able bodied inmates.

“The restrictions on vagrants relieved in workhouses, which the present law permits, have, however, not proved sufficient to prevent a great pressure on the workhouses by paupers of this class; and the Commissioners entertain no doubt that the indisposition to give immediate relief to non-settled poor (which indisposition, notwithstanding their repeated admonitions on the subject, still continues to a considerable extent) arises in great measure, from the consciousness of the Guardians and their officers that the law does not enable them to provide for vagrants such a mode of relief as is suited to the circumstances of their case.”

After stating that the Commissioners had recommended to Her Majesty’s Government a clause making the cost of casual poor a charge upon the common fund of a Union, the letter proceeds thus :—

“ It appears, however, to the Commissioners, that some further provision is needed, which should enable the Guardians to prevent vagrants, relieved in a workhouse, from avoiding the labour and restraint to which all other able-bodied inmates of a workhouse are subjected.

“ The Commissioners are desirous of making some recommendations to Her Majesty’s Government on this matter, with reference to the Bill now before Parliament; but before they make any such recommendation, they request to be informed of the opinion of the Guardians upon the two following points:—

“ 1. Whether it would be reasonable to confer on the Guardians, a power of detaining an able-bodied vagrant for six hours, during working time, on the day following the day of his or her admission therein.

“ 2. Whether such a power of detention would be effectual in preventing the abuse of workhouse relief by vagrants which takes place under the existing law.”

33. This letter, together with an abstract of the answers to it made by the Boards of Guardians (which were generally favourable to the power of detention for a limited time), was presented to the House of Commons in the session of 1841 (Parl. Paper, No. 149), and the Commissioners afterwards submitted to Sir James Graham a clause for giving effect to the suggestion. The clause was embodied in the Poor Law Bill introduced by Her Majesty’s Government in 1842, and formed part of the Act of 5 and 6 Vic., c. 57. It stands thus in the statute referred to:—

“ Be it enacted, that it shall be lawful for the Guardians of any parish or Union, subject always to the powers of the Poor Law Commissioners, to prescribe a task of work to be done by any person relieved in any workhouse, in return for the food and lodging afforded to such person; but it shall not be lawful to detain any person against his will, for the performance of such task of work for any time exceeding four hours, from the hour of breakfast in the morning succeeding the admission of such person into the workhouse.”—S. 5.

34. The clause which we have just recited contains the only power under the existing law for detaining casual poor in a workhouse in order to set them to work. The Commissioners have never ceased, since it was passed, to urge its adoption upon the Boards of Guardians; and in so doing, they have met with considerable reluctance to make the exertions and arrangements requisite for giving employment to the very troublesome class of paupers in question.

35. In our Eighth Annual Report, dated May, 1842, we spoke of the difficulty attending the relief of this class of paupers, in the following terms:—

“ In giving advice and instruction on this subject, we had to avoid two opposite sets of evils. In the first place, we ran a risk of encouraging mendicancy and imposture, and on the other, if we neglected to recognise a sufficient right to relief on the part of any person becoming destitute in a parish where he had no settlement, and where he did not come with the intention of residing, we should have encouraged some of those abusive practices by which overseers endeavoured indirectly to shift these casual burdens on the neighbouring district, and professed to consider some claim to settlement as a condition precedent to the right of relief."

We also pointed out in the same report (which was presented before the passing of the Act of 5 and 6 Vict.) the fact that the nature of the present workhouse buildings was, in many instances, ill calculated for the reception of these paupers, and that there was no effectual power to detain them, or to require work in the morning from them.

36. The evils of a lax administration of relief to trampers and casual poor, were again illustrated, in the Commissioners' Report of 1844,* by statistics showing the decrease which had invariably followed the exaction of a task of work, and we pointed out the evils attendant on the relief of such paupers in the vagrant wards of each separate metropolitan workhouse. These conclusions were not adopted without sufficient evidence, but were the result of repeated correspondence with the Boards of Guardians, and inquiry into the whole subject through our Assistant Commissioner.

37. The practical difficulties which attend the relief of casual and wandering poor, not only in the metropolitan parishes but generally throughout the country, are very great. That it is not easy to make provision in workhouses for setting this class of poor to work, may be inferred from the fact, that the parish of Marylebone, which resisted the establishment of separate District Asylums, has made no attempt to exact any labour from the able-bodied tramps admitted into the vagrant ward of its workhouse. The same is likewise the case in the workhouse of St. Pancras.†

38. The vagrant wards in Marylebone workhouse were established early in last year, just at the time of the appointment of the Select Committee of the House of Commons to inquire into the subject. Some extension of the provision for this class was made in the workhouse of St. George, Hanover-square, at a more recent period. Other metropolitan workhouses are still without vagrant wards: in several the wards are situated in the basement; and in many, though above ground, they are very far from suitable to their purpose, for want of space, ventilation, and light. This difference in the means of relief possessed by the metropolitan workhouses is still a source of complaint, on the ground of the inequality it causes in the incidence of the burden, and the undue annoyance as well as expense brought by the default of others upon the parishes which endeavour to make proper provision for this class of poor. The unsuitableness of the accommodation is still alleged as tending to the origination and propagation of disease; and the large number of offenders committed to metropolitan prisons, chiefly as we have ascertained from this department of the workhouses, has been noticed during the last year in the Report of the Visiting Justices for the House of Correction in Middlesex, and by the Inspectors of Prisons with reference to the gaol at Brixton. We are not aware of any powers vested in us, by the exercise of which the evils of unequal burden, insalubrious accommodation, and want of proper means of dealing with the insubordinate, can, under existing circumstances, be remedied.

39. We have endeavoured to ascertain what is the actual extent of the accommodation for vagrants in the workhouses of all the Unions and parishes included in the Metropolitan Asylum Districts; for it might have appeared that the existing accommodation was, on the whole, adequate, and that the difficulty of the case might be got rid of by making arrangements for a proper distribution of the applicants for relief among the several workhouses proportionally. But, apart from all considerations of the practicability of making such distribution (which is very doubtful), and of the unfitness of the existing accommodation, our inquiries have led us to conclude that the accommodation, such as it is, is not sufficient.

40. According to the statements contained in the Returns made to us on this point, the number of persons that might be lodged for the night in these wards is 1538. But, taking into account merely the superficial dimensions of the wards, it appears to us that not more than 1416 persons could be accommodated; and if we consider also the height of the wards, and allow only 216 cubic feet of space for each person, that is, a space of 8 feet long, by 3 feet in width and 9 feet in height, 1140 would be all that could be lodged in all the wards. In considering the Asylum Districts, when we addressed ourselves to the duty of forming them in 1845, we were disposed to acquiesce in Mr. Hall's estimate of the probable number of persons for whom it would be necessary to provide, namely, 1600. Assuming that this estimate was not incorrect—assuming, also, that no space is lost in the existing wards (which is to assume that they are all of proper shape, and of the same height)—still the extent of accommodation, allowing 216 cubic feet for each individual, falls short by about one-third of the number to be accommodated. There are reasons, moreover, for concluding that the estimate of 1600 as the maximum is not high enough; for the average number of poor persons of this class lodged nightly in the wards of the London workhouses in February last was 690; while the voluntary asylums were lodging at the same time, on the average, 1120 persons nightly, making together 1810 persons; so that, after all the vagrant wards in the workhouses had been filled, there would have been, but for the voluntary asylums, nearly 700 persons unrelieved on the average. If the maximum number for whom relief was required on any one night had been ascertained, of course the relative deficiency of accommodation would have been shown to be greater.

41. The evidence taken by the District Asylum Committee, and the experience of the last year, have only served to strengthen our conviction of the expediency of a separate set of establishments for this class of poor in the metropolis. We believe that the District Asylums might be so regulated and managed as to be more effectual than any other establishments for the relief of real destitution, with the least possible encouragement to mendicancy and imposture. It is not improbable that a change might be advantageously made in the law of vagrancy; but any such change in the direction of increased severity is scarcely consistent with the present tendency of legislation; and it would imply that a discretion far wider than is now given in deciding who is really destitute, and who is an habitual trumper or imposter, should be conferred on the magistrates. Such a discretion must be exercised on presumption rather than on proof; and the decisions, if they are to have any effect, must carry with them the sanction of some more effective punishment in the shape of labour than is now imposed in most of the prisons.

42. The question respecting the relief of casual poor in the Metropolis must be considered at present as in an unsettled state; and we will therefore confine ourselves to the expression of our conviction on the following points:—

First. We believe that the system of relief now carried on in the vagrant wards of workhouses in the Metropolis ought not to be allowed to continue.

Secondly. We believe that the nature of those buildings, the other occupations of the officers, and the number of establishments, is such as to make impossible the general enforcement of a proper task of work, the efficient superintendence over the vagrants, or the easy recognition of such as may be habitual trampers; and that, on the other hand, to stop the relief administered to this class, without providing some substitute for the present system, would lead to the risk of withholding relief from really destitute wanderers.

Thirdly. We believe that the Asylum Districts, contemplated by 7th and 8th Vict., c. 101 (the constitution of which is in legal existence), would enable material improvement to be made in the system pursued, and would facilitate rather than impede any further amendment in the law relating to vagrancy in the metropolis.

43. With regard to the casual poor, and trampers relieved in the workhouses throughout the country at large, the following statement will show their number for the weeks ending respectively December the 20th, 1845, and December the 19th, 1846:—

From this return (which includes the entire kingdom, with the exception of about 30 unions or parishes), it will be seen that the total number of this class of poor admitted into the workhouses, in any one night, is not large; the highest amount being less than 2400. It likewise appears that the number admitted was somewhat larger in December, 1846, than in December, 1845, which, on account of the causes above adverted to in this Report, was naturally to be expected.

44. In our last Annual Report, (par. 44), we adverted to some modifications of our order of 31st December, 1844, respecting pauper apprenticeship, which we had been induced to make; we have received no further representations respecting the general operation of the order in question, and we have every reason to believe that it is upon the whole working satisfactorily.

45. The forms prescribed for keeping the Parish and Union accounts, and the regulations for closing and auditing those accounts, have been for some time before the Commissioners. In our last Annual Report we stated our intention of issuing a revised order of accounts, with as little delay as might be compatible with the importance of its provisions. This order has now been issued, and we believe it will be found calculated to ensure greater regularity on the part of the officers, and to afford additional securities against fraud and speculation of every kind.

46. Many Boards of Guardians had a stock of books in hand, which were not used, and some loss to the public would have ensued from bringing the order into compulsory operation at once; we have therefore so framed it, as to allow of the old books and forms being used until the 25th of March, 1848, after which date its provisions will become imperative.

47. We will state briefly a few of the points to which our attention has been directed in framing the amended order.

48. In the first place, we have now prescribed a particular form of accounts for the persons acting as collectors, or assistant overseers, whom we consider as the paid servants of the annual overseers for the time being; but we have made the latter responsible for checking the rate receipt check-book entrusted to the collector. We have required every collector to pay over the moneys collected by him weekly, or so often as the amount in his hand, on account of any parish or parishes, shall exceed 50*l*. We have also directed him to lay a monthly settlement of his receipt and collection before the overseers, and when he is appointed by the Guardians, before the Board of Guardians.

49. With reference to the provision accounts, we have made the forms more minute than those previously in use, so as to show the quantity of provisions taken out of the store for each meal. We were aware of the objections which exist to occupying too much of the time of the master of the workhouse with the details of books; on the other hand, we had to bear in mind, the quantity of stores which passes through the hands of such an officer, and the extreme difficulty of tracing back to its source any error or falsification in the account of such minute articles. Upon the whole, we are satisfied that a diligent and punctual master may keep the forms now prescribed with very little more labour than was necessary to fill up those contained in the former order, if the quantities in the latter were properly entered, and were not (as was too often the case) a mere estimate framed from the dietary. The only efficient check on an officer, like a master of a workhouse, consists in requiring the entry at the time of all minute particulars, so that subsequent falsification or alteration of the accounts shall be rendered impossible.

50. The clothing accounts, also, have been made more precise, and more easily intelligible, with a view to the taking of stock by the Guardians.

51. We have often regretted the impossibility of arriving at an exact statement of the number of persons chargeable at one time throughout England; and we adverted to this inaccuracy in our last Annual Report. The Quarterly Abstract (form B. 11), as prescribed by the former order of accounts, was necessarily more or less incorrect. This incorrectness arose from several sources.—In the first place, many persons appeared in the abstracts of more than one Union, having been chargeable during the quarter to more than one in succession; in the second place, the same person might appear twice in the same abstract—once, as classed amongst paupers receiving out-door relief, and again, as admitted into the workhouse. We have no doubt that from these sources of error, and from other causes, the number of paupers has been somewhat exaggerated in all our returns. We have endeavoured to obviate these difficulties in our present order; and, whilst we have separated the statistical portion of the abstract from that part which gives the pecuniary result of the accounts, we have required the clerk to deduct such classes of persons as appear twice in the gross number of paupers. We have also required that a statement should be given of the actual number of persons chargeable on the 1st of January and 1st of July in every year.

52. With reference to the audit of accounts we have inserted a provision in our order to the following effect :—

“ Provided always, that if the Auditor shall see fit, in any special case, with the consent of the Poor Law Commissioners, to hold an extraordinary audit, either of the whole or of any portion of the accounts of any Union or Parish, in addition to the ordinary audit, at any time between such two days, it shall be the duty of any person who would be, or who would have been accountable at the ordinary audit, to account at such special audit in like form and manner as at such ordinary audit, so far as the same shall be applicable to such special audit; and the surcharge, allowance, disallowance, or decision of the auditor on any item, or other matter, at such special audit, shall, so far as regards the provisions and regulations which may be contained in any order of the Poor Law Commissioners, have the same effect as if the same were made or given at the ordinary audit of the accounts of such Union or parish.

The object of this direction is to enable an auditor to examine the accounts of any officer suspected of peculation, and to strike a balance against a defaulter or an officer who is about to be dismissed, at any time, with the same legal consequences as if the balance were struck at the regular half-yearly audit. Without some such provision, the Guardians must have waited for the next audit until they could obtain the authoritative judgment of the auditor on any illegal items of account. It will be necessary that these extraordinary services, when required by the Commissioners, should be paid for as something not included in the auditor's salary.

53. We have required, in Article 43, that the auditor shall, at the close of each audit of the accounts of the Unions in his district, transmit to the Poor Law Commissioners a statement of the books directed by their orders to be kept by the Union officers, showing which, if any, are not kept at all, or are imperfectly kept.

54. We have moreover taken such precaution as we have thought practicable for ensuring the validity of the bonds and the solvency of the sureties of officers giving security to the Guardians, by providing—

“That the auditor shall, at the close of the audit of the accounts of the Unions in his district next after the 25th of March in every year, transmit to the Poor Law Commissioners a statement setting forth the name of each Union officer and collector of poor rates in his district required to give a bond, and whether such bond, together with any certificate or proof that each of the sureties named therein is living, and is not bankrupt or insolvent, was produced to him at such audit; and also a statement of any defects in such securities: he is also required to report to the Board of Guardians the fact of such bonds and certificates having been produced to him, together with any defects in such securities.”

55. The order itself, and the instructional letter which accompanied it, will be found in the Appendix to this Report.*

56. In our Report of last year we explained the steps which we had taken for the appointment of district auditors, in pursuance of the statute 7 and 8 Vic., c. 101. We also stated our conviction that the operation of the audit by this class of officers was likely to be extremely beneficial; we anticipated that illegal practices would be checked, and irregularities in the accounts more strictly investigated (par. 36-40). We have not been deceived in these expectations. Every audit under the present system tends to show more clearly to the overseers that the lawfulness of payments out of the poor-rates must be considered by them before the money of the rate-payers is expended. The Union officers feel that any error or laxness in the accounts which their duty requires them to keep, will probably lead to a disallowance or surcharge against themselves, if not to more serious consequences.

57. The auditors are bound by the statute to report to the Poor Law Commissioners any disallowance or surcharge. On receiving such report, we usually cause a letter to be addressed to the Clerk to the Guardians of the Union, to ask whether the sum so disallowed or charged has been paid over to the treasurer of the Union, in accordance with the provisions of the Act of Parliament. If this is not done within a given time it becomes the auditor's duty to proceed to the recovery of the money. For the most part, the sums certified to be due by the auditor are paid without hesitation: several cases have occurred in which proceedings before justices under the statute have been instituted by the auditors; a few of these have failed, mainly on technical objections, whilst, on the other hand, the recovery from Guardians or overseers of money unlawfully expended has often been enforced.

58. In our last Report, we stated the nature of certain legal questions which had arisen respecting the appointment of district auditors, and we adverted especially to the case of the Winslow Union, in which our order for the appointment of a district auditor was resisted without success. In two other cases, legal proceedings, which involve the right of the Poor Law Commissioners to direct the appointment of a district auditor in places under a local Act, are now pending. The two places in question are Bristol and Hull. The Board of Governors of the former incorporation took part in the election of the district auditor, and thus conformed to the order in the first instance; in the latter case, the Board of Guardians refused to take any steps under the order. Rules nisi were, in both these cases, granted by the Court of Queen's Bench in Hilary Term last, and we believe that the decision of the Court is likely to be given in the present term.

59. An important portion of our duty, in connexion with the audit, has been to receive applications in the nature of an appeal under section 33 of 7 and 8 Vict., c. 101. We have considered that, as the object of the provision was remedial, the Auditor might be called upon to state his reasons even after the conclusion of the audit, and we have accordingly received applications from parties who had neglected, at the time of the audit, to require that the reasons for the allowance or disallowance of any item should be stated in the book by the Auditor. Several such appeals have been made to us in a formal shape. In many of them, the party complaining has been satisfied with the expression of our opinion, without wishing us to issue a formal order. In ten cases, however, such orders have been issued, of which seven went to establish the lawfulness of the reasons assigned by the Auditor, and three decided against those reasons. None of these orders have yet been removed into the Court of Queen's Bench; a course which it is competent for any party to take who is dissatisfied with our decision.

60. We are advised that, in these appeals, we are only competent to consider the lawfulness or unlawfulness of the reasons assigned by the Auditor, and that we cannot go into equitable considerations, or make allowance for the good intentions of the officers against whom any surcharge or disallowance may be recorded. We have had, in some cases, reason to regret the hardship which is thus necessarily brought on individuals by the introduction of a system of greater strictness; but we are satisfied if a discretion had been left to the Commissioners, the result would have been great uncertainty on the part of the Auditors and the officers themselves; each individual case would have presented some exceptional features in the eye of the person or body expending the money, and each person or body would have calculated on the probability of the equity being strong enough in the particular instance to secure a favourable decision from the Poor Law Commissioners. As it is, these cases of hardship will gradually cease. The Auditors, each acting over a large surface of country, will make known the principles on which their audit will be conducted; and the chance of success on appeal to the Commissioners will be a matter capable of being ascertained with more certainty, in proportion as more decisions are given with reference to similar cases.

61. In the present spring, a deputation of the District Auditors have made a representation to us of the inadequacy of their present salaries. These gentlemen stated that, independently of the great expense of their travelling and living at inns (all of which is included in their salary), the correspondence arising out of the audits occupied much of the time which remained after they returned home from the actual business of the audit; the duty, too, of personally conducting proceedings for recovering, before justices, balances, &c., which are not discharged, supplementary as it is to the audit, breaks in materially on the time which they might be supposed capable of devoting to some other occupation. They further urged, that, as their salary will now be paid, the income-tax will be deducted from the whole, although a large portion of such salary is in reality the repayment for expenses actually out of pocket. We are of opinion that these representations are entitled to consideration. At the same time, we think that any increase might fairly be accompanied with the condition that, in the event of further service being required of them, they should hold themselves in readiness to audit the accounts of the surveyors of the highways, and perhaps of some other local officers, without additional remuneration. In fact, such duties might be performed without casting on the Auditors, or on the public, any additional travelling expenses; one half-yearly visit to the spot would suffice for the audit of the parish and Union accounts, as well as for those of the highways. In our Report of last year, we spoke of the district auditors as persons whose services might be easily made available in this manner.

62. In the last Session of Parliament, the House of Commons voted a grant of 61,500*l.* for the payment of a moiety of the salaries of medical officers, exclusive of extra fees payable under the Commissioners' order, and the whole of the salaries of workhouse schoolmasters and schoolmistresses, and district Auditors. This grant was for the salaries of the half-year ended the 31st of March last.

63. By a circular letter,* dated the 7th of November last, the Commissioners explained to the Board of Guardians the nature of the arrangements which Her Majesty's Government had sanctioned for the distribution of the grant. Under these arrangements, the sum payable to each Union in respect of the salaries of the medical officers, and the schoolmasters and schoolmistresses, will be paid over once in each year by the Paymaster of the Civil Service to the treasurer of the Union. The treasurer will place the amount, so paid over to him, to the credit of the establishment account of the Union. On this account, the Board of Guardians will draw cheques for the salaries in question, in the same manner as those for the other paid officers of the Union.

64. For the half-year ended the 31st of March last, the salaries, as existing on the 1st of October last, have been taken as the standard of the payments to the Union treasurers. In order to enable the Commissioners to ascertain the amount actually paid by the Board of Guardians, in each case, to each of the officers entitled to the grant, the Commissioners require the clerk of the Board to furnish them at the close of each quarter, with a statement, in duplicate, authenticated by the signature of the Chairman, setting forth, in the case of the medical officers, the name of the officer, the name of his district, the date of his appointment, the amount per annum of his salary exclusive of fees, and the amount of his salary for the preceding quarter; and in regard to the schoolmaster and schoolmistress, their names, the date of their appointments, the amount per annum of their salaries, and the sums payable to them in respect of the preceding quarter. Copies of these quarterly statements will be sent to the Auditors to be compared with the vouchers for the salaries actually paid to the officers; and from the statements thus examined by the Auditors, the Commissioners will be able to prepare annually an estimate for the use of Her Majesty's Treasury, and to guard against the application of an undue proportion of the grant in any case.

65. According to the principle sanctioned by Her Majesty's Government, it is necessary, in order that any parish or Union should participate in the grant for the officers' salaries, that the salaries should have been previously approved by the Commissioners; and the Commissioners, therefore, on the 7th of November last, addressed a circular letter* to all parishes and other places governed under local Acts of Parliament, whose officers' salaries are not, as is the case in Unions, submitted for the approval of the Commissioners, informing the local authorities that if they desired to receive a share of the grant for their officers, the salaries of those officers must, in the first instance, be reported to the Commissioners for their approbation.

66. While the medical officers, schoolmasters, and school-mistresses are to be paid by the Paymaster of the Civil Service, through the Union treasurers, it has been deemed the most convenient course to pay the salaries of the district auditors through the Commissioners. The limited number (50) of the auditors, and the fact that their salaries are made up of small fixed payments in respect of several hundreds of Unions, rendered the former plan almost impracticable; moreover, it would not have provided that satisfactory accounting which the latter course will secure.

67. The salaries of the auditors were fixed in every case by an order under the seal of the Commissioners, and the several unions were directed by the order to pay their respective contributions towards the salary; and the Commissioners have, therefore, by a general order† dated the 10th of February last, suspended so much of all such orders as related to the payment of the salaries of auditors. They have also, by a circular letter dated the 18th of February last, required the auditors to furnish them with a statement in regard to the audit of the accounts of the Unions in their respective districts, for the half-year ended the 29th of September last, showing the names of the Unions in the district, the date when the audit was completed; if the audit of the accounts of any Union had not been completed, the cause thereof: if any Union had paid the salary in respect of the audit, the amount so paid, and the name of a banker in London to whom the salary might be paid by the Commissioners. A return of these particulars enabled the Commissioners to pay the salaries which accrued to the auditors in respect of the last-mentioned audit; and a similar return will be called for half-yearly.

68. By a letter* dated the 7th of November last, we called the attention of our Assistant-Commissioners to the grant made for the repayment of the salaries of the Poor Law medical officers, and the schoolmasters and schoolmistresses of workhouses. In the same letter we stated further that it was the intention of Her Majesty's Government, in proposing these votes, to contribute to an improvement in the character of the workhouse schools, and in the supply of medical relief to the poor; and we instructed the Assistant-Commissioners to report with respect to those Unions, in their respective districts, in which the schools are least effective, and the medical relief least satisfactory, in order that the Commissioners might take steps for improving both these branches of the Union management. By a later letter* dated the 17th of December, we communicated to our Assistant-Commissioners, the intention of Her Majesty's Government, to appoint separate inspectors of the workhouse schools, under the control of the Committee of Council for Education, as well as your wish that no expectation should be held out that the salaries of the workhouse schoolmasters and mistresses would be repaid after the current half-year, without some enquiry into their efficiency. We have lately received several reports from our Assistant-Commissioners, containing detailed accounts of the state of the arrangements for the medical relief and workhouse instruction in the different Unions, and we are gradually taking measures for removing the defects pointed out. With respect, however, to the teachers in the workhouse schools, we abstain from establishing any general principle, or interfering on a large scale, until the inspection of the officers appointed by the Committee of Council shall have been completed.

69. Upon the subject of medical relief, we have nothing material to add to the explanations in our Annual Reports since 1842. The expenditure under this head has been nearly stationary in the two last parochial years, as appears from the following Table:—

TOTAL EXPENDITURE FOR MEDICAL RELIEF.

Years ending Lady-day.	Amount of Medical Relief.	Years ending Lady-day	Amount of Medical Relief.

* App. A. No. 4.

70. With respect to vaccination during the past year, we have to report that, as in previous years, we called for returns of the numbers vaccinated by the public vaccinators from the clerks of the several Boards of Guardians, and in the Appendix to this Report,* we have inserted a summary of the returns received from 539 Unions and parishes. The following table shows the numbers vaccinated during the two past years in 580 and 539 Unions respectively, and the ratio of persons vaccinated to the number of births in each year.

Years.	Number of Unions, &c.	Number of Persons Vaccinated.	Number of Persons successfully Vaccinated.	Number of Registered Births.	Ratio of Persons Vaccinated to the Number of Births.	Ratio of Persons successfully Vaccinated to the Number of Births.
1846	539	271,219	258,165	483,480	100 in 178	100 in 187

It will be observed that the number vaccinated by the public vaccinators during last year is less in proportion to the births than in the previous year; but we have no reason to suppose that the diminution has been caused by any want of zeal on the part of the vaccinators.

71. The Boards of Guardians, generally, are alive to the importance of carrying out the provisions of the Vaccination Extension Act to the fullest extent. A few Boards, however, still manifest great indifference on the subject; we more particularly refer to the Board of Guardians of the Todmorden Union, and of the parish of St. George the Martyr, Southwark. On a former occasion,† we felt it our duty to report that the Guardians of the Todmorden Union had not carried the provisions of the Vaccination Act into effect, and we regret that, up to the present time (so far as we are aware), no steps whatever have been taken by them in the matter. The Guardians of the parish of St. George the Martyr, Southwark, in July, 1844, passed a resolution that all cases for vaccination, in connexion with the parish, be performed at the workhouse, in Mint-street, on and after the 29th September then next ensuing, and that the vaccinators in their respective districts appoint the particular day and hours of attendance for such purpose. On being made acquainted with that resolution, we addressed a letter to the Board of Guardians objecting to the arrangement, and we stated that it would put an end to the general vaccination of the residents of the parish, many of whom not being actually paupers, would feel unwilling to take their children to the workhouse, under the impression that by so doing they were placing themselves in the position of paupers.

* App. B. No. 9.

† Eleventh Ann. Rep. p. 27, ed 8vo.

That we were correct in apprehending the almost entire cessation of vaccination by the public vaccinators of the parish from the altered arrangement is proved by the returns of the number of persons vaccinated, since received from the parish. In the year ended 29th September, 1844, at which date vaccination was first restricted to the workhouse, the number of persons vaccinated was 1079, and in 1845 the number fell to 42, and in 1846 it was only 44. We have endeavoured to prevail upon the Guardians to alter their resolution of July, 1844, but we regret to state without effect; we are, however, still in communication with them on the subject, and hope to induce them to revert to the original arrangement, under which the public vaccinators were permitted to vaccinate at their own residences.

72. The fees paid to the public vaccinators during the year ended 25th March, 1846, amounted to 27,486*l.*, being an increase of 1,581*l.*, upon the amount paid to them in the previous year.

73. During the last year some proceedings have taken place with respect to the building of a workhouse in the parish of Kensington, which are sufficiently important to require an explanation in this Report.

74. The parish of Kensington is under a separate Board of Guardians, and its workhouse stands on land belonging to the Trustees of the Camden Charity, but held under them by the Guardians at a rent of 315*l.* a year. This workhouse was found insufficient in size and accommodation; and it became necessary for the Guardians to decide whether they would alter and enlarge the existing workhouse, or purchase a freehold site, and build a new workhouse upon it. The Guardians with our concurrence and approbation, preferred the latter course; and having received from them the written consent, required by the Act of Parliament, we issued an order, dated the 21st of March 1846, authorizing them to purchase a site for a sum not exceeding 4000*l.*, and to build upon it a workhouse, of a size sufficient to hold 400 persons, at a cost not exceeding 9000*l.*

75. A short time afterwards, Mr. Stephen Bird, a parishioner of Kensington, applied to the Court of Queen's Bench for a writ of certiorari to bring up this order, on the ground that the consent of a majority of the owners and rate-payers had not been obtained to the measure. The Court held this objection to be invalid, and discharged the rule with costs against the party making the application (Trinity Term, 11 June, 1846).*

76. Subsequently, on the 21st of July, we received a deputation from the parish of Kensington, who laid before us in writing several objections to the plan of a new workhouse proposed by the Guardians. The chief of these objections were its unnecessary expense, the insalubrity and inconvenience of the site, and the insufficiency of the drainage. These objections were transmitted by us to the Board of Guardians, and the Board of Guardians afterwards sent us an answer (dated the 12th of August), in which the objections to their plan were considered in detail, and which was accompanied by the reports of surveyors and medical men. This answer (a copy of which we communicated to the complaining parties), was considered by us as satisfactory, and we accordingly declined to rescind our order. Other objections to the proceedings of the Guardians were afterwards raised (particularly with reference to an alleged difficulty as to a right of way to the site for the new workhouse); but they were not considered by us to be such as to render it advisable that we should overrule the discretion of the Guardians, or to induce us to alter our opinion of the matter.

77. In consequence of the plan selected by the Guardians requiring a larger outlay than was estimated by their architect, it became necessary for the Commissioners to authorize them to expend a larger sum upon the building of the workhouse, and we therefore, on their application, issued, on the 1st of April last, an order enlarging the previous limit of expenditure by 4000*l*.

78. We are informed that the recent annual election of Guardians in the parish of Kensington has been favourable to the building of a new workhouse, and that the course pursued by the late Board of Guardians appears to have been in accordance with the general opinion of the ratepayers.

79. In consequence of the verdicts of Coroners' juries, we instituted in last winter inquiries into the management of outdoor relief in the parishes of St. Marylebone and St. Pancras, and subsequent proceedings have taken place; on the whole of which we have made to you a separate Report, dated the 9th of April last, and presented to both Houses of Parliament. We had previously made an investigation by means of our Assistant-Commissioner, Mr. Hall, into the management of the workhouse of St. Pancras; and in consequence of the irregularities in the discipline and punishment of pauper inmates which that Report disclosed, we issued our workhouse regulations to that parish, in an order dated the 9th of December, 1846.

80. The principal legislative measure of last Session affecting the Poor Law is the Act relating to the Removal of the Poor, 9 and 10 Vict., c. 66, which received the Royal assent on the 26th of August last. The object of this Act was, without altering the grounds of acquiring a settlement, to diminish the frequency of removals, by rendering the poor irremovable from a parish under certain defined circumstances. The principal classes of poor thus rendered irremovable, may be described in general terms as follows :—

1. Persons who have been resident in a parish for five years.
2. Widows for twelve calendar months after the death of the husband.
3. Persons receiving relief on account of temporary sickness or accident.

81. We addressed a circular letter to the Boards of Guardians, dated the 17th of September, giving an outline of the provisions of the Act, and calling the attention of the Guardians to some of its consequences. Soon afterwards, however, we found that doubts were entertained in many quarters with respect to the construction of parts of the Act, and we accordingly submitted to the Attorney and Solicitor-General six questions arising out of it. Having received their opinion, we communicated the substance of it to the Boards of Guardians, by a letter dated the 20th of October. The most important of the questions submitted to the Crown lawyers related to the construction of the proviso annexed to the first clause of the Act. By this proviso, it was declared (amongst other things), that the time during which a person is in the receipt of relief shall not reckon as a portion of the five years rendering him irremovable: it was certain that this provision applied to a residence subsequent to the passing of the Act, but there was a doubt whether it applied to a residence anterior to the passing of the Act. The Attorney and Solicitor-General were of opinion that the proviso did not apply to a residence anterior to the passing of the Act. We believe that the Bill, as originally framed and introduced into Parliament, would have had a different effect, and would have extended this exception to a residence which had occurred before the passing of the Act. But the Bill was altered in its passage through Parliament into the form in which it now stands; and the distinction which the Act, as it passed, draws between the two periods of residence may unquestionably be defended on this ground, that whereas the residence which had already taken place could not have been influenced by any motive originating in the Act itself, parishes might, after the passing of the Act, give non-resident relief for the purpose of rendering their own settled paupers irremovable from other parishes.

82. As soon as the Act began to be put in force, we found that a disposition existed to make a distinction between the relief of the settled poor of a Union and the non-settled poor, resident in it, who had become irremovable under its operation. In many cases, these non-settled poor were aged persons, who had been receiving relief from other Unions, and who, in consequence of the construction put upon the Act by the Attorney and Solicitor-General, had become irremovable from the parishes where they had resided five years. The relief of this class of poor having been stopped by the Unions in which they were settled, the Unions in which they were resident showed in many cases a disposition either to refuse them relief altogether, or to give them insufficient relief, or merely to offer them relief in the workhouse. In order to counteract this disposition, we issued a circular letter to the Boards of Guardians,* dated the 4th of December, in which we pointed out the impropriety of making a distinction between the relief of the settled and the non-settled but irremovable poor. Afterwards we addressed a similar letter* to the Boards of Guardians, inquiring whether they made any such distinction (dated the 18th of January); and out of 500 Unions from which we received answers to this inquiry, only nine stated that they made such distinction. We likewise addressed a letter* to our Assistant-Commissioners, dated the 17th of February, requesting them, if they had observed such a distinction in any Unions, or any cases of hardship arising under the Removal Act, to report them to us. The answers which have been made to us show that, in general, no such perversion of the Act has come to the knowledge of the Assistant-Commissioners. We have received a few complaints with regard to single cases of hardship under the Act, arising from the stoppage of relief, at the moment of the change of chargeability. We have heard likewise of some cases in which the change of law has led to the discharge of labourers who had been employed, not because their services were wanted, but in order to keep them off the poor-rates.

83. These, however, and other similar inconveniences, were the temporary consequences of the adjustment necessary in order to carry the Act into effect; and could scarcely fail to arise under any alteration creating an extensive transfer of pauper chargeability from one to another set of parishes. The difficulty of the adjustment was likewise aggravated by the doubts which existed as to the interpretation of the Act. Now that the adjustment has been effected, and that the construction of the Act recommended by the Crown lawyers has been almost universally adopted, the practice of the Boards of Guardians is, as we believe, tolerably uniform. In accordance with our recommendations, they relieve the settled and non-settled, but irremovable, poor in the same manner, and they continue the relief to their non-resident poor who have not become irremovable.

84. Many persons who were liable to removal before the passing of this Act, and who were deterred from applying for relief by the fear of removal, have since last autumn become applicants for relief, and in numerous cases have been relieved. This description particularly applies to the Irish, who had been resident for some years in the metropolis and other large towns. With these exceptions, the principal effect of the Act has been to transfer the cost of the relief of the poor from the parishes of their settlement to the parishes of their residence, and not to create any new burden.

85. The Act 9 and 10 Vict., c. 84, which contained some amendments of the statute of the previous year relating to County Lunatic Asylums, removed one of the difficulties which existed in regard to the removal of pauper lunatics, in cases where the lunatic was not such as to require confinement in an asylum, or one likely to be cured by the medical treatment therein. Under the previous statute it was considered by the Justices that they had no discretion, but were bound to issue an order in every case which was brought before them. The 1st section of the new statute declares that it shall not be incumbent upon the Justices, and the other parties who are competent to act in this matter, in all cases to issue the order; and it requires such Justices and parties to satisfy themselves as to the propriety of confining the lunatic in an asylum before they sign the order, except, indeed, a medical certificate be obtained from the medical officer of the Union, in which case this discretion is removed.

86. The Sanitary Act (9 and 10 Vict. c. 96) for the removal of nuisances, conferred certain powers upon Boards of Guardians, to enable them to procure the removal of such private nuisances as are of a nature calculated to injure health. We thought it advisable to issue a circular letter* to all Boards of Guardians to point out the nature of its provisions, and the powers and authorities which the statute conferred upon them; and we urged upon the Guardians the exercise of these powers. A difficulty was suggested as to the proper construction of the statute, with reference to the places in which the Boards of Guardians could act; and we were consulted, on several occasions, as to the extent of its operation in rural districts. We expressed our opinion that the Act had a general operation in all parts of England and Wales: and we are glad to learn, from a communication lately made to us by your direction, that the law officers of the Crown have given the same opinion. We believe that many Boards of Guardians have acted upon the statute with beneficial result.

* App. A. No. 6.

87. We deem it right to notice an Act, passed during the last session to incorporate a society, under the name of The British Guarantee Society, for the purpose of providing security for persons in offices of trust. In that Act an express provision is contained to enable the Boards of Guardians to take the security of this Society in lieu of the security required to be given by the officers of such Guardians; but in such form, and subject to such rules and regulations, as the Poor Law Commissioners shall require, approve, or direct. We have under our consideration at the present time, the proper form of policy to be issued by the society in reference to the officers of unions and parishes.

88. We have to state, with reference to the emigration of poor persons, that very little took place last year under our orders. Indeed, the amount of parochial emigration was much less than in any previous year, and scarcely to an extent worthy of notice. Mr. Buchanan reports (in Parliamentary Paper, Session 1847) that the number of such emigrants who went out under our superintendence, and landed in Canada, was 79; a few proceeded to Australia, under the regulations of the Colonial Land and Emigration Commissioners.

89. Our attention having been called to the Instructions to the Assistant-Commissioners which had been prepared and issued in the year 1841, when the number of the Assistant Commissioners was greater than at present (see the Seventh Annual Report, p. 55), we revised them with reference to the existing state of things, and re-issued the revised Instructions at the beginning of this year. A copy of these Instructions is inserted in the Appendix.*

90. By the sudden death of Colonel Wade, in November last, we were deprived of his valuable services in the inspection of the Welsh district; and we have appointed in his place Mr. Aneurin Owen, a gentleman who was recommended for employment in that part of the country by his previous official experience in Wales under the Tithe Commission, as well as by his knowledge of the Welsh language.

PROCEEDINGS IN IRELAND.

91. We now proceed to report the progress made since the date of our last Report in the administration of the laws for the relief of the poor in Ireland.

92. The amount of expenditure, for the year ended 1st January last, was 435,001*l.*, and the number of poor persons relieved in the workhouses during the same period was 243,933.

* App. A. No. 7.

93. The following is a series of the returns of expenditure and numbers of persons relieved in the workhouses, from the first commencement of the proceedings under the Relief Act to the present time.

The Year ended December 31.	No. of Unions in operation.	Expenditure during the Year.	Number of Persons relieved. during the Year.

94. Since our last Report, the Guardians of the Tuam, Castlereagh, Cahirciveen, and Clifden Unions have opened their respective workhouses for the relief of the poor, and a rate has now been made in the Clifden Union. All the workhouses in Ireland, therefore, are now opened for the relief of the poor, and there is no union in which a rate has not been made. We give, in the Appendix,* a Table showing the dates when each union was formed; the date when the workhouse was declared ready for the reception of inmates; the date when the first rate was made; and the date when the Guardians first commenced the administration of relief.

95. The figures given in paragraph (93) are taken from the Annual Returns made to parliament under 1 and 2 Vict. c. 56. s. 123. Proceeding under the terms of secs. 43 and 44 of the same Act, we have, as each Union came into operation, provided by our General Order of Accounts a half-yearly statement of the expenditure and the number of persons relieved during the half-years ended 25th March and 29th September, respectively, those accounts being subject to a half-yearly audit by the District Auditor. All the Unions being now in operation, and their accounts subject to audit at the periods above mentioned, there seems to be no longer any sufficient reason for continuing the annual yearly return which, under the 123rd section of the Act, is required to be made up to 1st January in each year, a period quite different from that which closes the audited, and therefore most authentic, accounts of the Union expenditure and number of persons relieved. As the period for which the annual Return is required by section 123 does not correspond to the period to which the regular accounts are made up, a further labour is imposed on the clerks of unions in making up these returns, and when made up they are not so authentic and so much to be relied upon as the audited accounts.

96. We have, therefore, to recommend that the law be so far altered as to dispense with the annual Return of expenditure and numbers relieved for each year ended on the 1st January, and to require in lieu thereof the same return for each year ended the 29th September.

97. We remarked in our last Report that the numbers relieved weekly in the workhouses had increased progressively every week of the year to the date of that Report, that is during the months of January, February, March, and April, 1846, on the 4th of which last month it was 50,861. From this time the number of inmates underwent some fluctuation and finally a further increase until the 13th June following the date of that report, the return for the week ended on that day showing the highest point to which the number of persons relieved in the workhouses had ever attained, that is to say, 51,302 persons. From that date, the number of inmates gradually decreased until the 29th August, the return for the week ended on that day showing 43,655 inmates. The entire series of these returns will be found in the Appendix.*

98. In the early part of the month of August it became known that the potato crop in Ireland had suddenly, and to a very wide extent, been injured by a blight, of which the effects became visible during the last two or three days of July and the first six or seven days of August in almost every part of the country.

99. On the 13th August we caused a circular letter to be addressed to the Board of Guardians of every union, with a series of questions regarding the state of the potato crop, applicable to each electoral division in the Union. Early in September we had received replies from nearly every Union relating to each electoral division; thus showing the state of things, already visible or apprehended, in more than 2000 different localities in Ireland. An abstract of these replies is given in the Appendix.†

100. The fearful prospect held out by these returns, was such as led us to consider with great anxiety in what manner the laws in force for the relief of the poor in Ireland, could be made to operate as beneficially and effectually as possible. The power of affording relief from the poor-rates being limited by law to accommodation in workhouses, it was manifest that in a wide-spread and overwhelming state of distress, like that anticipated, such a power could be relied on only to a small extent for relieving the destitution of the people; and that the comprehensive remedial measures adopted by Her Majesty's Government, in the establishment of a general system of public Works, and the organization of Relief Committees, were to be looked to as the principal means of contending with the calamity.

* App. B. No. 20.

† App. A. No. 9.

101. It seemed our duty, nevertheless, to make the utmost use of the powers of relief provided by the law, and we accordingly addressed each Board of Guardians in Ireland on the subject of the returns of the state of the potato crop above adverted to, drawing the attention of the Guardians to the probability of a great increase of distress among the labouring population, and requesting them to be prepared to make the utmost use of the means of relief which the law placed at their command, by at once looking to the state of their contracts for provisions and other supplies, and to their stocks of bedding and clothing; and calling upon them to base their financial and other estimates on the assumption, that the whole accommodation in the Workhouse would be required for a considerable time, commencing with the close of the Autumn.

102. This circular, which will be found in the Appendix,* issued on the 10th of September, and the suggestions contained in it were in some cases promptly acted upon by Boards of Guardians, which had not already been induced, by the manifestations around them, to take active steps to meet the impending calamity. The total amount of the rates made in the months of September, October, November, and December, was 232,251*l.*, and considerable activity in the collection of these rates has generally prevailed, as well as in providing supplies to meet the increased number of inmates.

103. The number of workhouse inmates, which, as we have already stated, underwent a gradual decrease from the 13th of June, reached its minimum on the 29th August, the return for the week ending on that day, being 43,655.

From that point of time the number gradually increased, and on the 17th October we reported four workhouses as already full to His Excellency the Lord Lieutenant. A list of the workhouses, since reported to His Excellency, from time to time, as full, is given in the Appendix,† together with the dates of the several communications.

104. The series of summaries of weekly returns of inmates, given in the Appendix, show the gradual progress of the pressure throughout Ireland; and it will be found that a continual increase took place until the week ended on the 27th February, 1847, when the number reached its maximum, namely 116,321, and that since that date the number has gradually declined. We cannot, however, point to this decrease as evidencing any abatement of the distress, and of the necessity for providing extraordinary measures for relief.

The decrease is probably attributable altogether to other causes, to which we shall have to advert in another part of this Report.

105. In the months of October and November, the pressure upon some of the Workhouses was already so great that the

* App. A. No. 10.

† App. B. No. 15.

Guardians of the Cork Union, and several other Unions in the county of Cork, were induced to attempt a system of out-door relief, by giving food daily on the workhouse premises to persons not admitted as inmates; and this example was followed at Kilkenny, and a few other unions in the county of Tipperary and elsewhere.

106. We felt bound to oppose the introduction of the new system; and in adopting this course we were influenced by the following considerations;—1st. It appeared to us certain that the system was contrary to the intention of the Legislature in passing the Irish Poor Relief Act, and we were desirous of reserving for the Legislature alone the question of whether it was or was not desirable to alter the existing law. 2ndly. We entertained no doubt that the Unions in Ireland (with a few exceptions) were not in such a financial condition as would enable them to defray from their own resources the expenses which the new system would involve. 3rdly. If the system were to be introduced at all, we knew that it would lead to great abuse and confusion, unless accompanied by checks and precautions, which the existing state of the law did not enable us to adopt. We therefore deemed it our duty to point out to the Guardians the inevitable evils of endeavouring to give relief in a manner not contemplated by the Legislature, and we urgently requested the Guardians, in every instance in which the practice was adopted, to discontinue it. The Guardians of such unions, partly moved by these remonstrances, and still more by the abuses and tendency to confusion (involving danger even to the public peace), which a short trial of such a system showed to be practicably inseparable from it, one by one abandoned it, and reverted to the legal course of administering relief only in the workhouse. In the case of the Cashel Union only have we issued an order directly prohibiting the continuance of the new system.

107. The statistics referred to in some of the preceding paragraphs present no adequate notion of the disastrous state of certain individual Unions in Ireland, and the harrowing details which fill the Minutes of the Boards of Guardians, and our other correspondence from such Unions, in cases where the means at the disposal of the Guardians have been found utterly inadequate to meet the pressure of applications from persons in the last extremities of destitution. We cannot, without entering too much into details, particularise each Union in which these events have taken place; neither, at the same time, is it right to omit all record of such suffering as the people have undergone on the one hand, and of the difficulties and embarrassments which the Guardians have had to encounter on the other.

108. There are few situations more painful and afflicting than that of a Board of Guardians, established to administer relief, yet finding themselves in the midst of an appalling state of distress, without funds to relieve the sufferers effectively, or to alleviate in any material degree the universal distress. Possessed of a workhouse, capable of holding only a few hundred inmates at one time, the Guardians are looked to with hope by thousands of famishing persons, and are called on to exercise, for a time, the mournful task of selection from the distressed objects who present themselves for admission as their last refuge from death. It is not now a question whether the parties applying are fit objects for relief. The Guardians have now to determine which of the applicants can be rejected with the least risk of their perishing through immediate want. In a short time the several departments of the workhouse are filled, and then arises a still more painful dilemma than any which has preceded that occurrence. Are persons presenting themselves in the last extremities of want—persons on the point of death through starvation—to be denied admittance to such an institution? Or, on the other hand, ought the lives of some of those already admitted to be sacrificed by over-crowding the workhouse with new inmates, and thereby creating a large mortality by pestilence?

109. That which we believe to be the right course, under such trying circumstances, is the course least in accordance with the feelings of the parties locally conducting the administration of relief;—eye-witnesses of the distress endured, they find it difficult, almost impossible, to resist the immediate impulse of the desire to relieve the individual cases brought before them; thus applicant after applicant is admitted to the workhouse by the Guardians, long after the limit of sanitary safety has been reached.

In the operation of such benevolent but dangerous impulses, it is forgotten that the very object sought, that of making the limited means of relief available to the utmost extent, is most surely sacrificed by this course of proceeding; that effectual relief, even to the extent of the existing accommodation, cannot be given, if contagious disease takes possession of the workhouse; that the relief purported to be afforded in an establishment, when once so infected, is not relief, but a delusion fatal to the recipients; and that the Guardians, in attempting to go beyond due sanitary limits, turn what was designed and adapted for good purposes, into active evil, and deprive themselves of the power of using effectually those means of relief which have actually been placed at their command.

110. We have not failed to urge these views upon the Guardians of Unions in which we have seen this incautious disposition manifested, and we have invariably on such occasions called into action the proper functions of the medical officers of the workhouses, and placed upon them the direct responsibility of advising and warning the Guardians of those limits beyond which their admissions could not be extended without danger to the establishment.

111. We regret to say that in many of the workhouses, more especially some in Connaught and some in the south of Ireland, such has been the frightful state of distress, that all precautions of this nature have been borne down, and the workhouses crowded to an extent far beyond their calculated capacity; and the consequences have been in some cases most disastrous. In all these cases the seeds of contagious disease have been introduced by persons suffering under dysentery or fever when first admitted; and the diseases so introduced have spread to inmates previously healthy, and also to the officers of the workhouse. Not only has the overcrowding of the workhouses been favourable to the spread of contagion, but the amount of hospital room provided has been totally inadequate to a due separation of the diseased from the healthy. The workhouse hospitals were, it will be remembered, provided to meet the casual sickness arising in a number of inmates generally presumed to be healthy, and in ordinary circumstances they have been usually found proportioned to those requirements; but in the present state of things nearly every person admitted is a patient; separation of the sick, by reason of their number, becomes impossible; disease spreads, and the whole workhouse is changed, by rapid transition, into one large hospital, without those preparations and means of arrangement which are essential to the conduct of such an establishment.

112. In a few cases, this state of things has been aggravated to a most serious extent by the illness, retirement, or death of all the principal officers of the workhouse. The usual difficulty of replacing a master or matron, or a medical officer suddenly removed from their duties at a time when every energy is required to preserve the workhouse from confusion and disaster, is now greatly increased by the dangerous nature of the service. The mortality among those officers who have been attacked by disease has been more severe in proportion than among the inmates so attacked. In the whole, 54 officers, including 7 clerks, 9 masters, 7 medical officers, and 6 chaplains have died, out of a number of less than 150 who have been attacked by disease taken in the discharge of their duties in the workhouses from the 1st January, 1847, to the present time.

113. The following series of the summaries of the weekly returns of the workhouses (pp. 42-3) shows the number of inmates, the number of sick, and the number of deaths in the Irish workhouses, during each week from the 4th April, 1846 to the 10th of April in the present year.

114. The rate of mortality shown by these summaries is by no means equally diffused. Generally speaking, it is greatest in those localities in which the distress has been most severe; many of the deaths occurring immediately after admission to the workhouse from the effects of previous exhaustion. The general rate of mortality is also much affected by the deaths in a limited number of houses in which pestilence may be said to have prevailed.

115. The gradual decrease of the number of inmates is, we fear, no indication of any abatement of the distress at the time of our writing this Report, but is owing altogether, probably, to increased precaution on the part of Boards of Guardians, and the fearful experience which many of them have had of the result of over-crowding the workhouses. In some instances, we have, though with much reluctance, issued orders under seal prohibiting the Guardians from admitting inmates beyond a certain limit; and we do not doubt that the present general decrease of numbers is owing to the precautions which we have universally inculcated in this respect.

116. The financial state of many of the Unions has been so depressed and embarrassed as materially to diminish the extent and efficiency of the relief afforded in the workhouses under the pressure of the present calamity. In some of these, as Castlebar, Ballinrobe, and Carrick-on-Shannon, financial difficulties existed before the present season of distress, through want of due energy on the part of the Boards of Guardians in making and collecting the necessary rates to meet their current expenditure, a failure of duty which has been the constant subject of remonstrance from us in our correspondence with the Guardians of those Unions. In the present circumstances of difficulty, Unions situated like those above-mentioned, pressed with a heavy debt to contractors, in arrear with their treasurer, and without adequate funds or credit for the future, have fallen into a state of the most ruinous embarrassment approaching to bankruptcy. Even Unions which had maintained their funds in a fair state of efficiency have, at the present point of time, been reduced to similar difficulties by the failure of the exertions of the Guardians to obtain funds from the rate-payers proportionate to their out-goings in relief of the poor. In some instances we have been compelled by the extreme urgency of the case to supply the Boards of Guardians with bedding and clothing, and with the means of procuring food to satisfy the immediate wants of the inmates, the means of doing so having been furnished us by His Excellency the Lord Lieutenant through the Commissariat Department.

117. In paragraphs 81 to 85 of our last Report, we referred to the generally prosperous state of the finances of the Unions; but the time immediately previous to that Report may be quoted as that from which the prosperity so described began to decline.

118. The following series of the summaries of the monthly returns of poor-rate collection, for 13 months beginning with March, 1846, and closing with March, 1847, shows the gradual decline of the balances to the credit of the Guardians, and affords an immediate view of the financial reverse effected in one year :—

119. Thus it will be seen that in little more than 12 months the total balance in all the Unions, taken as an aggregate, has changed from 52,115*l.* in favour of the Guardians to a net balance of 4,619*l.* against the Guardians.

120. The above table shows, at the same time, that a want of forethought in making rates, and a want of activity in collecting them, has been by no means universal among the Boards of Guardians in Ireland; and the amount of rates both made and collected during the six months following the month of September last, has exceeded by one-third the amounts of corresponding periods in previous years. The decline in the balances, therefore, is owing to the fact that, greatly as the collection of rates has increased, the expenditure has increased in far greater proportion, in consequence of the greater number of persons relieved, the great rise in the weekly cost of maintenance, the expense of providing large additional stocks of clothing and bedding, and the increase of other expenses of the establishment.

121. Under the latter head may be classed the large amount of increased accommodation in fever wards, as well as in addition to the workhouse, which has been either hired or built; and in the latter case, either of a permanent or temporary character, according to the nature and urgency of the requirements in each case. Although the sums so expended have frequently been the subject of loan, they have in other cases been provided directly from the rates; and in all cases an additional source of current expenditure has been created, by the power thus obtained of giving additional relief, and the necessity of increasing the number or pay of the officers in consequence.

122. The reports made by our architect in connexion with these temporary and permanent additions to the workhouses, the circulars addressed by us to the Boards of Guardians on the subject, and a detailed statement of the progress actually made in each Union in providing additional workhouse room, or fever wards, will be found in the Appendix.*

123. We now give the usual summaries of the half yearly accounts for those Unions of which the audited accounts have already reached us.—(See pp. 46, 47.)

124. In the summary for the half-year ended 25th March, 1846, will be seen a further confirmation of the favourable state of the finances of the Unions at that period: the excess of receipts over expenditure for that half year being 36,448*l.* in 118 Unions. In the next half-year, embracing a period less favourable to the collection of rates, and one in which, as already stated, a considerable increase took place in the number of inmates, the expenditure exceeded the receipts to the extent of 26,701*l.* But it was not until after the close of this half-year that that rapid increase began in the number of inmates, which, together with the rise in price of provisions and the difficulty caused by failure of the harvest in the collection of adequate rates, has, notwithstanding the exertions made, caused the expenditure of the Unions to be so greatly in excess of the receipts during the last six months; a state of things totally the reverse of that shown in the summary for the corresponding period of the preceding year. At present, however, the finances of the Unions are undoubtedly in a most unsatisfactory condition. We have reason to believe that the expenses incurred during each month of the present year cannot have been less than 63,000*l.* But the sum collected in January was only 52,439*l.*, in February, 47,264*l.*, and in March (up to the 25th of the month), 52,561*l.* The

125. We give in the Appendix* the usual tables, showing the details of the establishment charges, the weekly cost of maintenance and other particulars. The average weekly cost of maintenance per head, derived from the March accounts, is 1s. 8d., and that derived from the September accounts 1s. 9d. per head. We believe that the average for the period which has elapsed since the 29th September, exceeds 2s. per head weekly.

126. The vaccination expenses, returned for the first half-year, were 1657*l.* in 118 Unions, and for the second half-year 1318*l.* in 113 Unions.

* App. B. Nos. 17, 18, and 19.

127. In the accounts for September, 1846, we have, for the first time, a considerable sum returned under the head of Emigration. These sums were expended by the Guardians of a few Unions only in assisting persons to emigrate, who had previously been inmates of a workhouse for three months, under the provisions of 6 and 7 Vict., c. 92, s. 18.

We have the honour to be,

5. Amount of principal of loans repaid, and the interest thereon.

Article 28.—Within fourteen days after the conclusion of the Audit of the Accounts of the half-year, ending the 25th day of March in every year, the Clerk shall make up in duplicate, from the Balance Sheets of the Receipts and Payments of the Overseers, an Abstract of the separate Accounts of each Parish, for the year ending on such 25th day of March, according to the Form and directions given in the said Schedule B, numbered 18; and one copy of such yearly Abstract shall be signed by the Clerk, and transmitted to the Poor Law Commissioners, and the other copy, signed also by the Clerk, shall be laid before the Board of Guardians, and preserved with the papers belonging to the Union.

Article 29.—Every Master of a Workhouse shall, within seven days after the end of each half-year, insert in the proper columns, according to the Form in Schedule B. numbered 19, called the Parochial List and Statement of Account for every parish in the Union, or, with the consent of the Board of Guardians, in a separate list containing similar columns, to be called the Parochial List of In-door Poor, the name of every pauper chargeable to every such Parish during the previous half-year, together with the number of days each pauper has been maintained in the Workhouse; and every Relieving Officer shall within fourteen days after the end of each half-year, enter in the proper columns of the said Parochial List for every parish in his district, or, with the consent of the Board of Guardians, in a separate list containing similar columns, to be called the Parochial List of Out-door Poor, the name of every pauper contained in the Out-door Relief Lists for the previous half-year, together with the amounts of relief in money and in kind charged as given to each pauper.

Such Parochial Lists, when filled up by the Master and Relieving Officers respectively, shall be delivered by them to the Clerk, who shall examine the entries made therein, and shall certify to the accuracy thereof by his signature. The Clerk shall also make out, in the form given at the foot of such Parochial List, a complete statement of the account of each Parish with the Union, and shall sign the same.

Article 30.—The Relieving Officers of the Union, shall within thirty days after the end of each half-year, under the direction of the Board of Guardians, or of the Clerk, deliver a Copy of each of such Lists and Statement for every Parish in his district to the Overseers thereof, who shall lay the same before the next Vestry Meeting, and preserve the same with the Parish papers.

Article 31.—The Guardians may, if they think fit, pay to each Officer who has not been removed or suspended from his or her office, and who is entitled to receive from them payment of any salary whether by way of annual stipend, poundage, or other emolument, on account of such salary, the amount which may be due at the expiration of every quarter, provided the accounts of such Officer shall have been presented by him or her to the Board of Guardians duly made up. The Guardians may, however, if they think fit, defer the payment of the salary of any officer until his or her accounts shall have been allowed by the Auditor.

AUDITING OF ACCOUNTS.

Article 32.—Every Auditor shall audit the Accounts of all the Unions in his District, and of the parishes comprised therein, once in every half-year ; that is to say, as soon as may be after the 25th day of March and the 29th day of September, respectively. Provided always, that if the Auditor shall see fit, in any special case, with the consent of the Poor Law Commissioners, to hold an extraordinary Audit, either of the whole or of any portion of the Accounts of any Union or Parish, in addition to the ordinary Audit, at any time between such two days, it shall be the duty of any person who would be or would have been accountable at the ordinary Audit, to account at such special Audit in like form and manner as at such ordinary Audit, so far as the same shall be applicable to such special Audit ; and the surcharge, allowance, disallowance, or decision of the Auditor, on any item, or other matter, at such special Audit, shall, so far as regards the provisions and regulations which may be contained in any order of the Poor Law Commissioners, have the same effect as if the same were made or given at the ordinary Audit of the Accounts of such Union or Parish.

Article 33.—The Auditor shall give to the Clerk to the Guardians fourteen days' notice in writing of the time and place, on and at which he intends to commence the Audit of the Accounts of the Union, and of the Parishes therein.

Article 34.—The Officers of the Union and of the Parishes in the Union, who by law are bound to account to such Auditor, shall attend at the time and place appointed by him for the Audit of their Accounts, and shall submit to the Auditor all books, documents, bills and vouchers containing or relating to their Accounts ; and the same shall at the time of the Audit be open to the inspection of any owner of property, or rate-payer interested in such Accounts, but to such extent and in such manner only as will not in the judgment of the said Auditor interfere with the Audit.

Article 35.—In auditing the Accounts, the Auditor shall see that they have been kept and are presented in proper form ; that the particular items of receipt and expenditure are stated in detail, and that the payments are supported by adequate vouchers and authority ; and he shall ascertain whether all sums received, or which ought to have been received, are brought into account ; and he shall examine whether the expenditure is in all cases such as might lawfully be made ; and he shall reduce such payments and charges as are exorbitant, and disallow and strike out such as are contrary to the Orders, Rules, and Regulations of the Poor Law Commissioners, or are not otherwise authorized by law.

Article 36.—The Auditor shall examine and collate the several Books and Papers of Account of the several accounting parties ; and shall ascertain that the several entries correspond with, and balance each other, where such balance may be required.

Article 37.—The Auditor shall compute the said Accounts so as to verify the arithmetical accuracy thereof, and the balance due to or from the officers rendering the same at the time of the Audit ; and he shall state the balance in words at length, and certify the same by his signature or initials, and add the date of the Audit.

Article 38.—The Auditor shall, at each Audit, compare the Balance Sheet herein-before directed to be delivered to him by the Overseers of every Parish with the entries in the Book of Receipts and Payments of the Overseers ; and having certified by his signature or initials at the foot of such Balance Sheet, that it is in conformity with the said Book, shall deliver such Balance Sheet to the Clerk to the Board of Guardians, who shall preserve it, together with the other Balance Sheets of the same half-year with the Books and Papers of the Guardians.

Article 39.—The Auditor shall receive any objection made by a ratepayer or any person aggrieved against the Accounts undergoing Audit, or any item or charge therein, or any vouchers or authority for the same, and shall examine into the merits of such objection, and make a decision respecting the same.

Article 40.—If the Auditor shall doubt the correctness of any Account, or any item or charge in any Account, he shall require the officer rendering the Account, or any other person holding or accountable for any money, books, deeds, or chattels, relating to the Poor Rates or the relief of the poor, to appear before him, and shall call upon such person to produce any accounts, books, or papers which he may lawfully require ; and he shall examine such officer or person, and accounts, books, and papers as may appear or be produced before him, respecting such account, item, or charge.

Article 41.—If the Auditor find that any money, goods, or chattels belonging to the Union, or any Parish therein, have been purloined, embezzled, wasted, or misapplied, or that any deficiency or loss has been incurred by the negligence or misconduct of any officer or other person accounting, and shall surcharge such officer or person with such amount or value in his Account, he shall submit a statement of such amount or value to the Board of Guardians as soon as he conveniently can do so.

Article 42.—The Auditor, having audited the several Accounts in the Ledger, shall sign a certificate at the foot of the Balance Sheet therein, to the following effect :—

“ I have examined the several Accounts of which the foregoing is the Balance Sheet, and I have compared the several payments credited to the Treasurer with the vouchers, and I hereby certify that the entries appear to be correct and legal. And that (when the balance in the Treasurer’s Book does not agree with the balance in the Ledger), subject to the explanation below (the difference to be explained at the foot of the certificate), the balance of the Treasurer’s Account, viz., £ , agrees with the balance which by his own book appears to have been in his hands at the time of closing such account.

“ Dated

(Signed)

Auditor.”

And in the other books the Auditor shall make a note or mark of his having audited the same.

Article 43.—The auditor shall, at the close of each Audit of the Accounts of the Unions in his district, transmit to the Poor Law Commissioners a statement, in the Form numbered 38, Schedule E, of the books directed by this Order to be kept by the Union Officers, showing which, if any, is not kept at all, or is imperfectly kept.

Article 44.—The Auditor shall, at the close of the Audit of the Accounts of the Unions in his District, next after the 25th day of March, in every year, transmit to the Poor Law Commissioners a statement, in the Form numbered 39, Schedule E, setting forth the name of each Union Officer and collector of Poor Rates in his District required to give a Bond, and whether such Bond, together with any certificate or proof that each of the sureties named therein is living, and is not bankrupt or insolvent, was produced to him at such Audit: and also, in the column headed "Observations," stating any defects in such securities.

And the Auditor shall, at the close of such Audit of the Accounts of each Union, report to the Board of Guardians thereof the fact of such bonds and certificates having been produced to him, together with any defects in such securities.

Article 45.—The personal representatives of an Officer accountable under this Order dying before the half-yearly Audit of his accounts, shall, so far as they may be by law required, account, in conformity with the provisions herein contained, in the place of such deceased Officer, and all regulations affecting the Accounts of such Officer, shall, so far as is otherwise lawful, affect the Accounts of the personal representatives of such Officer.

Article 46.—If any person, being Clerk to a Board of Guardians, Master of the Workhouse, or Collector appointed by the Guardians or Relieving Officer, accountable under this Order, shall resign his office or be removed therefrom before the Audit of his Accounts, such persons shall lay before the Board of Guardians, at a time to be fixed by them, a true and complete account of all monies, matters, and things committed to the charge of, or collected, received, held, or distributed by such person on behalf of the Union, or any Parish therein, in such form as he would have had to produce them before the Auditor at the end of the current half-year if he had so long continued in office; and shall deliver over all balances, books, papers, matters and things in his hands to the Board of Guardians, or to the person whom they may appoint to receive the same, subject always to the liability of such person to account to the Auditor at an Audit, and without prejudice to the power of the Auditor to allow or disallow the account of such person or any charge therein, or to surcharge him in respect of any charge to which he might be liable.

Article 47.—Every person voluntarily undertaking to fulfil either wholly or in part the duties of any Officer affected by this Order, shall, so far as relates to the Accounts prescribed by this Order to be kept or presented by any such Officer, keep and present such Accounts in the same form and manner as any such Officer is by this Order directed to keep and present such Accounts.

Article 48.—The Clerk shall, at all reasonable times, at the request of any owner of property or rate-payer in the Union, permit him to inspect the Statements of the Union or Parish Accounts for the twelve months prior to the last Audit.

And, in reference to the purchase and custody of books and papers for the Accounts, We do hereby order and direct, as follows:—

Article 49.—The proper Books and Papers of Account for the Clerk, the Master of the Workhouse, the Medical Officers, and the Relieving Officers, shall be purchased by the Board of Guardians at the common charge of the Parishes in the Union.

Article 50.—The Union Books and Papers of Account in current use shall remain in the custody of the proper Officers accounting, and shall be produced and exhibited at the ordinary meetings of the Guardians, and whenever else the Board of Guardians may require their production, as well as on other lawful occasions.

Article 51.—The Union Books and Papers, containing the Accounts which are closed, shall be deposited for safe custody with such persons, and at such place or places, as the Board of Guardians may from time to time direct.

And, in reference to the meaning of certain words used in this order, We do hereby order and declare, as follows:—

Article 52.—Whenever the word “Overseers” is used in this Order, it shall be taken to mean and include Overseers of the Poor and Churchwardens so far as they are authorized or required by the law to act in the management or relief of the Poor, or in the collection or distribution of the Poor Rate in any parish, and to apply to the majority of the whole body of Churchwardens and Overseers, or of the Overseers only, as the case may be.

Article 53.—The term “Collector,” in the construing of this order, shall be taken to include any person appointed under any Act of Parliament, or any Order of the Poor Law Commissioners, to collect the rates for the relief of the poor in any parish or parishes, whether such person shall be designated collector of poor rates, or assistant overseer, or be called by any other name whatever.

Article 56.—Whenever the word “Guardians” is used in this Order, it shall be taken to include not only Guardians appointed or entitled to act under the provisions of the said last-mentioned Act but also any Governors, Directors, Managers, or Acting Guardians entitled to act in the ordering of relief to the poor from the Poor Rates under any Local Act of Parliament.

Article 57.—Whenever the word “Chairman” is used in this Order, it shall be taken to mean any person acting as Chairman for the time being.

Article 58.—Whenever the words “Board of Guardians” are used in this Order, they shall be taken to mean not only a Board of Guardians competent to act under the provisions of the said Act of the fifth year of His late Majesty, but also a meeting of such Guardians, or such a number of any Guardians as are competent to order relief to the poor from the Poor Rates under any Local Act of Parliament.

ii.—CIRCULAR LETTER from the POOR LAW COMMISSIONERS to BOARDS OF GUARDIANS, relating to the Order of Accounts.

Poor Law Commission Office, Somerset House,

SIR,

The Poor Law Commissioners' Order relating to accounts, now rescinded, was issued generally, in 1836. During the period which has elapsed since the issuing of that Order, experience has shewn that the books and forms prescribed by it are susceptible of being rendered, in some respects, more complete. A change, moreover, has become necessary in consequence of the alteration in the periods of the Audit of Accounts, effected under the authority of the Act of 7 and 8 Victoria, c. 101.

The Commissioners have accordingly framed the Order sent with this letter, and have issued it as a general rule to the Unions throughout the country.

It will be observed, that until the 25th of March, 1848, the adoption of the Books and Forms prescribed by this order will be discretionary with the Board of Guardians, and the Officers of Unions and Parishes, and thus will be avoided much of the inconvenience, which otherwise might be occasioned by the sudden introduction of an entirely new set of books and forms.

The Commissioners will now proceed to point out the chief alterations which this order effects, and explain such of its provisions as seem to require explanation.

Articles 1—4 relate to the books and accounts of Overseers.

The Rate Book.—(Form 1.)—The form of this book differs from that prescribed by the Commissioners in their General Order, dated 22nd April, 1842, relating to the duties of Overseers, and the present Form supersedes the one referred to. The arrears of rates in column No 2, which are not excused, are, according to this Form, to be carried to column 12, headed "recoverable arrears of former rates;" and the sums in that column, and the amount of the new rate as stated in column 11, being added together, will constitute the "amount actually to be collected," to be entered in column 13.

The Overseers' Book of Receipts and Payments—(Form 2)—is to contain an account of all sums received and paid by the Overseers on behalf of the Parish; these, as the law now stands, will be found to come under some of the heads of receipts or payments set forth in Art. 1; and also in the Balance Sheet, Form 3. Every transaction, excepting receipts from poor rate, should be entered under its true date. Monies received from the poor rate cannot be entered in this manner, but the total amount received on account of each rate during the half year, should be entered in one sum. In the memorandum at the foot of the account for the half year, should be entered in respect of each rate,—1, the total amount of the rate; 2, the amount legally excused in such rate; 3, the amount not recoverable; and 4, the sum remaining to be accounted for.

The attention of the Overseers is particularly directed to section 33, of the Act 7 and 8 Vic., c. 101, which requires that the rate-books and other accounts of the Parish, should be made up and balanced seven clear days at least before the day fixed for the audit of accounts, and that the books so made up should be forthwith deposited for inspection at the house of some one of the Overseers, or other Officers or of the Collector or Assistant Overseer, or at some other house within the Parish. The non-observance of these requisitions may subject the Overseers to certain penalties.

The Balance Sheet of the Overseers' Receipt and Payments—(Form 3)—is a modification of the Overseers' present "Quarterly Statement," and is to contain the total amount of each class of the Overseers receipts and payments for the half year, arranged in the order and under the heads indicated in the Form. This balance-sheet will furnish the Clerk of the Board of Guardians with the materials for preparing the Yearly Abstract of the separate accounts of the Parishes—(Form 18)—the headings of which correspond, in all respects, with the items in the "Balance-Sheet." (See Art. 28).

It will be seen, by reference to Art. 19, that the Overseers' Books are to be made up and balanced to the 25th of March, and the 29th of September, in each year.

Article 3.—The Rate Receipt Check Book and General Receipt Check Book.—(Forms 4 and 5).—It will be observed that the Overseers are not bound to use these books when there are less than thirty rate-payers on the Rate-Book. Collectors, however, being paid officers, are, in all cases, bound, by Art. 6, to keep the former of these books.

Article 4.—The Terrier and Inventory—(Forms 6 and 7) which, under the former Order, all Overseers were required to make out at the end of the Michaelmas quarter of every year, are now to be made out when the Overseers are required to do so by the Auditor, or by the Commissioners.

Article 5.—12 contain provisions in regard to "Collectors. It will be noticed that according to Art. 53, the term Collector includes both the Assistant Overseers and Collectors, whether appointed under any Act of Parliament, or any order of the Commissioners.

Article 6.—In Parishes where the number of the rate-payers is large, it will be convenient if the Collector leaves a note, properly dated of the demand for Poor Rate at the house of every rate-payer who may not pay the rate when first demanded.

It is obviously undesirable that a Collector of poor rates should hold money in his hands for a longer time than is absolutely necessary; and the Commissioners have, therefore, by Art 8, required that every Collector shall pay over weekly, all monies in his hands belonging to the Parish, to the Overseers' Banker, or to one of the Overseers themselves; and that, whenever, in the course of any week, the sum of money in his hands shall exceed £50, he shall pay over the sum forthwith. The "Collecting and Deposit Book," (Form 8) is prescribed for the purpose of shewing the amount in the Collectors hands at any time.

The Collector's Monthly Statement—(Form 9)—which will be made up from the materials contained in the "Collecting and Deposit Book" is, in pursuance of Art 10, to be delivered by every Collector to one or more of the Overseers, and by every Collector appointed under an order of the Commissioners it is also to be delivered to the Board of Guardians. The object of this statement is to inform the Overseers and the Board of Guardians of the state of the Collector's account at the close of each month. The Commissioners request the particular attention of Overseers and Boards of Guardians to the necessity of superintending the proceedings of persons employed in collecting the poor rates: full opportunity for doing so will be given by the statement now prescribed, and proper vigilance, on the part of the local authorities, may prevent loss.

The Collector's Unpaid Rates Statement.—(Form 10.)—Under section 32, of the 7 and 8 Vict., c. 101, the Overseers are liable for any money which may be lost through their neglect; and the Auditor is empowered to surcharge them therewith. The object of this statement is to enable the Auditor to ascertain whether any, and what amount of Poor Rates may have been so lost; and, also, whether any Poor Rates remain uncollected, which are recoverable, and which ought to have been collected. It is necessary for Overseers to bear this in mind, as by sec. 61 of 7 and 8, Vic. 101, every Collector or Assistant-Overseer is bound to obey the majority of the Overseers of the Parish for which he acts in all matters relating to the collection of the rates; and it must, at the same time, be remembered that the responsibility of the Overseers for the payment of contributions and other matters, is not diminished by the appointment of a Collector or Assistant-Overseer whom they themselves have the power of controlling.

Articles 13 and 14 relate to the Accounts to be kept by the Clerk.

The Minute Book.—It will be observed, that Art. 13 requires the Clerk to set forth in the Minutes, in addition to the proceedings of the Board, a statement of the books and accounts examined by him.

The General Ledger.—(Form 11)—The principle upon which the Ledgers are to be kept is the same as that exemplified in the Commissioners' former Order. Several additional accounts have, however, become necessary since the issuing of that order. With regard to the "Invoice Account," or "Tradesmen's Accounts," the Commissioners recommend that the Invoices entered in the Master's Day Book (Form 24) should be posted, either to the credit of an "Invoice Account," or, if the Board of Guardians so direct, to the credit of separate "Tradesmen's Accounts," and to the debit of the "Provisions Account," the "Common Charges Account," or such other proper accounts as each case may require.

The Parochial Ledger.—(Form 12) is intended to contain the accounts of the several Parishes with the Union, to the debit of which accounts are to be posted the portions of the several classes of expenditure chargeable to such Parishes; and to the credit of which are to be posted the contributions paid by the Overseers to the Treasurer of the Union, and any other sums to the credit of which the Parishes may be entitled, such, for example, as balances struck by the Auditors, and paid over to the Treasurer, in pursuance of 7 and 8, Vic. c. 101, sec. 32. The Parochial Ledger will be adopted in such Unions only as contain a sufficient number of Parishes to make it desirable to do so. In small Unions it will, probably, be found most convenient to open accounts with the several Parishes in the General Ledger, as has been the custom under the former Order.

It will be observed, that the several items in the "Parochial Ledger" are to be printed and numbered in precisely the same order as they appear in the "Financial Statement,"—(Form 17.) This will greatly facilitate the making up of the statement, and will materially contribute to the accuracy of this branch of the accounts.

The Non-settled Poor Ledger.—The Commissioners think that it may be found convenient in Unions, in which there are accounts for relief to non-settled poor, against many other Unions, to keep such accounts in a separate Ledger, so that the account against each of such Unions for several years may appear at one view, and also be separated from the General accounts of the Union advancing the relief.

With regard to the necessity for keeping the Parochial Ledger, and the Ledger for non-settled Poor in separate books, the Clerk will take the directions of the Board of Guardians. No extra trouble will be imposed upon him by the mere separation of the books.

The Relief Order Book—(Form 13)—is substituted for the present "Abstract of the Application and Report Book," and is to contain entries of those cases in which the Board of Guardians order relief to be given, or allow relief provisionally given by the Relieving Officers. It will not be necessary that minutes of any orders for relief entered in this Book should be entered also in the ordinary Minute Book, but minutes may be made therein referring to the particulars recorded in this book: care should be taken that the entries in this book correspond with those in the Application and Report Book—(Form 33)—on which it is a check, the latter being ordinarily in the custody of the Relieving Officer.

The Order Check Book.—(Form 14.)—This book is to be used in every case in which orders are given by the Board of Guardians, for articles to be supplied, or for work or repairs to be done.

The Pauper Classification Book.—(Form 15.)—This book is to be made up from the Statistical portion of the In-door and Out-door Relief Lists, the Non-resident Poor accounts, and the Medical Relief Books. The numbers of paupers belonging to each parish of the several classes relieved in the half-year being brought together in this book, will constitute the materials for making up the Statistical Statement (Form 16) which the Clerk, by Art. 23, is required to transmit to the Commissioners.—See Articles 21 and 22, and the Notes at the foot of the Form. No fresh labour is imposed on the Clerk by keeping this book, the particulars being substantially the same as those contained in the “Quarterly Abstract,” on the contrary, a saving of labour is effected, inasmuch as this book and the Statistical Statement, will have to be made up only half-yearly. This Book, moreover, renders unnecessary any copy or duplicate of the Statistical Statement. The “Pauper Description Book” is discontinued.

Article 15—Prescribes the Accounts to be kept by the Master of the Workhouse.

1. The Inventory Book.—(Form 20.)—It will be observed, that bedding and house linen which, under the former Order were entered in the Clothing Accounts, are to be entered in this book in addition to fixtures, furniture, utensils, and other effects.

2. The Admission and Discharge Book.—(Form 21.)—This book, as revised, is so arranged as to show the numbers in the Workhouse at each meal, of the several classes into which the paupers are distributed in the “Daily Provisions Consumption Account.” (Form 25.)—It will show also the number attached to the pauper’s own clothes when they are put aside upon his admission, and also marked on the clothes given out to such pauper. Under the same number his name will be found in the “Clothing Register Book.”—(Form 32.)

3. The In-door Relief List.—(Form 22)—as revised, is adapted to the half-yearly accounts. The present mode of indicating in the “In-door Relief List” the classes to which the paupers belong having been found inconvenient in making up the statistical portion of the former “Abstract”—(Form 11 B)—the Commissioners have inserted in the present form the several columns of the “Statistical Statement,” which will now be substituted for that portion of the Abstract.

The entries in these columns being made by the Master, the several totals may be transferred by the Clerk to the “Pauper Classification Book,” with far greater readiness than can now be done, when he has to abstract and classify the individuals entered in the Relief Lists.

4. The Abstract of the In-door Relief List.—(Form 23)—has merely been adapted to the half-yearly accounts.

5. The Master’s Day Book.—(Form 24.)—This Book is provided in order that the Master may record all the invoices of goods supplied, and of work done at the Workhouse. It also furnishes a cash account in which the Master is to enter all his receipts and payments. By Art. 18 the Clerk is required to examine the entries in this book, and to see that all the goods supplied are carried by the Master to the proper accounts in his books. It will be the Clerk’s own duty to carry them to the proper accounts in the Ledger.

6. The Daily Provisions Consumption Account.—(Form 25)—is introduced to facilitate the ascertaining of the quantities of the several principal articles of cooked or prepared provisions required according to the Diet Table, for each meal; and also to record these quantities, together with the quantities of the articles in the form in which they are received into the House, that is, in their raw or unprepared state. It is essential that the Master should record the actual consumption of the raw provisions taken out of store and not returned thereto, rather than, as is sometimes the case at present, enter as the quantities consumed a mere weekly estimate or calculation made with reference to the Diet Table.

7. The Weekly Provisions Consumption Account.—(Form 26.)—This account is prescribed for the purpose of collecting together, in weekly totals, the quantities in their raw or unprepared state, of the several articles which appear by the “Daily” Account to have been used during each week. The weekly entry for such of the sick as have not the ordinary house diet, will be checked by the diet and the amount of extras, every article of which for the week should be entered opposite each name in the Workhouse Medical Relief Book. The blank columns in that book may be used for the entry of the articles of an ordinary kind not mentioned in the printed headings.

8. The Provisions Receipt and Consumption Account.—(Form 27.)—as revised, differs from the form now in use principally in being divested of the money columns. A considerable saving of time and labour to the Master will be effected, by requiring the calculations of the money value of the quantities of the several articles entered in this Account to be made quarterly instead of weekly.

9. In order, however, to effect this alteration, it was necessary to introduce the Quarterly Summary of Provisions Received and Provisions Consumed—(Form 28), so as to enable the Master to ascertain the quarterly totals of provisions received, provisions consumed by the officers and servants of the Workhouse, and provisions consumed by the paupers.

10. Quarterly Balance of the Provisions Account.—(Form 29.)—This Form is similar to that of the “Provisions Receipt and Consumption Account,” excepting that money columns are added for the purpose of introducing the calculations referred to in the notice of that account. Should this account not balance on the first trial, it will at once be seen, by comparing the columns of totals, in reference to which article the error has arisen; and by tracing backwards the entries relating to that article, the error will readily be detected.

With regard to the Provisions Accounts generally, it may appear at first sight, that the forms now prescribed are more complicated than those in use. In fact, however, all the steps prescribed in these forms have heretofore been necessarily taken by the Master, if his accounts have been properly kept, although he may not have preserved a permanent record of them; and the keeping of these accounts ought, therefore, to entail no additional labour on him.

11. The Clothing Materials Receipt and Conversion Account.—(Form 30.)—This book, in its modified form, will be in the nature of a Dr. and Cr. account of every article of materials for clothing and bed and house linen. The Account will be debited with the several articles of materials supplied to the Workhouse from time to time, and credited with the quantities of such materials from time to time converted into clothing or bed and house linen.

12. The Clothing Receipt and Expenditure Account.—(Form 31)—The number of articles of clothing of each description purchased, or made up in the house, is to be entered in the proper column of this Account, when purchased or made up, in the same manner as the number of articles is entered in the present “Clothing Receipt Book.” In reference to the expenditure of clothing, a different system to that hitherto pursued is introduced. It will be seen, that clothing is to be numbered in suits before it is given out. A suit for a man will probably consist of one coat, one waistcoat, one pair of trousers, two shirts, a pair of shoes, two pairs of stockings, one hat, and two handkerchiefs, all of which will bear the same number. When a suit is given out, the number marked thereon is to be entered in the column appropriated for that purpose, and the number of articles of each description comprised in the suit, is also to be entered in the proper columns. This account being balanced at the end of the half-year, will shew the numbers of the several new articles remaining in store.

13. The Clothing Register Book.—(Form 32.)—At the head of the several columns of this book, numbers will be inserted beginning with No. 1, and following each other consecutively; and when a suit of clothes is given out, the name of the person to whom it is given, with the date of his admission, will be entered under the number marked on the suit. In addition to this number, another number indicating the size of the suit, is to be inserted in the space set apart for it. When the person to whom the suit was given out is discharged, the date of his discharge is to be entered, and such entry will show that the suit is available for any other person whom it may fit; and the name of the other person to whom the same suit is given out, will be entered under the previous name. When any article of a suit is worn out, another article of the same size and description is to take its number and be substituted for it. This article will, of course, be entered in the Clothing Receipt and Expenditure Account, in the manner already explained.

The Commissioners have not come to the determination of adopting this system, without first ascertaining that it was not only practicable but perfectly simple, and that it had been in use in some Workhouses for several years. The Commissioners have learnt that Mr. CHAS. KNIGHT will be prepared to supply the Stamps and Ink necessary for impressing the numbers on the clothes, at a trifling cost. The number should on no account be stamped on a conspicuous part of the garment, but it should be so placed, as not to be visible when the garment is worn.

The principle on which the charge for clothing is to be distributed, like that on which the charge for provisions is distributed, is the collective number of days during which the paupers of each parish have been maintained in the Workhouse. It is difficult, however, to estimate accurately the wear and tear of clothes, some of which last a longer and some a shorter time.

The Commissioners believe that the most common, although not the most accurate plan is to charge against the Parishes whose paupers have been received into the Workhouse during the quarter, the cost of all new Clothing given out of store (not all new Clothing purchased) in the course of that quarter. Thus, the balance of the clothing account carried on represents the value of the new clothing in store, and what has been given out (though the Master is of course bound to account for it, to preserve it, and to use it,) is charged when it is given out once for all. The Commissioners believe that it is a general rule that if the cost of clothing exceeds a halfpenny a day, inquiry should be made into this department of the accounts.

It will be for the Guardians to approximate as nearly as possible to the principle of the Poor Law Amendment Act, that each parish should bear the cost of the relief afforded to the poor chargeable to it in the Workhouse and the Commissioners do not prescribe the adoption of any one particular method of arriving at the result: but what they do prescribe is uniformity in the mode in which the facts are recorded, and the books are to be kept, so that it may always be possible to obtain the necessary data for ascertaining how far the charge made is a proper charge.

Article 17—prescribes the books and accounts to be kept by the Relieving Officers.

1. The Application and Report Book.—(Form 33.)—The form of this book has been revised, but not materially altered. The notes at the foot of the form contain full instructions as to the manner in which the book should be kept.

2. The Out-door Relief List.—(Form 34.)—This book, like the “In-door Relief List,” has been adapted to the half-yearly accounts, and it will be seen that the relief in money and kind are required to be entered in the same columns. The several columns in the “Paupers’ Classification Book,” and the “Statistical Statement,” which relate to the out-door poor, have been inserted in this List in the same manner as those which relate to the in-door poor, have been inserted in the “In-door Relief List,” and for a similar reason.

3. The Abstract of the Out-door Relief List.—(Form 35)—has also been adapted to the half-yearly accounts. It is no longer to be bound up with the “Out-door Relief List,” but is to be made up at the meetings of the Board of Guardians, and left in the custody of the Clerk, in order that he may possess a duplicate of the out-door relief account against each parish, in the event of the “Out-door relief List” itself being lost or destroyed. A case has actually occurred, in which great embarrassment has arisen from an accidental loss of this description.

4. The Relieving Officers’ Receipt and Expenditure Book (Form 36), and the Summary thereof.—(Form 37.)—The weekly accounts in money and in kind will no longer be entered separately in the “Receipt and Expenditure Book,” as will appear by the “Out-door Relief List” from which they are posted. The relief in money and in kind which are carried out separately in the “Out-door Relief List,” at the end of each quarter, will be entered separately in the quarterly Summary in which the Relieving Officer’s money account, and account of relief in kind will be balanced separately.

With regard to relief to Non-Resident and Non-Settled poor it should be observed of Non-Resident relief that it is of two kinds—namely, that which is paid through the Relieving Officer of the Board allowing it, and that which is paid by an order on the Treasurer or other means as prescribed by the Commissioners. In the first case the pauper’s name will appear in the “Out-door Relief List,” as a matter of course, and will be charged by the Relieving Officer to the Parish in the same manner as relief to a resident pauper. In the second case, the Relieving Officer will have nothing to do with the matter, and the relief will ultimately be a credit to the Treasurer, and a debit to the Parish against which it is charged in the "Parochial Ledger."

Non-Settled Relief so far as it appears in the accounts of the Union, by the Officers of which it is advanced, will be entered in a separate account, in the Out-door Relief List, by the Relieving Officer who pays it, and will not be carried into any account against a particular Parish. Accounts should be opened in the Out-door Relief List for the several Unions to which the non-settled poor in the Relieving Officer's District belong; and the relief of such poor should be entered in such accounts in the same manner as the relief to the settled poor is entered under their several Parishes.

Article 18.—By the former Order, the Clerk was required to examine previously to the hour appointed for the Guardians to assemble, all the Master's entries in his "Weekly In-door Relief List," and "Abstract" thereof, and in his provisions accounts, and also the Relieving Officers' entries in their "Out-door Relief Lists," and "Abstracts" thereof, and in their "Receipt and Expenditure Books." It has been found scarcely practicable in many Unions, to make so extensive an examination effectively in so limited a time. All that the Clerk is now required to do in reference to the Master's accounts, is to see that he has made the proper entries in the "Day Book," and has given credit in the proper books and accounts for all the goods supplied at the Workhouse. The examination of the Relieving Officer's accounts, the Commissioners have considered indispensable. The examination, however, both of the Master's and Relieving Officer's accounts, may now be made on the day, or on the day before the day of the Guardians' meeting.

Article 23.—The Clerk will perceive by this Article, that the money portion of the former "Abstract" (Form 11 B), is now separated from the statistical portion, and forms a separate statement, (Financial Statement, Form 17). Some additional columns have been inserted, in order to render this statement more complete. The statistical portion of that "Abstract," also, forms a separate statement, (Statistical Statement, Form 16), in regard to which the Commissioners refer to the observations already made, in relation to the "Pauper Classification Book."

Article 27.—The attention of the clerks is particularly directed to this Article, which requires them to furnish to the Commissioners the half-yearly totals of certain heads of expenditure within fourteen days after the 25th day of March and the 29th day of September, without waiting for the completion of the above-mentioned statements, or for the Audit. The Commissioners' object is, that the materials for estimating the amount of the relief in the preceding half-year, may be accessible without waiting for the completion of the audit.

Article 28.—It will be observed, that instead of the four Quarterly Abstracts of the separate Parish accounts, an annual Abstract (Form 18) only will now be required, which will be made up from the Overseers' half-yearly "Balance Sheets."

Articles 29 and 30.—The Parochial List and Statement of Account

(Form 19).—Instead of the extracts from the Quarterly Abstracts which have hitherto been furnished to the Parish Officers, and instead also of the lists of the paupers, relieved, affixed to Church doors and other places, the Clerk is required by Article 29, to make out half-yearly, a separate Account for each Parish, from the Parochial Ledger Account; the Master is to make a list for each Parish, of the Poor persons relieved in the Workhouse, and the Relieving Officer a list of those who shall have received out-door relief. By Article 30, each Relieving Officer is required to deliver these lists and statements to the Overseers within 30 days after the end of each half-year, to be by them laid before the next vestry meeting.

Article 31—authorises the Board of Guardians to pay the Union Officers' Salaries at the end of each quarter, without waiting for the Audit, provided they shall first produce their books made up to the satisfaction of the Board of Guardians.

Article 32—which relates to the Audit of Accounts, contains a provision empowering any Auditor, with the consent of the Commissioners, to hold a special Audit of the Accounts of any Union or Parish in the interval between the ordinary Audits, which in all respects will have the same legal effects as an ordinary Audit. The Commissioners believe that circumstances may arise, which would render a special Audit necessary.

Article 43.—The Commissioners have hitherto felt, that some more effective mode is required of ascertaining whether the Books and Accounts prescribed are properly kept, and they have, therefore, in this Article, called upon the Auditor to make a return to them on the subject, in the Form numbered 38, at the close of each Audit.

Article 44.—The Commissioners have by this article prescribed a statement (Form 39), relating to the Officer's Bonds, to be made by the Auditor to the Commissioners annually, at the close of the Audit of the Accounts for the half-year ending 25th of March.

The Commissioners have requested Mr. Charles Knight, their Publisher, to prepare for use the Books and Forms prescribed by the Order; and they understand that the same will be ready for sale forthwith. The Commissioners think it right, however, to state that it will be open to any other Publisher to publish these Books and Forms.

Assistant Secretary.

iii.—CIRCULAR LETTER from the POOR LAW COMMISSIONERS to OVERSEERS relating to the Order of Accounts.

Poor Law Commission Office, Somerset House,
GENTLEMEN, 27th March, 1847.

The Poor Law Commissioners' order relating to accounts, now rescinded, was issued generally, in 1836. During the period which has elapsed since the issuing of that order experience has shown that the Books and Forms prescribed by it are susceptible of being rendered, in some respects, more complete. A change, moreover, has become necessary in consequence of the alteration in the periods of the audit of Accounts, effected under the authority of the Act of 7 & 8 Victoria, c. 101.

The Commissioners have, accordingly, framed the order sent with this letter, and have issued it as a general rule to the Unions throughout the country.

It will be observed, that until the 25th of March, 1848, the adoption of the Books and Forms prescribed by this order will be discretionary with the Board of Guardians, and the officers of Unions and Parishes, and thus will be avoided much of the inconvenience, which otherwise might be occasioned by the sudden introduction of an entirely new set of Books and Forms.

The Commissioners will now proceed to point out the chief alterations which this Order effects, so far as they relate to Overseers and Collectors, and explain such of its provisions as seem to require explanation.

Articles 1—4.—Relate to the books and accounts of Overseers.

The Rate Book.—(Form 1.)—The form of this book differs from that prescribed by the Commissioners in their General Order, dated 22nd April, 1842, relating to the duties of Overseers, and the present Form supersedes the one referred to. The arrears of Rates in column No 2, which are not excused, are, as will be noticed, according to this Form, to be carried to column 12, headed, “recoverable arrears of former rates; and the sums in that column, and the amount of the new rate as stated in column 11, being added together will constitute the “amount actually to be collected,” to be entered in column 13.

The Overseers’ Book of Receipts and Payments.—(Form 2)—is to contain an account of all sums received and paid by the Overseers on behalf of the Parish; these, as the law now stands, will be found to come under some of the heads of receipts or payments set forth in Art. 1; and also in the Balance Sheet, Form 3. Every transaction excepting receipts from Poor Rate should be entered under its true date. Monies received from the Poor Rate cannot be entered in this manner, but the total amount received on account of each rate during the half-year should be entered in one sum. In the memorandum at the foot of the account for the half-year, should be entered in respect of each rate;—1, the total amount of the rate; 2, the amount legally excused in such rate; 3, the amount not recoverable; and 4, the sum remaining to be accounted for.

The attention of the Overseers is particularly directed to Section 33, of the Act 7 & 8 Victoria, c. 101, which requires that the Rate-books and other accounts of the Parish, should be made up and balanced seven clear days, at least, before the day fixed for the Audit of Accounts and that the Books so made up should be forthwith deposited for inspection at the House of some one of the Overseers, or other Officers, or of the Collector or Assistant Overseer, or at some other House within the Parish. The non-observance of these requisitions may subject the Overseers to certain penalties.

The Balance Sheet of the Overseers’ Receipts and Payments.—(Form 3)—is a modification of the Overseers’ present “Quarterly Statement,” and is to contain the total amount of each class of the Overseers’ receipts and payments for the half-year arranged in the order and under the heads indicated in the Form. This Balance Sheet will furnish the Clerks of the Board of Guardians with the materials for preparing the Yearly Abstract of the separate Accounts of the Parishes—(Form 18)—the headings of which correspond, in all respects, with the items in the “Balance Sheet.” (See Art. 28.)

It will be seen, by reference to Article 19, that the Overseers’ Books are to be made up and balanced to the 25th of March, and the 29th of September, in each year.

Article 3.—The Rate Receipt Check Book and General Receipt Check Book.—(Forms 4 and 5.)—It will be observed that the Overseers are not bound to use these books when there are less than thirty Rate-payers on the Rate Book. Collectors, however, being paid Officers, are, in all cases, bound, by Article 6, to keep the former of these books.

Article 4.—The Terrier and Inventory—(Forms 6 & 7)—which under the former Order, all Overseers were required to make out at the end of the Michaelmas Quarter of every year, are now to be made out when the Overseers are required to do so by the Auditor, or by the Commissioners.

Articles 5—12 contain provisions in regard to Collectors. It will be noticed that, according to Article 53, the term Collector, includes both the Assistant Overseers and Collectors whether appointed under any Act of Parliament, or under any Order of the Commissioners.

Article 6.—In parishes where the number of Rate-payers is large, it will be convenient if the Collector leaves a note, properly dated, of the demand for Poor Rate at the house of every Rate-payer who may not pay the rate when first demanded.

It is obviously undesirable that a Collector of Poor Rates should hold money in his hands for a longer time than is absolutely necessary ; and the Commissioners have, therefore, by Article 8, required that every Collector shall pay over weekly, all monies in his hands belonging to the Parish, to the Overseers’ Banker, or to one of the Overseers’ themselves ; and that, whenever, in the course of any week, the sum of money in his hands shall exceed 50*l.*, he shall pay over the sum forthwith. “The Collecting and Deposit Book,” (Form 8) is prescribed for the purpose of showing the amount in the Collector’s hands at any time.

The Collector’s Monthly Statement—(Form 9)—which will be made up from the materials contained in the “Collecting and Deposit Book,” is, in pursuance of Article 10, to be delivered by every Collector to one or more of the Overseers, and by every Collector appointed under an Order of the Commissioners, it is also to be delivered to the Board of Guardians. The object of this statement is to inform the Overseers and the Boards of Guardians of the state of the Collector’s account at the close of each month. The Commissioners request the particular attention of Overseers and Boards of Guardians to the necessity of superintending the proceedings of persons employed in collecting the Poor Rates : full opportunity for so doing will be given by the statement now prescribed, and proper vigilance, on the part of the local authorities, may prevent loss.

The Collector’s Unpaid Rates Statement—(Form 10.)—Under section 32, of the 7 & 8 Vict. c. 101, the Overseers are liable for any money which may be lost through their neglect ; and the Auditor is empowered to surcharge them therewith. The object of this statement is to enable the Auditor to ascertain whether any, and what amount of Poor Rates may have been so lost ; and also, whether any Poor Rates remain uncollected, which are recoverable, and which ought to have been collected. It is necessary for Overseers to bear this in mind, as by Section 61 of 7 & 8 Vict., c. 101, every Collector or Assistant Overseer is bound to obey the majority of the Overseers of the Parish for which he acts in all matters relating to the Collection of the Rates ; and it must, at the same time, be remembered that the responsibility of the Overseers for the payment of contributions and other matters, is not diminished by the appointment of a Collector or Assistant Overseer whom they themselves have the power of controlling.

Articles 29 & 30.—The Parochial List and Statement of Account—(Form 19.) Instead of the extracts from the Quarterly Abstracts which have hitherto been furnished to the Parish Officers, and instead also of the lists of the Paupers relieved, affixed to Church Doors, and other Places, the Clerk is required by Article 29, to make out half yearly, a separate Account for each Parish, from the Parochial Ledger Account ; the Master is to make a list for each Parish, of the Poor Persons relieved in the Workhouse, and the Relieving Officer a list of those who shall have received Out-door Relief. By Article 30, each Relieving Officer is required to deliver these lists and statements to the Overseers within 30 days after the end of each half-year, to be by them laid before the next Vestry Meeting.

Article 32—which relates to the Audit of Accounts, contains a provision empowering any Auditor, with the consent of the Commissioners, to hold a special Audit of the Accounts of any Union or Parish in the interval between the ordinary Audits, which in all respects will have the same legal effects as an ordinary Audit. The Commissioners believe that circumstances may arise which would render a Special Audit necessary.

Article 44.—The Commissioners have by this Article prescribed a statement (Form 39,) relating to the Officers' Bonds, to be made by the Auditor to the Commissioners annually, at the close of the Audit of the Accounts for the half-year ending 25th of March.

The Commissioners have requested Mr. Charles Knight, their Publisher, to prepare for use the Books and Forms prescribed by the Order ; and they understand that the same will be ready for sale forthwith. The Commissioners think it right, however, to state that it will be open to any other Publisher, to publish these Books and Forms.

I am &c.,

W. G. LUMLEY,

To the Overseers of the Poor

Assistant Secretary.

No. 2.

GENERAL ORDER relating to the PAYMENT of the SALARIES of DISTRICT AUDITORS.

To the GUARDIANS of the POOR of the several UNIONS, INCORPORATIONS, and PARISHES and PLACES named in the Schedule hereunto annexed ;

To the Churchwardens and Overseers of the said several Parishes and of the Parishes and Places comprised within the said Unions ;

To the Clerk or Clerks to the Justices of the Petty Sessions held for the Division or Divisions in which the said Unions, Incorporations, and Parishes are situate ;

And to all others whom it may concern.

Whereas, by several Orders, the dates whereof are set forth in the first column of the Schedule hereunto annexed, the Poor Law Commissioners, under the authority of the Statute passed in the eighth year of the reign of Her Majesty, intituled "An Act for the further Amendment of the Laws relating to the Poor in England," did combine the several Unions, Incorporations of Parishes, and Parishes and Places, also set forth in the third column of the said Schedule, into the several districts for the audit of accounts in the said Orders specified, and did fix the salaries to be paid to the several Auditors to be appointed under the same respectively ; and did order the Guardians of the Poor of the several Unions, Incorporations, and Parishes to pay the said salaries in certain proportions and at certain periods as therein fully set forth.

And whereas a sum of money hath been granted by Parliament to be applied in the payment of the salaries of such Auditors, for the half-year ending the thirty-first day of March next, and similar grants may hereafter be made ; and it is accordingly expedient that so much of the said Orders as requires the Guardians of the said several Unions, Incorporations, and Parishes to contribute to the payment of the salaries of the said Auditors should be suspended as hereinafter mentioned.

Now, therefore, We, the Poor Law Commissioners, acting under the authority of an Act passed in the fifth year of the reign of His late Majesty King William the Fourth, intituled "An Act for the Amendment and better Administration of the Laws relating to the Poor in England and Wales," do hereby henceforth, and until the Poor Law Commissioners shall otherwise order, suspend so much of the said several Orders set forth in the said Schedule as directs the Guardians aforesaid to contribute to the payment of the salaries of the several Auditors for the time being appointed under the same.

Schedule to which the foregoing Order refers.

No. 3.

DISTRICT ASYLUMS for Relief of Casual Poor.

i.—Case and Opinion of Counsel as to the power of the Commissioners to suspend indefinitely the Meetings of the District Asylum Boards.

The Act 4 & 5 Wm. IV. c. 76, sec. 15, the Poor Law Amendment Act, after authorising the Poor Law Commissioners to make and issue all such Rules, Orders, and Regulations for the management of the Poor and other purposes of the said Act as they should think proper, declared that the said Commissioners might, at their discretion, from time to time suspend, alter, or rescind such Rules, Orders, and Regulations or any of them.

By the Act 7 & 8 Vict. c. 101, sec. 41, it is enacted “that it shall be lawful for the said Commissioners, as and when they may see fit, by order under their hands and seal, to declare so many parishes or unions, or parishes and unions, any part of which may be within the district of the Metropolitan Police, or the City of London, or within the limits respectively of the city, towns, or boroughs named in the Schedule (B) annexed to this Act,” as such limits are described in an Act passed in the third year of the reign of King William IV., to settle and describe the division of counties, and the limits of cities and boroughs in England and Wales, so far as respects the election of members to serve in Parliament,” to be combined into districts for the purpose of providing and managing asylums for the temporary relief and setting to work therein of destitute houseless poor who are not charged with any offence, and who may apply for relief, or become chargeable to the poor’s rates within any such parish or union.

The last-mentioned Act then enacts that a Board shall be constituted for every district formed under such Act for the maintenance of a school or asylum, the members to be elected in manner and form therein mentioned; and by sec. 43, it is enacted “that every such district board shall have such of the powers of guardians for the relief and management of the poor within any school or asylum, and for the appointment, payment, and control of paid officers, as the said Commissioners may direct.” After empowering the Commissioners, with the consent in writing of a majority of any district board, to direct such district board to purchase or hire or build and to fit up and furnish a building or buildings of such size and description and according to such plan and in such manner as the Commissioners might deem most proper for the purpose of being used or rendered suitable for the relief and management of the poor to be received into such school or asylum; it is by this Act further enacted “that the said Commissioners may, with the like consent, alter the district for which such district board was originally constituted, by adding thereto or taking therefrom any parish or parishes, union or unions as aforesaid.” “That the said Commissioners shall have the same powers for regulating the proceedings of any district board or of any Committee thereof, and for directing and regulating the appointment, duties, remuneration, and removal of paid officers to be appointed by any district board, as they have with respect to the proceedings of Boards of Guardians, or with respect to paid officers to be appointed by any Board of “Guardians.” It is thereby also enacted that “any orders or regulations of the said Commissioners made in pursuance of this Act, shall be enforced in the same manner and by the same penalties as if the same were an order or regulation made in pursuance of the said first-recited Act” (the 4 & 5 Wm. IV. c. 69).

The District Board are thereby empowered, subject to the order of the Commissioners, to borrow such sum or sums of money as may be necessary for the purpose of purchasing any site or building as aforesaid, and to charge the future poor-rates of the parishes or unions, or parishes and unions so combined as aforesaid, with the payment of such sum or sums of money, and interest thereon, to be repaid within a period not exceeding twenty years.

By section 74 of this Act it is further enacted “That this Act shall be construed in the same manner as the Act passed in the sixth year of the reign of Her present Majesty, intituled ‘An Act to continue until the thirty-first day of July one thousand eight hundred and forty-seven, and to the end of the then next session of Parliament, the Poor Law Commission, and for the further Amendment of the Laws relating to the poor in England, and as one Act with the same, and with the Acts and provisions thereby required to be construed as one Act.’”

In the month of July, 1845, the Poor Law Commissioners by certain orders under their hands and seal formed certain unions and parishes situated within the district of the Metropolitan Police, into six Districts for the purposes of such Asylums, and did declare that a Board of Management should be constituted for each of the districts, to consist of the ex-officio members entitled to act according to the provisions of the 5 and 6 Wm. IV. c. 69, and of certain members to be elected as therein prescribed. And by certain other orders issued by the said Commissioners in the month of August following they prescribed certain rules and regulations to be observed by the Board of Management of each of the said Districts, and directed that proper officers should be appointed by the said Boards to carry into effect the orders and directions of the said Boards, and to assist in the administration of the relief of the poor in such Districts. The Commissioners therein fixed the day and places for the first meeting of the said Boards of Management, and directed that such Boards should meet once at the least in every month for the execution of their duties, and should at their first meetings so to be held determine upon some fixed day of the week, and upon some fixed hour, for holding such monthly meetings. And the said Commissioners did thereby (amongst other things) direct that the Managers should at their first meeting, and at the first meeting after the annual election of Managers, elect out of the whole number of Managers a Chairman and a Vice-Chairman, who should continue respectively to act as such until the next annual election of Managers should take place if they so long continue respectively to be Managers.

In consequence of these orders the several Boards of Management held their first meetings and elected Chairmen and Vice-Chairmen, and fixed a day of the week and hour for holding their monthly meetings, as thereby required, and performed other acts in conformity therewith. Some of the Boards continue such monthly meetings, have appointed clerks or other officers, and engaged to pay them salaries. In two instances calls have been made upon the parishes and unions within the District for their contributions towards the common fund of the Board, and in one of these cases the Board has executed an agreement to purchase certain premises for the purpose of converting the same into an Asylum, and has borrowed money from the Exchequer Bill Loan Board for such purchase, the repayment of which with interest has been charged upon the poor-rates of the parishes and unions comprised in the District. The first instalment of this loan will become due on or about the 19th day of March, 1847.

You are requested to advise the Poor Law Commissioners—

1st. Whether they have any power under the Act 7 and 8 Vict. c. 101, either separately, or in connexion with the previous Poor Law Acts, to issue an order for the purpose of suspending the monthly meetings of the respective Asylum District Boards indefinitely, either in the cases where the Boards have continued to hold their monthly meetings, or where they have not done so.

1st. I am of opinion that the Poor Law Commissioners have no power under the Act 7 and 8 Vict. c. 101, either separately or in connexion with the previous Poor Law Acts, to issue an order for the purpose of suspending the monthly meetings of the respective Asylum District Boards indefinitely after such Boards have been once duly constituted, either in the cases where the Boards have continued to hold their monthly meetings, or where they have not done so. The 43rd section gives the Commissioners the same powers for regulating the proceedings of any District Board as they have with respect to the proceedings of Boards of Guardians. The power of regulating does not imply the power of suspending indefinitely, which is in effect a power to nullify the constitution of the Board. The Legislature treats these Boards as a permanent institution. By the same section the Commissioners can only add any parish to the district, or take any parish from the district, with the consent of a majority of the Board. No power is given to the Commissioners to dissolve such district or such Board directly or indirectly. In the parallel case of Boards of Guardians, an express power to dissolve the union is given by the 32nd section of 4 and 5 Wm. IV. c. 76, but only with the consent of a majority of two-thirds of the Guardians, and the necessity of such consent to a dissolution is not taken away by the 66th section of 7 and 8 Vict. c. 101. These provisions and the obvious intent to give permanent constitutions to the newly constituted relieving districts, in effect limit the general power to suspend, alter, or rescind the Commissioners' rules given by the 15th section of the first Act—at least after Boards have been once fully constituted. If this construction is not put upon the Acts, the Commissioners might evade all the limitations of their powers of adding to, taking from, or dissolving Unions, by rescinding the orders constituting such Unions, and issuing new orders, constituting new Unions, with entirely new classifications of districts.

2nd. Whether, in the event of the Commissioners having the power to do so in either of such cases, such power is affected in the case where the Board has contracted to purchase premises and to charge the rates with the repayment of the Loan.

2ndly. According to the opinion which I have formed, the 2nd question does not arise. The question however furnishes an example of the difficulties which would arise from the possession of such a power of disturbing the pecuniary arrangements of districts, which is confirmatory of my opinion, that such power was not intended to be given. The 46th section of 7 and 8 Vict. c. 101, contains a provision for proper pecuniary arrangements, in case of any addition or separation of parishes, corresponding with the 32nd section of 4 and 5 Wm. IV. c. 76. The absence of any such provision to meet the case of a dissolution or suspension of a District Board shows that such an event was not contemplated. On the contrary, the 45th section of 7 and 8 Vict. c. 101, vests property in the Board as a permanent corporation.

ii.—CIRCULAR LETTER from the POOR LAW COMMISSIONERS to the BOARDS of MANAGEMENT of the ASYLUM DISTRICTS.

Poor Law Commission Office, Somerset House.

SIR,

21st September, 1846.

THE Poor Law Commissioners having had under their consideration the expediency of the suspension of any further proceedings on the part of the Boards of Management of the District Asylums for the houseless poor in the Metropolis with reference to the proceedings of the Select Committee of the House of Commons appointed in the last Session to inquire into the question of those Asylums, I am directed by the Commissioners to state that they think it advisable that the several Boards of Management should not take any further step in pursuance of their powers beyond what is rendered absolutely necessary by the engagements into which they have entered until an opportunity shall have been afforded to the Legislature in the next Session of Parliament of considering the evidence reported to the House of Commons by the Committee.

I am to add that, with a view to enable the Boards of Management to act on this advice, the Commissioners will shortly issue an order modifying that part of their orders constituting the respective District Asylums which requires the Boards of Management to hold their meetings at certain stated periods.

I am, &c.

GEORGE COODE, Assistant Secretary.

To the Clerk of the Board of Management of the Asylum District.

iii.—ORDER issued to the CENTRAL METROPOLITAN ASYLUM DISTRICT.

To the BOARD of MANAGEMENT of the CENTRAL METROPOLITAN DISTRICT ASYLUM ;—

To the Churchwardens and Overseers of the Poor of the several Parishes respectively comprised in the said District ;—

To the Clerk or Clerks to the Justice or Justices of the Petty Sessions held for the Division or Divisions in which the said District and Parishes respectively are situate ;—

And to all others whom it may concern.

Whereas, by an order bearing date the twenty-sixth day of July one thousand eight hundred and forty-five, the Poor Law Commissioners did order and declare that the following Unions, that is to say, the Holborn and Strand Unions, being situated within the District of the Metropolitan Police,—the City of London, the East London, and the West London Unions, being situated within the City of London,—and the several parishes of St. Giles in the Fields and St. George Bloomsbury, Saint James Clerkenwell, Saint Luke Middlesex, Saint Mary Islington, and Saint Pancras, in the County of Middlesex, which said several Parishes are situated within the said District of the Metropolitan Police, should be combined into a District to be termed "The Central Metropolitan Asylum District," for the purpose of providing and managing one or more Asylum or Asylums for the temporary relief and setting to work therein of destitute houseless poor persons, who are not charged with any offence, and who may apply for relief or become chargeable to the poor's-rates within any of the Unions or Parishes above mentioned.

And the said Commissioners did thereby order and declare that a Board of Management should be constituted for the said District, which should consist of the ex-officio members entitled to act according to the provisions of the Act passed in the fifth year of the reign of His late Majesty King William the Fourth, intituled "An Act for the Amendment and better Administration of the Laws relating to the Poor in England and Wales," and of certain members to be elected as thereafter prescribed.

And whereas the said Commissioners did thereby prescribe certain rules and regulations to be observed by the Board of Management of the said District, and did direct that proper officers should be appointed to carry into effect the orders and directions of the said Board, and to assist in the administration of the relief of the poor in the said District.

And whereas, by an order under the hands and seal of the Poor Law Commissioners, bearing date the twenty-ninth day of July one thousand eight hundred and forty-five, the said Commissioners did (amongst other things) order and direct that the said Board should meet once at the least in every month for the execution of their duties.

And whereas it is expedient that for some time to come power should be given to the said Board to discontinue such regular periodical meetings.

Now, therefore, we, the Poor Law Commissioners, in pursuance of the authorities vested in us by the said Act passed in the fifth year of the reign of His late Majesty King William the Fourth, intituled "An Act for the Amendment and better Administration of the Laws relating to the Poor in England and Wales," and by another Act passed in the eighth year of the reign of Her present Majesty Queen Victoria, intituled, "An Act for the further Amendment of the Laws relating to the Poor in England," do hereby order and direct that, until the said Commissioners shall otherwise direct, it shall not be necessary for the said Board to hold a meeting once in every month, as in the said order is required.

And we do further order, that the said Board shall meet from time to time, as and when occasion shall arise, for the performance of any duty by law imposed upon the said Board; and every such meeting, when called in conformity with a previous resolution of the Board, passed at any meeting thereof, shall be taken to be an ordinary meeting of the Board, within the meaning of the said last-recited order.

Provided, that nothing herein contained shall be taken to prevent the summoning of an extraordinary meeting of the Board, or the meeting of the Board in any case of emergency, in the manner therein also set out.

And we further order, that the clerk to the said Board shall give or send notice in writing to every member of the said Board, to be left at his place of abode two days, if practicable, before the day appointed for the meeting to which it relates; but the sending of such notice shall not be taken as requisite to render such meeting a legal meeting.

Given under our hands and seal of office, this twenty-fifth day of September, in the year one thousand eight hundred and forty-six.

PARLIAMENTARY GRANT for the Payment of the Salaries of certain Union Officers.

i.—CIRCULAR LETTER from the POOR LAW COMMISSIONERS to BOARDS OF GUARDIANS.

*Poor Law Commission Office, Somerset House,
7th November, 1846.*

SIR,

I AM directed by the Poor Law Commissioners to communicate to you, for the information of the Board of Guardians, the plan which Her Majesty's Government have sanctioned for the distribution of the sums voted in the last session of Parliament for the payment of the salaries of certain Union Officers.

These officers are the medical officers, schoolmasters and schoolmistresses of workhouses, and District Auditors; and the sum voted is intended to defray the entire salary of the District Auditors, and schoolmasters and schoolmistresses, and half the salary of the medical officers, without including the extra payments on account of midwifery and operations under the order of the Commissioners.

With respect to the salaries of the medical officers, and the schoolmasters and schoolmistresses, the sum accruing to each union will be paid over by the Paymaster for Civil Services to the Treasurer of the union, once in each year. For the half-year ending on the 31st of March, 1847, the salaries, as existing on the 1st of October last, will be taken as the standard of payment to the union.

The Treasurer will place the amount, so paid over to him, to the credit of the Establishment Account of the Union; on which account the Board of Guardians will draw cheques for the salaries of the officers in question, in the same manner as cheques are drawn for the salaries of the other paid officers of the union.

It will be the duty of the clerk to the Board of Guardians, at the close of each quarter, to transmit in duplicate to the Commissioners a statement in the following form:—

Union.

STATEMENT of Medical Officers' and Schoolmasters' and Schoolmistress's Salaries for the Quarter ending

Name of each Medical Officer.	Name of District of Medical Officer.	Date of Medical Officer's Appointment.	Amount per Annum of Medical Officer's Salary exclusive of Fees. Totals . . .

Names of Schoolmaster and Schoolmistress.	Date of Appointment.	Amount per Annum of Salary.	Amount of Salary to be paid for the Quarter ending _____ Chairman.

_____ Clerk.

With reference as well to the Schoolmasters and Schoolmistresses, as to the Medical Officers, it was in the contemplation of Parliament that these sums should be so applied as to improve the character of instruction in the workhouse as well as that of the medical relief.

It is the intention of the Commissioners before the end of the parochial year to take steps for considering the arrangements for these purposes in each Union, with a view to their amendment in cases where the present provision for the instruction of the Workhouse Children and for Medical Relief of the Poor appears to be inadequate or otherwise objectionable.

With regard to the District Auditors, a separate arrangement will be made for the payment of their salaries.

I am, &c.,

W. G. LUMLEY,

Assistant Secretary.

*To the Clerk to the Board of Guardians
of the Union.*

ii.—CIRCULAR LETTER from the POOR LAW COMMISSIONERS to BOARDS OF GUARDIANS UNDER LOCAL ACTS.

*Poor Law Commission Office, Somerset House,
7th November, 1846.*

SIR,

I AM directed by the Poor Law Commissioners to communicate to you, for the information of the Board of Guardians, the plan which Her Majesty's Government have sanctioned for the distribution of the sums voted in the last session of Parliament for the payment of the salaries of certain Union Officers.

These officers are the Medical Officers, Schoolmasters and Schoolmistresses of workhouses, and District Auditors. The sum voted is intended to defray the entire salary of the District Auditors, and the Schoolmasters and Schoolmistresses, and half the salary of the Medical Officers.

With respect to the salaries of the Medical Officers and the Schoolmasters and Schoolmistresses, the sum accruing to each union or parish will be paid over, once in every year, by the Paymaster for Civil Services to the treasurer of the union or parish. For the half-year ending on the 31st of March, 1847, the salaries, as existing on the 1st of October last, will be taken as the standard of payment to the union or parish.

In order that any parish or union should participate in the grant for the officers' salaries, it is necessary, according to the principle sanctioned by Her Majesty's Government, that the salaries should have been previously approved by the Poor Law Commissioners. If, therefore, it is the desire of the local authorities to receive a share in the grant towards the payment of the salaries of the Medical Officers and the Schoolmasters and Schoolmistresses of the workhouses, those salaries must, in the first instance, be reported to the Poor Law Commissioners for their approbation.

With regard to the District Auditors, a separate arrangement will be made for the payment of their salaries.

I am, &c.,

W. G. LUMLEY,

Assistant Secretary.

To the Clerk to the Board of Guardians.

iii.—CIRCULAR LETTER from the POOR LAW COMMISSIONERS to the ASSISTANT COMMISSIONERS.

*Poor Law Commission Office, Somerset House,
7th November, 1846.*

SIR,

PARLIAMENT has voted the following sums for the several classes of officers enumerated below, viz. :—

Schoolmasters and Schoolmistresses .	15,000
Medical Officers	35,000
Auditors	6,500

The Commissioners have been in communication with Her Majesty's Government on the subject of the mode in which these sums will be paid, and they have to inform you that payment will be made by the Paymaster for Civil Services to the treasurer of each union, in order that the treasurer may apply the sums in question to the salaries which they are intended wholly or in part to defray.

The Commissioners have addressed a letter to the Board of Guardians on this subject, of which they enclose a copy for your information.

The Commissioners are especially desirous of drawing your attention to the fact that it was the intention of Her Majesty's Government, in proposing these votes, to contribute to an improvement in the character of the workhouse schools, and in the supply of medical relief to the poor.

The Commissioners request that, between this time and the 31st of March, 1847, you will furnish them with such a report as may point out the unions in your district in which the schools are least effective, and the medical relief least satisfactory. The Commissioners will then refer to the information already in the office, communicate with the Guardians, and will take such steps as may be in their power for improving both branches of the union administration.

In remote parts of the country, where no medical aid can now be readily procured, the Commissioners are anxious that the salaries should hereafter be placed on a footing such as to facilitate the residence of an efficient officer.

With regard to the workhouse schools, it will probably be desirable, in many cases, to obtain more efficient officers at increased salaries; and in other cases, where those officers are not now appointed, to urge the appointment of a schoolmaster or a schoolmistress.

I have, &c.,

To

W. G. LUMLEY,

Assistant Poor Law Commissioner.Assistant Secretary.

iv.—CIRCULAR LETTER from the POOR LAW COMMISSIONERS to the ASSISTANT COMMISSIONERS.

*Poor Law Commission Office, Somerset House,
17th December, 1846.*

SIR,

I AM directed by the Poor Law Commissioners to transmit to you, for your information, the accompanying extract from a letter which they have received from Mr. Under Secretary Phillipps, communicating to them, by direction of Sir George Grey, the course which will be taken with reference to the payment out of the Parliamentary grant of the salaries of the schoolmasters and schoolmistresses of Union Workhouses, and also the measures proposed for securing the services of efficient officers.

I am, &c.,

To

W. G. LUMLEY.

Assistant Poor Law Commissioner.

Assistant Secretary.

(Extract.)

“With respect to the schoolmasters and schoolmistresses, I am to inform you that, as was stated in my letter to you of the 5th of October last, Sir George Grey has been in communication with the Committee of Council on Education, and that it is proposed that inspectors should be appointed under the authority of that Committee, for the purpose of visiting and examining the workhouse schools throughout the country, and ascertaining the qualifications of the schoolmasters and schoolmistresses. Sir George Grey feels it to be of importance that no pledge should be given, or expectation held out, that the salaries of those officers will be paid after the present half-year without some inquiry into their efficiency. It is also in the contemplation of the Committee of Council to take measures for the training of masters for workhouse schools, which Sir George Grey hopes will afford important facilities for securing the services of more efficient instructors than it has hitherto in many cases been possible to obtain.”

No. 5.

Poor Removal Act (9 and 10 Vict. c. 66.)

i.—CIRCULAR LETTER from the POOR LAW COMMISSIONERS to the BOARDS of GUARDIANS.

*Poor Law Commission Office, Somerset House,
17th September, 1846.*

SIR,

I AM directed by the Poor Law Commissioners to call the attention of the Guardians to the provisions of the new Statute relating to the removal of the Poor (9 and 10 Vict. c. 66), which received the Royal Assent on the 26th of August last, and came immediately into operation.

The Statute relates to the removal of paupers, which depends upon their settlement, and does not therefore directly concern the Guardians, who are engaged exclusively in the administration of relief. But indirectly the new provision will materially affect the discharge of the functions of the Guardians in the relief of the poor.

The Guardians will perceive that the first four clauses prohibit the removal of paupers from the place of their residence under certain circumstances.

The first clause prevents the removal of every person from the parish in which such person has resided for the space of five years next before the application for the warrant of removal.

But in the computation of this period of five years it is provided, that certain periods shall be for all purposes excluded. These periods are as follow :—

The time during which such person shall be a Prisoner in a prison ;

shall be serving Her Majesty as a Soldier, Marine, or Sailor ; or reside as an In-Pensioner in Greenwich or Chelsea Hospital ; or shall be confined in a Lunatic Asylum, or House duly licensed, or Hospital registered for the reception of Lunatics ;
or as a patient in a Hospital ;
or during which any such person shall receive relief from any parish ; or shall be wholly or in part maintained by any rate or subscription raised in a parish in which such person does not reside—not being a bonâ fide charitable gift.

There is a proviso to prevent the application of the Act to the removal of lunatics ; and another to prevent the separation, in cases of removal, of husband and parent from a wife and children.

In reference to this clause it is incumbent upon the Guardians to observe that the administration of relief to paupers, whether resident or non-resident, can have no important effect upon their removal hereafter, inasmuch as the time during which relief is so given is excluded in the computation of time.

By the operation of this statute, many persons now receiving non-resident relief, or who might hereafter receive non-resident relief, will become irremovable in the place in which they reside. Non-resident relief is given because the pauper, on becoming chargeable to the place where he resides, might be removed to the place of his settlement. In every case, therefore, in which a pauper becomes irremovable under this statute, no reason for continuing or for granting such non-resident relief will exist. The obligation to relieve rests upon the place where the pauper lives ; and as he cannot be removed from that place, the ground in respect of which non-resident relief was originally given, or might have been granted, will wholly fail. On the other hand, paupers who have not resided in a place long enough to become irremovable will remain liable to removal as before, and it will be necessary that the Guardians should preserve the evidence of all payments made on account of any other parish or union ; such evidence may be required hereafter to prevent the time during which relief was received from being reckoned in the time necessary to make the person irremovable.

The second clause prevents the removal of every widow resident with her husband at the time of his death, for twelve calendar months after his decease, provided she continues so long a widow. In this case, upon the same grounds as those above stated, the charge of the maintenance of the widow will be exclusively imposed for a year upon the place where she resided at the time of her husband's death. Consequently, so long as she is in the same place, the place of her settlement, if different from the place of her residence, will, during that period, be relieved from that charge. The provision, therefore, has an important bearing upon the relief of non-resident poor.

The third clause prevents the removal of children, step-children, and illegitimate children from the parish in which they are residing with their parents or reputed fathers, in every case where the parent or reputed father cannot be removed. This clause will, probably, not much affect the Guardians in regard to the execution of their duties.

By the fourth clause, the power of removing paupers, in cases where relief is made necessary by sickness or accident, is taken away, unless the justices granting the warrant state in such warrant that they are satisfied that the sickness or accident will produce permanent disability.

The object of the clause is to prevent removals in cases of temporary sickness or accident. It will materially interfere, therefore, with the granting of suspended orders of removal; and will, consequently remove the inducement for the allowance of non-resident relief in many such cases as those which have heretofore occurred. The paupers will have to be maintained by the parish where they are sick.

This provision will probably be found to have some bearing upon those cases of considerable practical difficulty which arise in the relief of casualties, and the charging of the cost of such relief.

The Commissioners deem it right to call the attention of the Guardians to the sixth section, which provides, that, "if any officer of any parish or union do, contrary to law, with intent to cause any poor person to become chargeable to any parish to which such person was not then chargeable, convey any poor person out of the parish for which such officer acts, or cause or procure any poor person to be so conveyed, or give directly or indirectly any money, relief, or assistance, or afford or procure to be afforded any facility for such conveyance, or make any offer or promise, or use any threat, to induce any poor person to depart from such parish; and if in consequence of such conveyance or departure any poor person become chargeable to any parish to which he was not then chargeable, such officer, on conviction thereof before any two justices, shall forfeit and pay, for every such offence, any sum not exceeding five pounds, nor less than forty shillings."

The benefit of this clause, as calculated to repress much misconduct on the part of parochial and union officers in their endeavours to shift the burthen of charges of relief, is obvious. The Commissioners therefore request the Guardians to take the earliest opportunity of communicating to all their officers the terms and effect of this enactment, and of impressing upon them the risk they will run if they violate the provisions herein contained.

The Guardians will perceive that it is desirable to call the attention of the master and other officers of the workhouse to the duty imposed on those officers by the 7th section as to receiving paupers who may be brought to the workhouse under warrants of removal directed to Overseers; the section providing, that the delivery of any such pauper at the workhouse of the parish, or of any Union to which such parish belongs, to any officer of such workhouse, is to be deemed a delivery of such pauper to the Overseers of such parish.

The Commissioners recommend the Guardians to give directions to the officers of the workhouse, especially the master and the porter, that, when a pauper is brought to the workhouse with a warrant of removal, they should take the earliest possible opportunity of communicating the fact of his delivery at the workhouse to the Overseers to whom the warrant is addressed.

To

The Clerk to the Guardians,

I am, &c.,

W. G. LUMLEY,

Assistant Secretary,

ii.—CIRCULAR LETTER from the POOR LAW COMMISSIONERS to the BOARDS OF GUARDIANS.

*Poor Law Commission Office, Somerset House,
October 20th, 1846.*

SIR,

I AM directed by the Poor Law Commissioners to state that, in consequence of various inquiries made of them as to the construction of the late Removal Act, 9 and 10 Vict., c. 66, they have deemed it right to consult the Attorney-General and Solicitor-General upon certain points which appeared to be of most importance in the application of the statute.

The Commissioners think it may assist the Guardians if they communicate to them the opinions which the Commissioners have obtained in answer to the questions which they submitted, and they have accordingly directed me to inform the Guardians that the Counsel above mentioned are of opinion—

1. “That the proviso to the 1st section of the 9 and 10 Vict., c. 66, “which sets forth the exceptions to the principal enactments that “are to be excluded in the computation of time, is not retrospective “in its operation, so as to apply to cases where the five years’ residence was completed before the statute.
2. “That an interval between the completion of the five years’ residence and the application for the warrant of removal filled up “by one of the exceptions contained in the proviso, will not “prevent the operation of the statute in restraining the removal “of the pauper who had resided for the specified time.
3. “That orders of removal obtained previous to the passing of the “Act, but not then executed by the removal of the paupers, “cannot now be executed in cases where the 1st or 2nd section “would have prevented them from being granted if the applications were made subsequently to the passing of the Act.
4. “That the 2nd section does not apply to the cases of widows “whose husbands died before the passing of the Act.
5. “That the 4th section does apply to persons who became chargeable before the passing of the Act, and continued to do so till “the application for the warrant.
6. “That the statute applies equally to the removal of persons born “in Scotland, Ireland, or the Channel Islands, as to persons “having settlements in England, so as to override, pro tanto, “the provisions of the 8 and 9 Vict. c. 117.”

The Commissioners presume that the Guardians will have no difficulty in applying these opinions to the parts of the statute to which they relate. They will see that, according to the view taken by the high legal authorities above referred to, as to the effect of the first proviso, so far as it relates to the time before the passing of the Act, the simple fact of the actual residence of the pauper is alone to be considered, and consequently that no time during which the party may have been in the receipt of relief is to be omitted from the calculation of the term of residence, while any absence during that period, such as that caused by an imprisonment, or a residence in a hospital, is to be treated as an interruption of the continuous residence to which the statute applies.

With reference to the second question, I am to observe that, although in terms it is confined to an interval between the completion of the residence and the application for the warrant, the Commissioners consider that the principle of the construction must equally apply to intervals in the time during which the period of residence is comprised, so that for example a residence of three years in a parish may be united with a subsequent residence of two years in the same parish, though in the interval the party may have been out of the parish in prison for several months, or serving Her Majesty as a soldier for several years; this observation is however to be qualified by the supposition that the absence is one which is protected by the proviso.

As some inquiries have been made upon the point, the Commissioners wish me to state that in the application of this statute no difference exists whether the cause arise between two parishes in the same union, or in different unions.

The Commissioners take this opportunity of impressing upon the Guardians that, though this statute does not create any settlement in regard to the parties rendered by it irremovable from a parish, such parties will be, in reference to the subject of relief, altogether in the same situation as settled paupers, and any difference in the treatment of the two classes of paupers settled and paupers simply irremovable, with reference to the nature, quantity, or quality of relief administered to them, cannot be too strongly censured, as not being warranted by law, and as being at variance with every principle of fairness.

I am also to desire the Guardians strictly to caution their officers against any attempt to procure the transfer from one parish to another of the parties whom this statute has rendered irremovable, by threats, or promises, or other inducements. The penalty imposed by the statute on such conduct has already been brought under the notice of the Guardians by the Commissioners in their letter of the 17th ultimo.

I am, &c.

To
The Clerk to the Guardians.

W. G. LUMLEY,
Assistant Secretary.

iii.—CIRCULAR LETTER from the POOR LAW COMMISSIONERS to the BOARDS of GUARDIANS.

*Poor Law Commission Office, Somerset House,
December 4th, 1846.*

SIR,

THE attention of the Poor Law Commissioners has been directed to certain cases in which it is alleged that relief has been either wholly refused or inadequately supplied by Boards of Guardians to poor persons, who, through the operation of the late statute relating to the removal of the poor, have now become irremovable from parishes in which they were resident though settled elsewhere.

The Commissioners believe that this conduct has, in part, resulted from an erroneous supposition that poor persons, so circumstanced, are not entitled to relief in the parishes where they reside.

The Commissioners desire to impress upon the Guardians, that a long course of authorities, consisting of legal decisions, and the opinions of the ablest text-writers, upon this subject, has established the rule that the poor are to be relieved, as their necessities require, in and by the parish where they are resident.

Indeed, the proposition that the poor who happen to be destitute in any particular place are not to be relieved there by the officers who have the administration of the relief, until it is ascertained that they are settled there, or are casual poor, or that some other parish is under a legal liability to repay the relief, is so contrary to all established principles upon the subject, that the Commissioners have only thus adverted to it because they are informed that such a doctrine has recently been circulated, and may have influenced some of the Boards of Guardians in their course of action.

The Commissioners have, already, in their circular letter of the 20th of October last, pointed out that no difference ought to be made in the treatment of the two classes of paupers settled and paupers simply irremovable, with reference to the nature, quantity, or quality of relief administered to them.

The Commissioners admit, indeed, that the cases of the non-settled poor may, for the most part, require to be carefully considered by the Boards of Guardians, who, by the operation of this statute, are called upon to relieve them, because it may be found that the relief heretofore supplied by a distant authority has been inapplicable, either in kind or quantity, to the party requiring it, or that the case has not been sufficiently investigated.

If, therefore, the Guardians direct a careful inquiry to be made into the circumstances of the parties and the actual necessities of the cases, with a view simply of satisfying themselves as to the proper relief to be administered, and on receiving the result of such inquiry proceed to administer the relief as they would do under similar circumstances in respect to a settled pauper in their union, no objection can be made to their proceedings. But if any difference be made for the purpose of compelling the paupers, now irremovable, to seek relief in other parishes, it is clear that the course will be generally adopted by unions and parishes as a matter of self-defence, and that great suffering and hardship to the poor must ensue.

There can be no doubt that such a course of proceeding is at variance with the spirit of the recent statute, which assumes that the irremovable poor, so long as their residence remains unchanged, will be relieved in the same manner, and on the same terms, as the settled poor.

I am desirous to request the Guardians to point out to the relieving officers the effect of these observations, and to warn them that the Commissioners will consider any neglect of the poor who may be resident within their respective districts, although not settled therein, equally culpable with the neglect of the settled poor, and will not hesitate to treat any refusal of relief to the irremovable poor, on the ground of their settlement elsewhere, as a gross violation of their duty.

The Commissioners wish to advert to one other point, namely,—the continuance of non-resident relief. In the observations which they have made in their circular letter of the 17th of September last upon this subject, they have not advised the Guardians to discontinue the relief in cases where the non-resident paupers are removable. They desire it to be understood that they by no means recommended an indiscriminate withdrawal of such relief. They believe that the Boards of Guardians may find it desirable, in many cases in which the statute does not apply, to continue that relief; and the Commissioners do not consider that it would be unlawful for them to adopt this course, although it may not be advisable now to allow it, for the first time, even in cases where it would not be unlawful.

I am, &c.

W. G. LUMLEY,

Assistant Secretary.

The Clerk to the Board of Guardians.

iv.—CIRCULAR LETTER from the POOR LAW COMMISSIONERS to the BOARDS of GUARDIANS.

*Poor Law Commission Office, Somerset House,
January 18th, 1847.*

SIR,

I AM directed by the Poor Law Commissioners to advert to the observations contained in their circular letters of the 20th of October, and the 4th of December last, with reference to a distinction in the relief to poor persons settled in the parishes where they are relieved, and to other poor persons who have been rendered irremovable from the parish in which they reside by the operation of the late statute on the subject of the removal of the poor. I am to inquire whether the Guardians have made any such distinction in their administration of relief since the passing of the statute, and, if so, in what manner that distinction has been made.

I am also to request that, if the Board of Guardians have passed any resolution on the subject of the statute, or the relief of the poor affected by it, you will transmit a copy of every such resolution.

The Commissioners request that this information may be supplied to them with as little delay as circumstances will permit.

I am, &c.,

W. G. LUMLEY.

Assistant Secretary.

v.—CIRCULAR LETTER from the POOR LAW COMMISSIONERS to the ASSISTANT COMMISSIONERS.

*Poor Law Commission Office Somerset House,
February 17th, 1847.*

SIR,

I AM directed by the Poor Law Commissioners to transmit to you the enclosed copy of a circular letter which the Commissioners have addressed to the Boards of Guardians of the several Unions in England and Wales, inquiring whether, since the passing of the Poor Removal Act (9 & 10 Vict. c. 66), any distinction has been made by the Guardians in the administration of relief to poor persons settled in the parishes where they are relieved, and to poor persons rendered irremovable from the parish in which they reside by the operation of the statute referred to.

The result of the answers received from the Guardians to the circular is contained in the annexed Table, from which you will observe that with scarcely any exceptions the Guardians deny that any such distinction as is above described is made by them in the administration of relief.

The Commissioners, however, are informed of the existence of complaints with respect to the treatment of the poor by Boards of Guardians under the late Act, and they request you not to fail in reporting to them any facts which have already come or may hereafter come to your knowledge respecting any distinction between the relief of the irremovable and of the settled poor, or any harsh or unfair mode of administering the Act which may have been adopted by a Board of Guardians in your District.

To

I am, &c., W. G. LUMLEY.

Removal of Nuisances (9 and 10 Vict. c. 96):

CIRCULAR LETTER from the POOR LAW COMMISSIONERS to the BOARDS OF GUARDIANS.

*Poor Law Commission Office, Somerset House,
October 8th, 1846.*

SIR,

I AM directed by the Poor Law Commissioners to bring under the notice of the Guardians the provisions of the Act passed in the last Session of Parliament for the more speedy removal of certain nuisances, 9 & 10 Vict. c. 96, conferring certain powers upon the Guardians in respect of such matters.

The statute, in section 1, after reciting that it is highly expedient, for the purpose of preserving the health of divers of Her Majesty's subjects, that better provisions should be made for the removal of certain nuisances likely to promote or increase disease, empowers any town-council, or other like body having jurisdiction within any corporate town, borough, city, or place, or any trustees or commissioners, or other like officers acting under the provisions of any Act of Parliament for the drainage, paving, or cleansing, or managing or directing the Police in any such place, or for any of the above purposes, or in case there shall be no such town-council or other like body, or no such trustees or commissioners having jurisdiction, or acting as aforesaid in any town, borough, city, or place, the Guardians of the poor (upon receipt of a certificate in writing, to the effect therein set out, signed by two duly qualified medical practitioners, of the filthy and unwholesome condition of any dwelling-house or other building, or of the accumulation of any offensive or noxious matter, refuse, dung, or offal, or of the existence of any foul or offensive drain, privy, or cesspool),

To lay a complaint before any two Justices of the Peace—who are to summon the owner or occupier of the premises before them.

And it requires the Justices, upon proof to their satisfaction of the existence of the nuisance,

Forthwith to make an order in writing, to the effect therein described, for the cleansing, whitewashing, or purifying of any such dwelling-house or other building, or for the removal or abatement of the nuisance, within a period and in the manner therein prescribed;—

Which order, or a copy thereof, shall be forthwith served upon the owner or occupier; or if there be no such owner or occupier, or if the owner or occupier cannot be served, a true copy thereof shall be forthwith affixed upon some part of the premises.

If the nuisance be not removed, the persons who made the complaint, and who shall be authorised by the Justices so to do, by themselves, their servants, and others, may enter the premises to cleanse them or to remove or abate the nuisance described in the order.

Any person wilfully obstructing any person acting under the authority and in pursuance of the order will be liable to a penalty not exceeding 10*l.*, nor less than 2*l.*

Section 2 enables the persons who make the complaint to recover the costs and expenses which they incur from the owner or occupier by summary proceedings before two Justices, unless the Justices think fit to excuse the party charged on the ground of poverty or other special circumstances.

The term Guardians, used in the 1st section, as explained by an interpretation clause (No. 17), is to signify the Guardians, Directors, Wardens, Governors, or other like officers having the management of the poor, for any Union, parish, township, hamlet, or place where the matter requiring the cognizance of any such officers as aforesaid respectively may arise.

The above provisions, therefore, authorize the Guardians of any Union or Parish where there is no town council, nor public trustees or commissioners, to take the steps for the removal of the nuisances referred to. The Guardians, adverting to the object of the Legislature and the purport of the Act, may properly cause inquiries to be forthwith made by the Relieving Officers or others, as to the condition of those parts of the Union where they have reason to expect that the nuisances and unwholesome dwellings and premises to which the Statute applies are to be found; and if any cases of serious extent, calculated to produce injurious or mischievous consequences, are found, and the Guardians cannot by urgent remonstrance with the proper parties procure the removal of the nuisance or the cleansing of the premises, they will act most advisedly by proceeding forthwith under the powers and authorities of this Act, bearing in mind the limitation which exists as to the places where they are empowered to interfere.

A provision somewhat similar to the present—restricted however to the Metropolis and its neighbourhood—will be found in the 2nd and 3rd Vict. c. 71, s. 41, (the Metropolitan Police Act); but it only authorized the Guardians to cleanse the premises at the cost of the occupier, and as the occupiers of such premises are seldom in such a condition as to enable them to pay the costs of such cleansing, the provision proved inoperative.

Although it is provided that the Guardians shall recover the costs and expenses which they may incur from the owner or occupier who may not be excused as above mentioned, yet to avoid any question as to the charge of those costs, it is enacted in section 13, that—

“All expense reasonably and properly incurred in carrying into effect any of the provisions of the Act relating to the cleansing of houses, or the removal of nuisances, and not recovered from the owners or occupiers, shall be retained or defrayed out of the rates or monies raised or contributed for the relief of the poor of the parish, or extra-parochial place maintaining its own poor, in which the same shall have been incurred.”

The Statute then requires two Justices to order the Treasurer of the Guardians, or other officer of the Union or Parish, or the overseer of the Parish, in which any such expense has been so incurred, to pay the sums expressed in any such order out of any monies which may come into his hands by virtue of his office; and this order may be enforced summarily by distress under a warrant of two Justices.

It will thus be seen that all the expenses which may be reasonably and properly incurred in this matter, whether by the Guardians or the other parties entitled to take the steps under the Act, if not recovered from the owner or occupiers, are to be paid out of the poor rates of the Parish in which they were incurred, which will be of course that in which the nuisance existed.

The Commissioners trust that no apprehension of casting a charge upon the parish will operate to induce the Guardians to abstain from proceeding under the Act in cases of urgency. The improvement of the sanitary condition of the poorer classes tends so greatly to remove many of the causes of destitution and pauperism, that the money judiciously expended on such an object, now sanctioned by the Legislature in the cases to which the Statute applies, will be found to be most profitably laid out even in reference to the more direct object of the duties of the Guardians.

I am to notice that the Statute having used the term owner, which has no technical meaning, proceeds, in section 14, to define the term as signifying "the person receiving the rents of any property from the occupier thereof on his own account, or as trustee or agent for any other person."

Where an owner occupies his own property, he falls under the term occupier, and may be proceeded against as such.

LETTER of INSTRUCTIONS from the POOR LAW COMMISSIONERS to the ASSISTANT COMMISSIONERS.

*Poor Law Commission Office, Somerset House,
13th January, 1847.*

SIR,

1. The attention of the Poor Law Commissioners has been recently directed to the Instructions to the Assistant Poor Law Commissioners which were issued in the year 1841, and are inserted in their Seventh Annual Report (pp. 55 and 181, ed. 8vo.). At the time when these Instructions were issued, the number of the Assistant Commissioners was greater, and the size of their districts less, than at present. On this account they are, in several respects, unsuited to the existing state of things; and the Commissioners have therefore decided to revoke those instructions, and to issue, for the guidance of the Assistant Commissioners, the Instructions which are subjoined.

2. The Poor Law Amendment Act contemplates the Assistant Commissioners as acting singly, and under the general instructions and control of the Commissioners. The powers of inquiry, of summoning witnesses and examining them on oath, of requiring the production of papers, and of attending at local boards, which the Act confers on an Assistant Commissioner (ss. 12 and 21), may however be exercised by him on his own discretion, and without any specific authority or direction from the Commissioners.

3. The Commissioners have divided the whole of England into nine districts, each containing on an average about seventy unions and parishes under a Board of Guardians, and have assigned one of such districts to each of the Assistant Commissioners. Each Assistant Commissioner is legally competent to act in any part of England, but (unless he is specially instructed by the Commissioners) his duties are confined to the superintendence of the administration of the Poor Laws in the district assigned to him.

4. The Commissioners regard the ordinary duties to be thus exercised by an Assistant Commissioner as falling, for the most part, under the four following heads:—

1. To visit every union or parish in his district; to attend the meeting of the Board of Guardians; to inspect the workhouse; and to examine into the manner in which relief is administered, and the duties of the paid officers of the union or parish are discharged.

2. To report to the Commissioners any matter which, after any such visit and examination, may appear to him to deserve their notice, or to require their interference in respect to the administration of the law in the union or parish.

3. When required by the Commissioners, to ascertain the average expenditure of the several parishes or union under section 28 of the Poor Law Amendment Act.

4. To make special inquiries into cases of alleged maltreatment of paupers, and into charges preferred against union and parish officers, either when he may be instructed by the Commissioners so to do, or when such an inquiry may appear to himself to be desirable.

5. Notwithstanding the large number of unions in a district, the Commissioners are desirous that the Assistant Commissioner should attend a meeting of each board of Guardians once at least in every year, and that he should, if possible, visit and inspect each workhouse once in every six months.

6. The Assistant Commissioner will transmit to the Commissioners a weekly diary of his proceedings.

7. The Commissioners further desire that, after visiting each union, and inspecting the workhouse, the Assistant Commissioner will forward to them a report upon it, in the form of answers to the annexed queries:—

Report on Union, after a Visit on the day of 184 .

1. Date of last previous visit.

2. Is the Workhouse generally adequate to the wants of the Union, in respect of size and internal arrangements?

3. Is the provision for the sick and for infectious cases sufficient? Are the receiving wards in a proper state?

4. Is the Workhouse School well managed?

5. Are there vagrant wards in the Workhouse, and are they sufficient? Are the arrangements for setting the vagrants to work effective, and is the resolution of the Guardians under 5 & 6 Vict., c. 57, s. 5, duly observed?

6. Does the Visiting Committee regularly inspect the Workhouse? Do any of their answers to the queries in the Workhouse regulations suggest the propriety of any interference on the part of the Commissioners?

7. Has the maximum number of inmates of the workhouse, fixed by the Commissioners, been constantly observed since your last visit?

8. Are the proper extracts from the Poor Law Amendment Act, and the Regulations of the Commissioners, hung up in the workhouse?

9. Have all appointments of new officers, and changes in salaries and districts, since your last visit been reported to the Commissioners?

10. Is there any officer whose appointment has been sanctioned provisionally? If so, state your opinion of his fitness?

11. Have you any reason to believe that any of the books or accounts prescribed by the regulations of the Commissioners are not properly kept?

12. Have you observed any illegal practice, or any departure from the regulations of the Commissioners?

13. Has any marked change taken place in the state of the Workhouse, the number of the inmates, or the general condition of the Unions since your last visit?

14. Observations not falling under any of the preceding heads.

(Signed)

Assistant Commissioner.

8. It will not be necessary for the Assistant Commissioner to make a Report in the above form more than once in six months, although he may visit a union several times during that period.

9. The Assistant Commissioner, on going through the workhouse, ought to receive readily any complaint which may be made to him by any of the inmates; and if he has reason to suspect that any of the officers have behaved in a harsh or unbecoming manner towards the inmates, it is proper that he should question the inmates on the subject, and, if necessary, in the absence of the officers of the establishment.

10. The Assistant Commissioner will be furnished by the Clerk of each union in his district with a weekly return, comprising the several particulars specified in Form A., attached to the General Order of the 21st of April, 1842. By this return his attention will be directed periodically to any sudden increase in the amount of the relief, to any special minute of the Guardians, to any deficiency of funds in the hands of the Treasurer, and to some other peculiar circumstances which may render it expedient for him to visit the union, or take some other step in reference to the matter.

11. With respect to the taking of averages, the Commissioners have already prepared a statement of the law on the most material points: this statement was issued separately on the 21st August, 1844.

12. On the subject of the inquiries which the Assistant Commissioner may be called on to institute as to alleged maltreatment or neglect of paupers, and as to alleged malversations and misconduct of paid officers, it is to be observed that the Poor Law Amendment Act confers on him powers specially intended for this purpose, viz., a power of summoning witnesses for any distance less than 10 miles from the place of their abode, and a power of examining them upon oath (ss. 12, 13); and a provision is made by the same Act for payment from the poor rates of the reasonable expenses of witnesses so summoned (s. 14); no such power has been conferred by the Legislature upon the Board of Guardians, or any other of the local functionaries, with respect to alleged abuses in the administration of the Poor Laws.

13. In cases in which the Assistant Commissioner inquires into the conduct of a paid officer of a Board of Guardians, it is in general desirable that such inquiry should be held in the presence of the Board of Guardians or of some of its members, and also of the officer himself. Questions may properly be put to the officer relating to the matter charged, inasmuch as every paid officer is presumed to accept his office on the implied condition of explaining his conduct to his official superiors in regard to any imputation which may be made upon it on apparently reasonable grounds. The witnesses should be examined by the Assistant Commissioner, who will of course put any proper question to a witness which may be suggested by any person present, and which may seem to tend to elicit the truth; the Assistant Commissioner may, however, if he should think fit, permit any witnesses to be examined by a party whose conduct is in question. Applications have sometimes been made to the Commissioners to permit solicitors or counsel to attend at an inquiry held by an Assistant Commissioner. The Commissioners do not wish to lay down any rule on this point, and in case of any such application being made, they will leave the Assistant Commissioner to exercise his discretion thereon, according to the circumstances of the case.

14. The Assistant Commissioner should bear in mind that although he may admit any persons to any inquiry he may hold, so far as he has the control of the room in which it takes place, he has no power analogous to that of a judge or police magistrate to keep order in a court of justice. On this account, as well as from the nature of the subjects of his inquiries, he may sometimes find it necessary not to admit all persons indiscriminately to the inquiry.

15. It is convenient that all notes of the evidence of witnesses taken at such an inquiry should be written in the first person, and should in general be signed by the witness after having been read over to him.

16. In reporting to the Commissioners the result of any such investigation, the Assistant Commissioner will first set out the charges preferred against the officer, or the other subject of inquiry; he will then state the substance and effect of the evidence taken by him, and will in general subjoin his opinion as to its result, together with any measure which he may wish to recommend to the Commissioners in reference to it.

17. If any witnesses have been summoned whose expenses are to be charged to the union, under section 14 of the Act, he will transmit to the Commissioners a list of such witnesses, with a statement of the distance travelled by them from their homes, and of the number of days of their attendance; and similar information should be supplied in respect of witnesses who may attend without summonses.

18. The collection and diffusion of useful information as to the management of workhouses, the administration of out-door relief, the state of pauperism in general, and the welfare of the industrious classes, is an important function of the Poor Law Commissioners, and can only be accomplished by the co-operation of their Assistant Commissioners.

19. The Assistant Commissioner will find it a beneficial part of his duties to transplant into a union the arrangements and modes of management which, either of his own personal knowledge, or by means of information communicated to him from the Commissioners, he may know to have been introduced into other unions, with successful results.

20. Before they close these Instructions, the Commissioners will remark, that the ordinary and detailed management of the workhouse, and the superintendence of the union officers, is vested in the Guardians, and, therefore, that the Guardians are primarily responsible for any abuses or irregularities in the administration of the law which may occur within their union. If, however, any illegal or reprehensible practice should habitually prevail in the union, with respect either to the state or management of the workhouse, the administration of outdoor relief, the keeping of the union books, or the conduct of the paid officers, it ought not to escape the observation of the Assistant Commissioner, who will not fail to report it, without delay, to the Commissioners.

Signed by Order of the Board,
Secretary.

Assistant Poor Law Commissioner.

No. 8.

REPORT, by ALFRED AUSTIN, Esq., Assistant Poor Law Commissioner, on the RELIEF of IRISH POOR in LIVERPOOL.

GENTLEMEN,

Manchester, 1st May, 1847.

IN a former Report I gave you an account of the number of Irish paupers who daily received casual relief in Liverpool, from January 4th; and also of the number of persons who landed daily at that port, from Ireland, from January 13th. No very accurate observation was made of the number of Irish, casually relieved before January 4th, or of the number of persons arriving from Ireland before January 13th.

From the 4th January, the accounts of the Irish relieved by the officers of the select vestry, showed a progressive increase in their numbers. On the 26th January there were 25,313 persons relieved, being an increase of more than 20,000 in three weeks.

Towards the end of January there were reasons which induced the belief that amongst the applications for relief there were numerous cases of imposition. An accurate comparison of the Returns of the number of the persons landed at Liverpool from Ireland, and of the Irish who received relief, demonstrated that a considerable portion of the latter were not newly-arrived immigrants. At the same time, the concourse of immigrants daily landing rendered it possible that a larger number of persons, more or less in a state of destitution, arrived in Liverpool from Ireland, than the Irish actually relieved amounted to. Apprehensions, therefore, began to be entertained on the part of persons connected with the administration of the Poor Law in Liverpool, that although relief was distributed so liberally as to give rise to considerable imposition, still there might be cases of destitution and want which failed to receive proper attention or assistance.

These considerations led the vestry to adopt a change in the system of administering casual relief. From some time before Christmas till the 1st February, applications for relief were made by the destitute Irish immigrants, or by persons pretending to be so, at the offices of the vestry in Fenwick-street, where, for several hours every day, applications were heard and relief given in bread and in tickets for soup by the four relieving officers of the parish, and a few occasional assistants. For some weeks the crowd of applicants was too large for much discrimination to be exercised by the relieving officers in granting relief; and from the early part of January their principal object was to dismiss the applicants as rapidly as possible, with an amount of relief proportioned to their demands, rather than to their real wants, in order that the crowd congregated round the offices might be dispersed.

Towards the end of January, the vestry appointed a committee to superintend the relieving of the Irish immigrants. On the 2nd February arrangements were matured by this committee, by which the portion of the town containing the lodging-houses and cellars occupied by the Irish immigrants was divided into thirteen districts, the size of which was regulated by the supposed number of Irish poor residing in each. In every district an office or relief station was opened for the relief of the destitute Irish of such district. Two assistant relieving officers were attached to each of eleven of these relief stations, and one to each of the remaining two. The difference in the number of officers, in the case of these two districts, was owing to local circumstances, which it is not necessary to particularize. There were consequently twenty-four assistant relieving officers appointed for the parts of the town inhabited by immigrants. Over this large body of officers were placed two Inspectors, one for the districts of the northern part, and the other for those of the southern part of the town, whose duty it was to convey information between the central office and the relief stations, if the urgency of the case required it, and also to report to the central office, where the committee sat daily, any irregularities or incompetency on the part of any of the assistant relieving officers. Each district, to which two officers were attached, was divided into two subdivisions, and each subdivision was placed under the superintendence and care of one of the officers. In each of the districts with only one officer, the duty of the latter was to attend to the entire district. Practically therefore there were twenty-four divisions made in the town, within some one of which every pauper immigrant resided, and to every one of which an assistant relieving officer was attached. The object of making districts of two divisions was to bring the officers of the divisions together at one relief station; by which they possessed the opportunity of consulting together in difficult cases, and of assisting one another in hearing applications for and in giving relief, at which time they were to sit together.

Every assistant relieving officer was furnished with an application and relief book, according to a form which, from its simplicity and comprehensiveness, has after an experience of many weeks been found to admit of no material improvement. In this book was to be entered every application for relief, together with a statement of the amount of relief given to every applicant, from day to day. The book was also to contain the names and ages of the applicants, also the number, ages, and sex of their children, together with any observations considered material. Every officer's book was to be made up, and a return from it sent to the central office every night; so that from day to day the committee might be in possession of exact knowledge of the progress of destitution amongst the Irish poor.

The instructions given to the assistant relieving officers, were, 1st, to require every applicant to appear every morning, at the station belonging to the district in which he resided, to make his application for relief; 2nd, to visit afterwards every applicant at his place of abode, and to observe and note his circumstances; 3rd, to give relief according to the necessities of the applicant. This relief was to be given in certain cases at the abode of the applicant, but more generally it was to be given at the station in a subsequent part of the day, upon the applicant attending for it. Constant communication on the part of the relieving officers with the applicants, together with unremitting visits to the lodging-houses where they resided, was considered desirable to enable the officers to obtain and preserve as much knowledge as possible of the applicants, and of the parts of the town they resorted to for lodging. The first object of this was that, in the vast crowd of immigrants, the chances should be diminished as much as possible of any person suffering from want remaining unheard of by the relieving officers; and, secondly, that attempts at imposture might receive every possible check. Special instructions were also given to the assistant relieving officers (and it was one of the matters which I personally attended to myself) to visit every case of sickness which they should hear of amongst the poor in their districts, without waiting for an application for assistance or relief, and to report it immediately to the central office, in order that the proper medical assistance might be promptly supplied.

The propriety of these arrangements, and others of minor detail, has been illustrated by their operation.

1. From the 1st of February there have been only two deaths in the parish of Liverpool that I am aware of, to be attributed directly to want of actual necessities of life. Mr. Curry, the Coroner of the borough, who has kindly given me information upon the subject, tells me that in the first case, that of Elizabeth Banashe, on 15th February, the cause of death was "disease of the bowels from want of food;" and in the second, that of Maria Roberts, the cause was "bronchitis and want of food." Much as it is to be lamented that death in any instance, in the parish of Liverpool, is to be attributed in the slightest degree to want of food, I may observe that in neither of the two cases mentioned does it appear that want of food was occasioned by neglect on the part of the vestry or any of its officers.

One object in framing the new arrangements for administering relief was to prevent imposition, and another to provide sufficiently for the destitute. Up to the 2nd February, a certain quantity of the relief distributed was given to persons who were not destitute. The amount of relief thus misapplied does not admit of being stated with accuracy, but it was considerable. Since the 2nd February, although the number of applicants has been reduced nearly two-thirds, the reduction in the amount of relief distributed has not been very considerable. But relief has been confined (as far as practicable) to the necessitous, and they therefore have been more adequately relieved than was previously the case. A greater quantity of relief, and more accurate attention to the claims of the destitute, became necessary with the new arrangements, inasmuch as they were accompanied by an expression of opinion on the part of the vestry, of the propriety of the inhabitants generally abstaining from private almsgiving to persons who were strangers to them; they were also necessary as a precaution against the threatened spread of disease, which would occur with increased intensity in crowded neighbourhoods, if the inhabitants were allowed to suffer from want and destitution.

2. Notwithstanding the great and increasing influx of Irish, the number of persons relieved with bread and soup has not exceeded 10,845 in any one day ; and the total number of separate individuals relieved in the same way from 1st March to 30th April has not exceeded 22,226.

With respect to the numbers relieved, the following observations are important.

There is reason to believe that the resident population of Irish in Liverpool comprises not fewer than 80,000 persons. A great portion of them belong to the poorer classes of the inhabitants, but without being paupers. A considerable number of the Irish who have arrived at Liverpool within the last few months, came there with the view of emigrating to Canada or the United States. It may be assumed that most of these persons were more or less removed from destitution ; and that whilst they remained in Liverpool, they were not compelled by necessity to seek parish relief. Comparing the number of Irish emigrants from Liverpool during the last three months, with the immigrants arriving from Ireland in the same period, it may be conjectured that not more than two-thirds of the Irish who have landed at Liverpool were in a state of destitution requiring parochial relief either at or after their arrival. And as many of those who land, quit Liverpool nearly immediately upon their arrival for the interior, the number of immigrants requiring relief permanently, or even for a comparatively short time, is, in all probability, much under two-thirds of the number that land.

In the first fortnight after an account was kept of the arrivals, they amounted to 11,474 ; and the destitute immigrants remaining in Liverpool and requiring relief did not, therefore, agreeably to this supposition, much exceed 7000.

The increase in the number of Irish relieved, however, during the same fortnight was nearly double that number. There are facts to show that this increase consisted in some measure of fictitious applicants, or of pretended persons for whom real applicants demanded relief. But beyond a doubt, a great portion of the increase consisted of Irish persons who were not destitute immigrants, but who belonged to the resident Irish population of Liverpool, or who were immigrants necessarily waiting there to emigrate, and induced, by the extraordinary facility of obtaining relief afforded by the lax system pursued at first by the parochial authorities, to apply for it under the pretence of being destitute immigrants. If the system of relief carried on up to the 1st February had been persevered in much longer, it is probable that a very large portion of the resident labouring Irish in Liverpool, and many of those waiting to emigrate, would have been in the regular receipt of parish relief. And the principal operation of the improved method of distributing relief has been the restricting it as far as possible to the Irish more recently arrived in Liverpool. At the same time it may be observed that by an arrangement of the relieving officers with the assistant relieving officers, many of the Irish who are not quite recently come over from Ireland, but who are in a destitute condition, have been relieved at the district stations, and they are comprised in the returns of the numbers of Irish immigrants relieved. Their number

I was induced at first to believe to be larger than at present I think is the case ; but the general want of veracity on the part of the applicants renders it very difficult for the relieving officers to determine the length of residence with anything like accuracy.

The improved system of relief has been persevered in since the 2nd of February, a period of eleven weeks. In the first eight days the numbers relieved increased from 4996 to 8177 per diem ; and during the last nine weeks, they increased from 8177 to 10,845 per diem. The last number occurred on one day only, viz., on 10th April, since which time the daily numbers relieved have fallen to 8214, per diem, viz., on 30th April. These numbers do not include the sick Irish, who have been relieved all along by the ordinary relieving officers. In the 4th Table to the Appendix to this Report, I have given the average daily number of the sick Irish thus relieved.

In changing the distribution of relief from the central office to the districts, a proceeding was necessarily adopted, which had a tendency to inspire the applicants with suspicions that further relief would be followed by the removal back to Ireland of those who received it, or that it would be attended with some other unwelcome condition. From two o'clock in the afternoon until late at night of the 1st February, all the assistant relieving officers were assembled together, and with most praiseworthy patience and temper examined every applicant as to his residence. The object of this was to ascertain the applicant's place of abode, and to determine the officer from whom he was to obtain relief for the future ; and a card was thereupon given to him containing the name and situation of the station at which he was to apply, with directions as to time of application, &c. The proceeding was necessarily protracted, to allow of a careful examination of every applicant being made ; and owing to the length of time (during which the immense crowd of applicants was kept waiting), I watched its progress with considerable anxiety. I had the opportunity of observing that in some instances the applicants refused to take the cards, regarding them apparently with a feeling of dread ; and in many cases the refusal was accompanied by the declaration, that they were unwilling to be removed, and that they preferred to die in Liverpool to being sent back to Ireland. The feeling of distrust in the intentions of the parochial officers, by the Irish paupers, was so general as to deter many from applying for some days after the alterations for relief at the district stations, and it was not till after the lapse of a week, when it was found that the parochial authorities had no concealed object in view with regard to the really destitute, that the latter fully renewed their applications for relief. Since that time there has been a gradual though very small increase in applications, compared with the great increase in the arrivals.

From the 13th January to 13 April, there landed at Liverpool, from Ireland,

During the same periods there have emigrated to Canada, the United States, or elsewhere, the following numbers of persons, nearly all of whom are Irish :—

	From 13th January, to 13th February	From 13th February, to 13th March.	From 13th March, to 13th April.

The arrivals from the 13th February to the 13th April, deducting the emigrants, leave a number, mostly destitute, much exceeding the increase in the number relieved ; and this excess, which has been apparent ever since the change of system of relief, has greatly influenced the proceedings of the committee in regard to the destitute Irish.

All the parts of Liverpool habitable by the Irish have been densely filled by them for some time. It is possible, however, that an increase has been gradually going on, up to the present time, and that even now the crowding of the dwellings of different descriptions to which the Irish resort, has not quite reached the extreme limit. In the latter end of January, I personally inspected several streets, with the courts leading out of them, occupied by Irish, and everywhere the houses and cellars appeared to be full of inmates. In one small house, I reckoned 41 lodgers. Since that time I have heard of instances of more excessive over-crowding.

In the meantime, however, the difficulty of procuring lodging has had the effect of rendering it necessary for the great bulk of the Irish to quit Liverpool nearly immediately upon their arrival. And this fact partly accounts for the comparatively small increase in the relief.

The fresh applications for relief from the 1st March to 30th April, both inclusive, were on an average for 207 individuals daily, exclusive of the sick ; the largest number, on any one day, being 342, and the lowest 147. During the same period, the average number of persons arriving from Ireland was 1654 daily ; the highest number on any one day being 3704 and the lowest 230. The number of Irish relieved with bread and soup on 1st March was 8563, and on 30th April, 8214.

The largest number relieved on any one day, in the interval between those two days, was on 10th April, when 10,845 persons received bread and soup. These facts do not indicate a rapid change in the persons receiving relief; and they are also inconsistent with a growing accumulation of destitute Irish in Liverpool. As a large portion of the Irish relieved have been receiving such relief for some time, the most correct conclusion probably is, that the change in the persons relieved has taken place more amongst persons newly arrived and unable to procure lodging.

As it became apparent that the want of lodging accommodation produced the effect described, the suggestion of providing temporary lodgings in sheds, &c. for the immigrants, which was thought advisable at an earlier period, was abandoned. For it was evidently to be feared, that whatever number were accommodated in buildings appropriated or erected specially for that purpose (and which accommodation must be finite), the residue of the immigrants who could not obtain such accommodation would resort to the lodging-houses, cellars, &c., in parts of the town now occupied by the Irish, and that the presence in Liverpool of a greater number of Irish would be occasioned, than by allowing them to simply occupy the lodging room the town already contained. Whether, therefore, as a purely economical question, or as a sanitary question to avoid the ill effects of an overcrowded town, or as a means of more effectually relieving the Irish immigrants, the plan of providing extra lodging accommodation for them would have failed.

The committee, from its earliest meetings, bestowed a considerable share of attention upon the subject of relieving the sick amongst the Irish immigrants. Dysentery and fever, in a mild form, were by no means unfrequent as early as Christmas; but taking into consideration the large influx of Irish subject to the various disorders occasioned by privation and exposure, the mortality amongst the destitute population of the town, during the month of January, did not much exceed that of January, 1846. On the third week of January, 1846, the number of cases relieved, exclusive of Irish, out of the workhouse, was 3,280, and the number of coffins supplied during that month by the parochial authorities was 91. In the third week of last January, the number of cases relieved, exclusive of Irish, out of the workhouse, was 3,984, and the number of coffins supplied during that month by the parochial authorities was 261. In February, however, the number of deaths became sensibly increased. In that month, in 1846, the number of coffins supplied by the parish officers was 95, and in last February the number was 359. In March the mortality became still more marked. In that month, in 1846, the number of coffins supplied by the parish authorities was 74, and in last March, 503; and in April, 1846, the number of coffins supplied was 79, and in last April it was 586.

Until the recent addition to the number of District Medical Officers for the parish, there were six of these officers, but towards the middle of December, owing to the increase of sickness in the town, they were allowed assistants when they considered it requisite. On the 25th March, agreeably to previous resolutions of the vestry, the number of medical officers was increased to twelve; but they were to perform the vaccination, under the Vaccination Act, which had previously been performed by gentlemen who were not medical officers. Several of the new medical officers were, upon entering on their new duties, immediately allowed assistants to enable them to meet the rapidly increasing sickness of the town. And, on the 30th April, there were twelve medical officers and nine assistants attending to the out-door sick in the parish. By an early regulation of the committee each medical officer and assistant medical officer was to make a daily return to them of the number of patients under his care, distinguishing cases of fever, small-pox, &c., from the more ordinary cases of sickness. It is to be regretted that, owing to the temporary illness of some of the medical officers, and the frequent appointment of fresh ones, their returns have not been made with the regularity that is desirable, and I am not able to make any complete or satisfactory abstract from them to annex to this Report.

The most serious difficulty with which the committee have had to struggle, in providing medical relief, has been the want of unoccupied buildings in Liverpool capable of being turned into temporary hospitals. After the most careful inquiries, conducted by separate members of the committee, the vestry have succeeded in securing only one building of the desired description, in Great Howard-street. The premises were immediately fitted up at considerable expense for the accommodation of fever patients, of whom there are now about 320 in it. A medical officer for the establishment was appointed, with a proper staff of nurses, also a matron, superintending clerk, &c.

For some time before this temporary hospital could be opened, however, the accommodation at the workhouse for fever patients was very much enlarged. By great exertions on the part of the workhouse committee, a considerable portion of the new building of the workhouse was got ready for the accommodation of the inmates of the old part of the workhouse, and they were transferred there accordingly. There are now 500 fever patients at the workhouse, including those in the regular fever wards. But with all this preparation, the daily increase in fever cases at the workhouse made it manifest that more accommodation must be provided. On 31st March the Irish Relief Committee gave directions for the immediate preparation of plans for the erection of temporary hospitals for fever cases; and on 5th April the Committee contracted for the erection of three large sheds, capable of holding 100 patients each, with all necessary accommodation for the attendants upon them, for 2,100*l*. The site selected for these sheds is on the ground within the wall of the workhouse; and taking into account the importance of a prompt supply of the different articles required by the patients, the immediate neighbourhood of the workhouse was perhaps the most desirable for the erection of the temporary hospitals that could be selected. Their position is in an open space; and although some alarm has been expressed by the inhabitants of neighbouring streets, there is no reason to apprehend any ill effects upon the health of the surrounding population.

The wards at the workhouse, including the newly erected sheds, with the temporary fever hospitals in Great Howard Street, will accommodate nearly 1000 patients. It is much to be feared, however, that this will fall short of what will be found to be necessary, should the warm weather, which in all probability will soon begin, aggravate the fever in the town.

The disposition of the vestry, however, is to meet the utmost emergency, and their unwearied exertions amply entitle them to the confidence of the town, which I believe they most fully enjoy.

I have with some trouble procured a comparative statement of the number of Irish relieved, in the March Quarter, 1846, and of the same quarter 1847, from most of the Unions of Lancaster, Cheshire, and the West and East Ridings of Yorkshire, comprised within my district. I annex the statement to this Report, (No. 6.) Three of the Cheshire Unions are out of my district, but as they are in the neighbourhood of Liverpool, I have included them in the list.

I have, &c.,

NAME OF UNION.	3. In what Electoral Division has it not appeared?	4. What proportion of the Crop has been affected in your Union?
	Answers.	Answers.
Abbeyleix . . .	It has appeared in every division, not a field has escaped.	Seven-eighths.
Antrim . . .	None exempt.	Impossible to state with any degree of accuracy.
Ardee . . .	None.	Cannot be ascertained at present.
Armagh . . .	None.	The entire crop.
Athlone . . .	In none.	The disease having checked the growth of the crop, it is far below average, and half of what are, being diseased, I may say that there are not two parts of a crop according to an average year.
Athy . . .	None.	Cannot be ascertained as yet.
Bailieborough. .	In none.	The whole generally.
Ballina . . .	None exempt.	About the five-sixths.
Ballinasloe . .	It has made its appearance in every field of potatoes in every division throughout the Union.	The Guardians concur in saying the entire of it, and that a solitary exception cannot be made.
Ballinrobe. . .		All the crop.
Ballycastle. . .	In none.	Almost all.
Ballymena. . .	In none.	The entire crop is considered affected.
Ballymoney . .	In none.	Nearly the whole.
Ballyshannon. .	None.	Nearly the entire.
Balrothery . .	In none.	It is feared all the crop is affected, certain it is all the tops are blasted.
Baltinglass . .	No Electoral Division has escaped.	The one-half or more.
Banbridge . .	No reply to this query, but in reply to No. 2, it is stated to have appeared in all the divisions.
Bandon . . .	In none.	We have reason to fear that scarcely any portion will be saved.
Bantry. . .	None.	Impossible to state, the failure is so general.
Belfast . . .	None.	The whole.
Boyle . . .	None.	All.
Cahiriveen . .	In none.	Nearly the entire.
Callan . . .
Carlow . . .	In none.	About five-sixths from present appearances.
Carrickmacross .	Not any.	From present appearances the whole crop is injured.
Carrick-on-Shannon . . .	None.	At least three-fourths of a very deficient crop diseased.
Carrick-on-Suir .	It has appeared in all the divisions.	Nineteen-twentieths, more or less.
Cashel. . .	None.	Nearly all.
Castlebar . . .	None.	All.
Castleblaney . .	No. 2 answers this, (in none).	The whole crop in general is more or less affected.

NAME OF UNION.	3. In what Electoral Division has it not appeared?	4. What proportion of the Crop has been affected in your Union?
	Answers.	Answers.
Castlederg. . .	Answered above, (it has appeared in all.)	The entire crop has been affected in the mountains and lost there. In the low land portion of the Union where the crop was planted earlier, there are a few at present fit for use. In the ground attached to the poorhouse there has been during the last week a loss of one-third, but the produce is about equal to only one-fourth of last year's crop. There is no one in the Union considers himself so well off.
Castlereagh . . .	No reply to this query, but in reply to query 2 it is stated to have appeared in all the divisions.	Nine-tenths or more.
Cavan	None.	The whole of the crop.
Celbridge . . .	None.	The entire.
Clifden	None.
Clogheen . . .	In none.	This cannot at present be ascertained.
Clogher	None.	A large proportion.
Clones	Appears in all.	The greater proportion, if not the entire.
Clonmel	None.	As far as the Guardians can judge from the tops, the disease appears to be general, but what proportion of the potatoes themselves are affected they are not at present able to state.
Coleraine . . .	None.	The entire.
Cookstown . . .	None.	It is presumed that more than three-fourths of the crop is affected, and the disease increasing daily.
Cootehill . . .	None.	The entire.
Cork	None.	All.
Donegal	In every Electoral Division.	The tops generally affected, but cannot say what proportions of the tubers until a more advanced period.
Downpatrick . .	None.
Drogheda . . .	None.	About three-fourths.
Dublin, North . .	The disease has appeared in every part of the division; the mountain lands that were unaffected, and but partially affected last year, are reported to be very much affected by the disease this year.	The greater proportion.
Dublin, South . .

NAME OF UNION.	3. In what Electoral Division has it not appeared?	4. What proportion of the Crop has been affected in your Union?
	Answers.	Answers.
Dundalk . . .	None.	The leaves and stalks of the entire crop are discoloured, and evidently much affected. In the tubers there exists a considerable amount of disease, but the Guardians think it impossible at this early period of the season to state with any approach to accuracy the proportion of the crop which is injured.
Dunfanaghy . .	None.	All tainted.
Dungannon . .	See Guardians' Minutes, from which it appears that none of the Electoral Divisions have escaped.	See Guardians' Minutes, from which it appears that the Guardians do not feel themselves able at present to form an estimate.
Dungarvon . .	There is no Electoral Division in which it has not appeared.	The entire.
Dunmanway . .	In none.	The whole has been affected.
Dunshaughlin. .	None.	All.
Edenderry. . .
Ennis	None.	The entire crop, so much so that the greater portion of what potatoes were set this year will never be dug out for any purpose.
Enniscorthy . .	No reply to this query, but in reply to No. 2 it is stated to have appeared in all the divisions.	The whole.
Enniskillen . .	In none.	The entire crop in every Electoral Division in the Union, with the exception of the mountain part of the Electoral Divisions of Florencecourt and Holywell, and it is partially affected in those divisions
Ennistymon . .	In none.	The entire.
Fermoy	The Board can point to no division where it has not appeared.	A much smaller crop was planted during the last year, the produce of the land planted is not half an average crop, and the potatoes appear already all more or less diseased.
Galway	None.	The entire.
Glenties	None.	All the potato crop.
Gorey	None.	We fear the greater part.
Gort	None.	All, more or less.

NAME OF UNION.	3. In what Electoral Division has it not appeared?	4. What proportion of the Crop has been affected in your Union?
	Answers.	Answers.
Gortin	None.	The disease has appeared in all the fields, but a portion of the crop remains fit for use, rather less than a fifth of the whole.
Granard	None.	The whole.
Inishowen	In no Electoral Division.	All affected.
Kanturk	None.	Nearly the entire.
Kells	Not known.	Not fully known, but supposed from premature maturity appearing in tops, and disease in root, the crop will be reduced to one-fourth of an average.
Kenmare	None.	The proportion affected with the disease of last year could not be ascertained with any degree of accuracy; the blight, however, has been very extensive and alarming.
Kilkeel	None.	A very large proportion.
Kilkenny
Killarney	None exempt.	All, more or less.
Kilmallock	In none.	The whole crop, as vegetation has ceased.
Kilrush	In none.	The entire.
Kinsale	None.	The whole.
Larne	Not aware of any.	The crop is entirely affected.
Letterkenny	None.	All.
Limerick	None.	Scarcely a sixth of an average crop exists.
Lisburn	None have escaped it.	The entire crop is totally lost in this Union.
Lismore	In none.	Almost the entire crop (so far as it can be said to exist) is affected so as to be unfit for human food; those potatoes that are not entirely black, are of a most inferior quality.
Lisnaskea	None exempt.	All.
Listowel	In none.	The prevailing opinion is, that the entire is affected and lost.
Londonderry	In none.	No part free from the disease.
Longford	No reply to this query, but from the reply to No. 2 it appears that none of the Electoral Divisions have escaped.	The stalks of all the potatoes in the Union are blasted, the early crop is nearly all rotten, the late crop is not grown, and a great portion of it already gone.
Loughrea	No Electoral Division has escaped the calamity.	It would be impossible to come to an accurate conclusion at this early period, but judging from appearances the bulk of the crop is affected.

NAME OF UNION.	3. In What Electoral Division has it not appeared?	4. What proportion of the Crop has been affected in your Union?
Lowtherstown .	Answers. Answered in No. 2, (all the divisions affected.)	Answers. More than two-thirds, and in very many cases the entire crop is affected; in a further reply (2nd September) to this query it is stated "all."
Lurgan . . .	None.	The entire.
Macroon . . .	In none.	Almost all.
Magherafelt . . .	None.	Nearly all.
Mallow . . .	In none.	In some cases a total failure, in some from one-third to one-half; in all those cases the crop is short in size and quantity.
Manor Hamilton .	None has escaped.	The stalks are all blighted without exception. A small portion of the tubers are yet safe, but how long they may continue so we cannot pretend to say.
Middleton . . .	In none.	Very nearly the entire.
Milford . . .	None.	There is but little difference of opinion amongst the Guardians on this head, the universal belief is that six-eighths or seven-eighths of the crop is already gone, i. e. , not rotted or wasted, but unfit for animal use.
Mohill	In none.	Every part of it.
Monaghan . . .	None.	The proportion cannot at present be ascertained, but it is feared a very large one; much greater than was the case last year.
Mountmellick .	None exempt.	From the proportion of the early crop of potatoes now affected, and the great loss evident in the general and late sown crop, we consider fully one-half is gone.
Mullingar . . .	None.	The entire of the stalks withered, but at present not known whether the whole are destroyed or not.
Naas	None.	Entire.
Navan	See No. 2, (none escaped).	All, more or less.
Nenagh	None.	The entire.
Newcastle . . .	No Electoral Division has escaped the blight as far as our information extends.	This question cannot be answered at present, as the disease is rapidly progressing and the people have not as yet commenced digging out the general crop.
New Ross. . . .	None.	All.

NAME OF UNION.	3. In what Electoral Division has it not appeared?	4. What proportion of the Crop has been affected in your Union?
	Answers.	Answers.
Newry . . .	In no Electoral Division.	The entire crop, no single potato plant having anywhere escaped total destruction, so far as it is visible above ground.
Newtownards .	The Guardians have not replied specifically to the queries, but have stated "that the potato crop is a total failure."	The Guardians have not replied specifically to the queries, but have stated "that the potato crop is a total failure."
Newtown Limavady	None.	Impossible yet to say, but generally believed that few fields if any have escaped.
Oldcastle . . .	Nil.	The entire.
Omagh . . .	None.	Can't say.
Parsonstown . .	In none.	The whole.
Rathdown . . .	In none.	Generally throughout the Union the Guardians believe half the crop to be already destroyed, and two-thirds of the remainder affected.
Rathdrum . . .
Rathkeale . . .	None.	Seven-eighths, with a daily increasing proportion.
Roscommon . . .	None.	Three-fourths at the very least.
Roscrea . . .	None.	All, to appearance.
Scariff . . .	In none.	Nearly the entire.
Shillelagh . . .	None.	All.
Skibbereen . . .	In none.	The quantity not affected is so slight a fraction, it is not worth naming.
Sligo	None.	The entire as far as the stalks, and the tubers, such as have arrived even at tolerable maturity, are generally affected.
Strabane	None.	Cannot answer at this early season.
Stranorlar . . .	None.	All.
Swineford . . .	None.	The entire crop.
Thurles	Appeared in all.	The entire crop is affected, a great portion black and rotten, the stalks in all decaying away.
Tipperary	None.	The Guardians find it impossible with certainty to answer this question yet.
Tralee	In none.	In the opinion of the Guardians fully three-fourths.
Trim	None.	Three-fourths at least.
Tuam
Tullamore	None.	All ; if any exceptions, they are trifling in the extreme.
Waterford	In none.	Nearly the entire.
Westport	In none.	Almost or all.
Wexford	The Guardians do not know of any one.	The entire crop affected.

NAME OF UNION.	5. For how many Months' consumption would the healthy portion of the Crop supply food?	6. What proportion of the Potato Crop on the Workhouse land is found diseased?
	Answers.	Answers.
Abbeyleix . . .	Not more than a month or six weeks.	They are not as yet dug out, but all the stalks are affected, some of the potatoes are not at present diseased, but they are unusually small.
Antrim	Not more than one month's consumption.	Almost the entire of it.
Ardee	See reply to 4th query (cannot be ascertained at present.)	About one-half.
Armagh	About two months, certainly not more.	Fully three-fourths, and they are much better than the average in the neighbourhood.
Athlone	About three months.	The potato crop on the Workhouse ground is so damaged, that with much difficulty six men can, by digging from morning till evening, furnish a day's meal (about five and a-half cwt.)
Athy	Cannot be ascertained as yet.	Scarcely any of the potatoes diseased as yet, although the stalks are all blackened and appear to be withering.
Bailieborough. .	As the disease is in a progressive state, they could not form a correct opinion.	None growing thereon.
Ballina	According as the disease is spreading, there will not be a sufficient quantity for three months.	There is about one acre of potatoes on the Workhouse land, and from their present appearance there will not be more than one-fifth of them fit for use. I fear that they will be entirely lost from the rapidity of the disease; their appearance day after day is an awful spectacle, and every other part of the Union equally so.
Ballinasloe . . .	The disease is so rapid in its destruction, that it cannot be exactly stated, but there may be about two months.	The potatoes growing on the Workhouse ground were up to Saturday last apparently sound, but since that time they have shown indications of the disease, and present now the same appearance as other diseased crops; and as the disease progresses daily

Ballinasloe— continued .	Answers.	Answers. it is not easy to say with exactness what proportion may be affected, but I think that fully one-fourth of the crop is now (the 20th August) diseased.
Ballinrobe . . .
Ballycastle . . .	It is impossible to say.	Almost all the potatoes are diseased.
Ballymena . . .	About three months.	The potatoes on the Workhouse ground were all used when sound, being dug early.
Ballymoney . . .	It is impossible to say, until the potatoes are raised, what quantity will be fit for use.	Red downs the one-third was considered diseased, there is not more than the one-seventh of the crops.
Ballyshannon . . .	A very short time, scarcely a month.	No potatoes have been planted on the Workhouse land.
Balrothery . . .	Not one month.	Almost the entire.
Baltinglass . . .	It is very difficult to give an answer to this question, as the full extent of damage cannot be ascertained at present.	All.
Banbridge . . .	The Guardians conceive by the month of November that there will be none.	About one-fifth, and the disease progressing.
Bandon . . .	The Guardians recommend that a supply of food should be provided without reference to the potato crop, as it cannot be depended upon even for a single month in this Union.	For an answer to this question we beg to refer to the report of the Physician of the Union, Samuel Wood, Esq., M.D., in which he states, "I have no hesitation in pronouncing them unfit for human food."
Bantry . . .	Cannot state at so early a period, but, as far as we can judge at present, two months.	More than one-third.
Belfast . . .	None, all potatoes are unfit for human food.	The whole.
Boyle . . .	Not longer than the month of October.— See Resolutions on this subject, of Minutes of 14th instant.	All.
Cahirciveen . . .	Three months at farthest.	No reply to this query.
Callan . . .
Carlow . . .	It is impossible to answer this query.	Cannot say at present, a few stone only having been dug, which are only very middling.

Carrickmacross .	Impossible to say at present.	No reply to the 6th query.
Carrick-on Shan-non	Not more than six weeks.	More than half, and the disease is in progress.
Carrick-on-Suir .	Perhaps three months, if they do not rot very rapidly	Not yet ascertained.
Cashel	One month.	Three-fourths are diseased.
Castlebar . . .	No healthy portion.	All.
Castleblaney . .	It would be impossible to give an answer to this query at present, as the disease is daily progressing.	The crop on the Workhouse ground this year was grass.
Castleberg. . .	The Guardians feel themselves unable to answer this question. The general opinion is, that the healthy portion would not supply food for one week.	Answered before, there has been a loss of one-third of the crop upon the Workhouse ground during the last week, but the produce is about equal to only one-fourth of last year's crop.
Castlerea . . .	About a week.	No land under potatoes.
Cavan	Quite problematical, possibly for three months.	None planted, the Workhouse ground sown with barley.
Celbridge . . .
Clifden	The average would not be two months more, probably six weeks, the rotting of the tubers being very rapid.	None were planted for the Board.
Clogheen . . .
Clogher	The Guardians cannot state, as the disease is progressing.	The one-half, and the disease progressing.
Clones	Don't know.	Nearly all.
Clonmel	It cannot at present be ascertained, the matter being so precarious.	There is no land attached to this Workhouse.
Coleraine . . .	The Guardians cannot answer this at present.	None grown on the Workhouse ground, it being all occupied with other crop.
Cookstown . .	Impossible to answer.	All infected, and three-fourths of them unfit for use.
Cootehill . . .	Should the disease continue to increase as heretofore, the probability is that there would not be one month's supply of that article of food.	There were only a few stones planted on the Workhouse ground, all of which are nearly diseased.
Cork	This cannot be answered accurately by the Board, but consider it to be a very short time.	The one-half at present.

Donegal . . .	It is impossible at present to state the exact time, but we are of opinion there are few if any, sound potatoes. We have only heard of one person whose potatoes were to a certain degree safe.	All.
Downpatrick . .	Cannot say at present.	About two and a half per cent. diseased, and the produce one-fifth less than it was last year.
Drogheda . . .
Dublin, North .	For about two months.	No crop of the kind on the land.
Dublin, South .	It is impossible to say, as the disease is still progressing.	There are no potatoes sown on the land attached to this establishment.
Dundalk . . .	See reply to Query No. 4. The Guardians are unable at this early period of the season to state with any approach to accuracy the proportion of the crop which is injured.	There are no potatoes planted on the Workhouse ground this year.
Dunfanaghy . .	Very uncertain, but perhaps one month.	Three-fourths, and going rapidly.
Dungannon . .	The Guardians (in their Minutes) state, they do not feel themselves able at present to form an estimate.	No reply to this query.
Dungarvan . .	No portion of the crop healthy.	The entire crop has been condemned as unfit for human food, in consequence of which, it has been ordered to be sold for cattle.
Dunmanway . .	The present crop may last to 29th September.	All found diseased.
Dunshaughlin .	Not two months; some not fit for use.	All.
Edenderry . .
Ennis . . .	There is not a healthy garden of potatoes in the Union, and should the disease proceed as rapidly as it has done for the last fortnight, the crop, even in its present infected state, will not hold beyond the 1st November.	The entire.

NAME OF UNION.	5. For how many Months' consumption would the healthy portion of the Crop supply food?	6. What proportion of the Potato Crop on the Workhouse land is found diseased?
	Answers.	Answers.
Enniscorthy . . .	Impossible to say, as they are decaying rapidly.	No crop of potatoes this year on the Workhouse lands, the land being laid out under turnips, cabbages, &c.
Enniskillen . . .	It is the general opinion of the Guardians and others that there will not be a sound potato in the Union on the 1st November next.	There were only a few stones planted on the Workhouse grounds; the produce are all diseased.
Ennistymon . . .	If the healthy part were divided fairly among the people, the whole would suffice no longer than the 1st November next.	The whole is diseased.
Fermoy	In the opinion of the majority of the Board, the potatoes will not last much longer than two months; but until the whole crop is dug up some members have refrained from giving an opinion so definite, hoping that a few potatoes may last till Christmas.	This crop has been found to be so bad, that orders have been given by the Board to have it dug out without delay and to sell it for what it may fetch.
Galway	Scarcely a month.	Nine-tenths.
Glenties	Not one day in some parts of the Union.	None set on the Workhouse land this year.
Gorey	It cannot yet be answered.	One acre under cultivation; at present it does not appear that above one-eighth is diseased.
Gort	Impossible to tell until the time of digging.	More than one-third.
Gortin	68 days' consumption.	The three-fourths.
Granard	No healthy crop.	All.
Inishowen	About one month.	All diseased.
Kanturk	A month or upwards; of very inferior quality.	The entire diseased.
Kells	If used on the instant, supposing an average crop to last the year, one-fourth should last three months.	The master states a fourth can be used for human food. The house-ground is a third crop, not approved agriculture on the principle of close boundary. G. Cusack, V.C.
Kenmare	It would be impossible to answer this question so early in the season.	No potatoes have yet been grown on the Workhouse ground.
Kilkeel	This query not answered.	The crop has very much the appearance of that in the neighbourhood.

Kilkenny . . .
Killarney . . .	Cannot be ascertained until the crop will arrive at maturity.	Affected similarly as the rest of the Union.
Kilmallock . . .	Impossible to judge at present.	We had no potatoes this year on the Workhouse land.
Kilrush . . .	At present quite uncertain.	Five-sixths of the crop, and the rest going fast.
Kinsale . . .	That portion of the potato crop fit for human food may last for a month or six weeks.	Of nearly an acre, being the quantity of early potatoes grown on the Workhouse ground, 111 weights (of 21 lbs.) were used, and 95 weights were diseased and sold for a trifle.
Larne . . .	Not able to form any correct idea.	All partially diseased, being early planted; about two-thirds used for food.
Letterkenny . . .	It is impossible to tell as yet.	All.
Limerick . . .	Existing stock, if it continues untainted, is equal to two months' subsistence of the Union.	Five-sixths deficient of average crop.
Lisburn . . .	It is the opinion of this Board that there is not two weeks' consumption of sound potatoes in this Union.	No potatoes have been planted this year; carrots, parsnips, and cabbages have been fortunately substituted, all of which are good and thriving crops. In a further reply to this query, the Guardians request it may be pressed upon the Government the necessity of providing a substitute for the potato, and also to have distillation from grain suspended.
Lismore . . .	It cannot be said that there is any available supply of sound potatoes in a fit state for food even at the present moment, but such as it is, cannot last more than a few weeks, by which time the residue of the early crop will have been dug.	Almost the entire diseased, and deficient in size and very inferior in quality. They were planted in the month of March.
Lisnaskea . . .	About two months.	No potatoes planted,
Listowell . . .	The disease is so general and the crop so bad, that it would be hazardous to say there would be even three months' supply.	None tilled.

	Answers.	Answers.
Londonderry . . .	It is quite impossible to answer this question, the disease is progressing so very rapidly.	There was only a small part of the Workhouse-land under potato crop, they were all diseased, and have been consumed some weeks since.
Longford . . .	Uncertain, as the disease is going on rapidly.	Nearly all gone.
Loughrea . . .	That depends on the progress of the disease; judging by its present rapidity and offensive nature, we must expect little from it as a supply of food.	We had the crop upon the Workhouse ground examined this day, and every potato presented the appearance of disease.
Lowtherstown . .	The general opinion is that there will be no sound potatoes in this part of the country by Christmas next. In a further reply (2nd September) to the query, it is stated "not one."	None planted on the Workhouse grounds.
Lurgan . . .	Too soon to answer.	No potatoes planted on the Workhouse grounds.
Macroon . . .	The question is difficult to answer; perhaps the potato may afford unwholesome and scanty subsistence for a month; in some districts they are now totally gone.	More than three-fourths, and the crop very indifferent.
Magherafelt . . .	The Guardians fear for a very short period of time.	None planted this season.
Mallow . . .	In those districts in which a total failure has not taken place, perhaps for two months. This is mere conjecture.	About one-fifth.
Manor Hamilton	The growth of the plant is completely checked, and it has not arrived at any maturity or size, so that even should the disease not extend, yet there would be little produce.	In the same proportion as the rest of the Union.
Middleton . . .	Not for one month.	A stunted crop, none having come to maturity, doubtful whether they are fit for human food.
Milford . . .	Two or three months at the utmost.	Workhouse land has not yet been brought under cultivation.
Mohill . . .	Not one week.	The entire is found to be diseased.

Monaghan . . .	Cannot at present be ascertained.	The whole of the stalks are more or less withered, the potatoes growing therefrom are in use for the officers of the house, about one-fourth are found diseased.
Mountmellick . .	Under the most favourable circumstances there is not more than four months' consumption of healthy potatoes.	The whole crop appears to be diseased, and so far as an opinion can be formed from the portion dug and used for food, not more than one-half of them are healthy.
Mullingar . . .	Impossible to tell at present, but even now the potato alone is bad food.	The entire.
Naas	In our opinion about two months.	All.
Navan	Impossible to answer this query at the present time of the year.	On Workhouse-land the disease is found the least of any other place in the neighbourhood ; one-tenth of the crop is lost.
Nenagh	Very difficult to answer this question, but it is probable the crop may give a supply of partially sound potatoes until November.	They are generally diseased and getting worse.
Newcastle . . .	We are not in a condition at present to answer this, as until the general crop is dug out, it will be impossible to ascertain how far the disease has affected them.	The master of the Workhouse dug out about two stone of potatoes in different parts of the garden for an experiment, and one quarter of them were found diseased, and the disease appears to be progressing, and the growth of the potatoes appears to be checked by the disease in the stalk.
New Ross . . .	Difficult to answer.	All with the exception of about a quarter of an acre of strawberry reds, which are intended to be kept for seed.
Newry	The potato crop is already nearly extinct, the best tubers procurable being scarcely fit for food.	No potato crop on the Workhouse land this year.
Netownards . . .	The Guardians have not specifically replied to the queries, but have stated "that the potato crop is a total failure."	The Guardians have not replied specifically to the queries, but have stated "that the potato crop is a total failure."

Omagh . . .	Can't say.	About one-sixth.
Parsonstown . .	Impossible to ascertain, as they are still consuming diseased potatoes.	The whole.
Rathdown . . .	No judgment can be formed on this subject.	The crop on the Workhouse ground was a small one, was good, and the entire already consumed.
Rathdrum . . .
Rathkeale . . .	For two months, if the disease does not affect those now not diseased as rapidly as expected.	About two-thirds.
Roscommon . . .	It is impossible to say at present.	The land is good and well manured, the early sown are larger, but nearly all diseased; the later are not larger than marbles, but appear sound; the stalks are quite withered, and therefore it is improbable they can increase; whether they will become diseased should they ever arrive at the size of the early sowing, must at present remain a problem.
Roscrea . . .	For remainder of this year (four months.)	Three-quarters. at least.
Scariff . . .	The Guardians are of opinion that one out of a thousand will not have a potato in six weeks.	At least three-quarters.
Shillelagh . . .	From the present appearance of the crop it is impossible to give a satisfactory answer, as both blight and disease appear to have attacked it this season.	The potato crop on the Workhouse-land being only partly dug, the master finds it impossible correctly to answer this query, save from the appearance of the tops, which appear all to be cut off by the blight; of the potatoes dug the loss appears to be about one-half.
Skibbereen . . .	Not one week of wholesome food for the population of this Union.	We refer to the master's report, a copy of which will be sent forward.

CIRCULAR to BOARDS OF GUARDIANS in Ireland in consequence of the Returns as to the Potato Crop.

*Poor Law Commission Office, Dublin,
10th September, 1846.*

SIR,

Adverting to the information received from the Board of Guardians regarding the state of the Potato Crop in the Union, I am directed by the Poor Law Commissioners to express their deep regret that the Report of the Guardians is to so great an extent unfavourable.

The Commissioners anticipate in consequence hereof, a great increase of poverty and distress among the labouring population of the Union, and it is their earnest wish that those means of affording relief which the law has placed at the disposal of the Guardians, should be made available to the utmost practicable extent.

They recommend, therefore, that the Guardians should promptly bring under review the subjects of their contracts for provisions and other supplies; the present state of their stocks of bedding and clothing, and the general state of their finances, so as to be prepared in due time for any accession to the number of inmates which the present circumstances of the Union render probable.

In making such preparations the Commissioners urgently advise and call upon the Guardians to base the estimates for their financial and other arrangements on the assumption, that the whole accommodation which the workhouse affords, will be placed in requisition during a considerable period, commencing from the close of the present autumn. The means of relief placed at the disposal of the Guardians being limited, it will be a source of satisfaction hereafter both to the public and to the Guardians themselves, if nothing be left undone to make the utmost use of those means, so far as may be found necessary, especially in the relief of the primary objects of the Irish Poor Law, aged, infirm, or otherwise disabled persons, to whose relief the recent measures of Parliament enacted for the employment of labour apply only in an indirect manner, and who may, therefore, be expected to form the class most liable to destitution in consequence of the present calamity.

What number of inmates may be safely and properly accommodated in each department of the workhouse, is a question upon which the Guardians will not fail to consult their Medical Officer, from time to time, as occasion may require.

With reference to any change of the Workhouse Dietary, which may become desirable through failure of a supply of sound potatoes, the Commissioners call the attention of the Guardians to their Sealed Order of the 27th October last, which remains in full force, authorizing such departure from the prescribed form of dietary, as to the Guardians, subject to the approval of the Commissioners, shall seem fit and expedient.

The Assistant Commissioner in superintendence of the Union is specially instructed to afford the Guardians, on this occasion, all the assistance and co-operation it may be in his power to give.

I am, &c.,

B. BANKS,

Clerk, First Class.

No. 11.

ENLARGEMENT of WORKHOUSES, and PROVISION of INCREASED WORKHOUSE ACCOMMODATION:—Circular to Boards of Guardians in Ireland.

*Poor Law Commission Office, Dublin,

SIR,

As the season of the year favourable for building operations is now fast approaching, the Poor Law Commissioners are desirous of calling the attention of the Board of Guardians of Union, to the plans of Workhouse, which have been deposited with the Clerk of the Union, agreeably to the 36th section of the Irish Poor Relief Act. The Commissioners now refer to those plans in order to point out a mode by which the workhouse may be enlarged by the erection of additional buildings, so as to increase its accommodation to an extent, if necessary, of nearly one-third its present size.

The mode in which the extension is chiefly proposed to be effected may be briefly stated as follows:—

1st. The wing buildings may be extended about one-half their present length. By this enlargement additional dormitory and day-room accommodation will be provided for the infirm and able-bodied inmates who at present occupy it.

2ndly. A long range of single building may be erected along the side wall of the men's and women's yard, with dormitories above, of either one or two stories high. In these buildings additional day-room and dormitory accommodation can be provided both for men and women. But the erection of such a building on the women's side of the house may be expected to afford the greatest advantages, as the ground floor will provide additional day-room suitable for the nursery, and women with infant children, with their separate dormitories in the upper rooms.

The infirmary or hospital of the workhouse can likewise be extended by the erection of additional buildings at right angles with the present structure, extending along the side walls of the men's and women's yards of the infirmary.

These buildings may be carried the extreme length of the yards, if necessary, so as thereby to increase almost threefold the present amount of accommodation.

In the children's yards, additional school-rooms may be erected, calculated for receiving infant children, who could thus be removed from the present school-rooms.

The Commissioners do not desire to follow strictly the arrangements above explained; and where the Guardians may from any cause be desirous of proposing any modification of them, the Commissioners will give the subject their careful consideration.

If the Guardians determine to carry any of the buildings into effect, two courses are then open, either of which may be adopted, as the Guardians may think fit. Either they may themselves obtain working drawings and specifications, and submit them to the Commissioners for approval, or the Commissioners, through their architect, will be prepared to furnish the Board of Guardians with the necessary working drawings and specification.

The Commissioners have further to remark, that under the authority of the Commissioners, the Guardians can, for the above purpose, be empowered to borrow money on the security of the rates, payable by instalments, which may be spread over a period of twenty years; and the Commissioners will readily co-operate with the Guardians for this purpose.

The Commissioners will only add, that in the above suggestions the Commissioners do not wish to supersede or interfere with any arrangements which the Guardians have made, or which they may now propose to make, for providing additional accommodation by hiring a building or buildings to be converted into a workhouse or workhouses, in accordance with the 35th section of the Irish Poor Relief Act. The hiring additional buildings may be better adapted for meeting the immediate pressure of applications for relief, while the above suggestions could simultaneously be carried into execution with the least possible delay.

To the Clerk to the Guardians of the Union.

ARTHUR MOORE, Chief Clerk.

GENTLEMEN, Dublin, 10th March, 1847.

Under the extreme pressure brought upon the Irish poorhouses, and the present overcrowded state of many of them, I beg to submit to your Board some observations with reference to some regulations of a practical kind which in a sanatory point of view seem to me to require particular attention at the present time.

The matters to which I have to allude are, chiefly, the ventilation of the buildings, the state of the manure-pits and cesspools, and ground around the workhouse sites.

Ventilation.

The doors of the several wards almost all of them open into what is technically called the well-hole of the staircase, over which is a turret or lantern light, made to open so as to occasion a free circulation of air upwards from the doorways of the several wards opening into it. The doorways of the wards are almost all formed with semicircular arched heads, the door being made only so high as the springing of the arch, leaving therefore the upper space quite open, occasioning a free circulation of air.

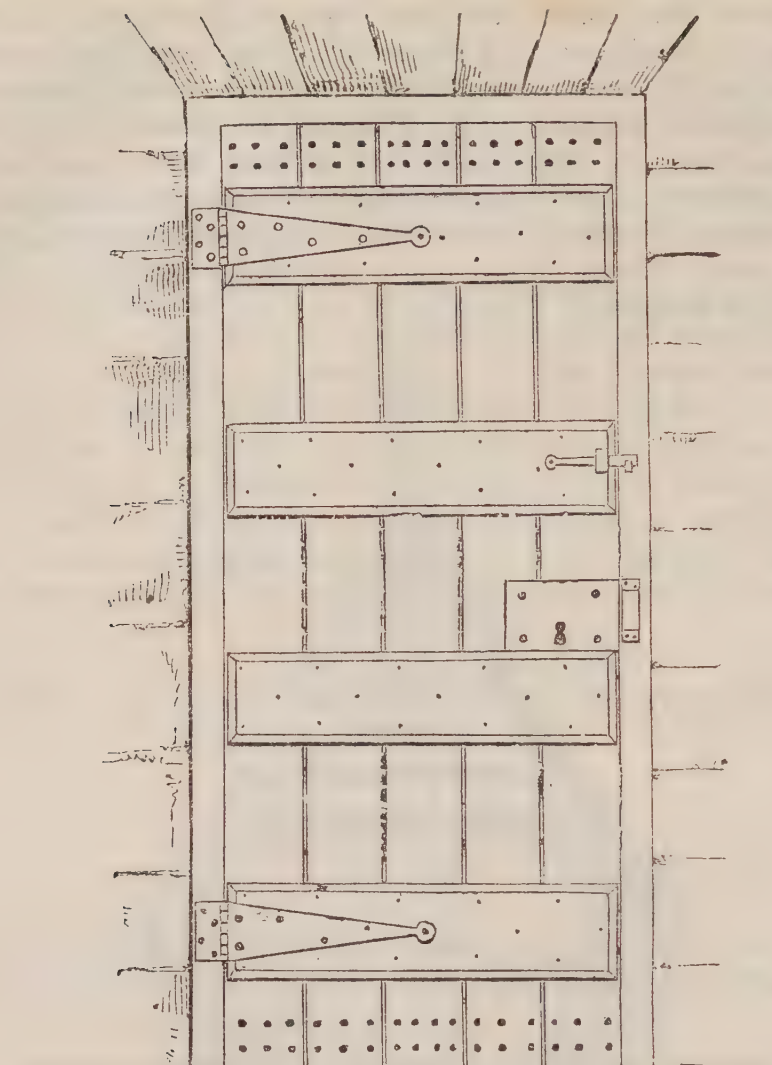

In some of the houses the openings on the turret and lantern lights are much neglected, and where this is the case the ventilation of the building is very much prejudiced; this is a matter, therefore, requiring particular attention, and I would recommend that in those houses which have the stone towers (being those houses originally built for accommodating a less number than 700 persons) the wood lids for regulating the admission of air should be altogether removed from the opening lights.—Sketch (A) of the inside of the tower, shows the lids proposed to be removed.

Ventilating Tower over Well-hole of Staircases.

In those doorways formed without open circular heads over them (as those which adjoin the passages near the master's apartments in the children's dormitories of the smaller-sized houses) I would recommend the doors being pierced with circular holes, cleanly formed, according to the accompanying sketch (B)—the holes at the bottom of the doors might be introduced to all the doors of wards, whether with open circular heads or without them.

In the infirmary wards the rear walls, being those which adjoin the men's and women's yards, have no windows in them for certain reasons, which influenced their constructive arrangement in the original plans. In about one half the buildings large ventilators, similar to the accompanying sketch (C), have at various times within the last three years been introduced in several of the Unions; where they have not been introduced they have been recommended to be so, and drawings have been furnished in several instances for that purpose. Their advantage is so great, and in the present crowded state of many of the hospitals their want is so much felt, that I would beg to advise efforts being made for their insertion in every infirmary which is without them. The same kind of ventilators may with much advantage be introduced in the side walls of the wards in the wing buildings of the poorhouse, more particularly in those houses where there are no outside windows in the flank walls of wings. In the infirm rooms on the ground floor two in each room would be desirable, placed at equal distances about 12 inches below the ceiling joint.

Sketch (D) is a ventilator also applicable to the wards of the poorhouses generally, where the cost of obtaining zinc plates is objectionable, or where a somewhat less costly construction is required; but these latter are not so suitable for the infirmary as the former drawing (C.).

Pierced zinc plates inserted in the panes of glass of the windows, as shown on the accompanying drawing (E), will occasion a considerable circulation of air and very little admission of driving rain: where zinc may not be conveniently procured, I have found the old tin cans of the poorhouses have been beaten flat and punched with regular-formed holes; holes $\frac{1}{12}$ inch in diameter and half an inch apart are found to have answered the purpose very satisfactorily. Zinc for plates, however, of the required size, already punched, may be obtained of Mr. Loftus Bryan, Bride-street, and may be also procured from other places in Dublin, and in most of the large towns in Ireland. It is recommended that the zinc plates should be punched, and the birr or rough side be put outwards, which will the better prevent driving rain from entering.

Workhouse Window—showing Zinc Plates substituted for Glass.

Where from the above cause any driving rain may find its way inside the windows, I have to recommend a catch-water slip like sketch (F) being fixed to the inside lower part of the window-frame, and also for catching the condensed water which frequently runs down the inside of the windows on the floor of the room in cold and frosty weather.

Manure Pits.

No part of the outworks requires more attention than the manure pits, which are the places for the deposit of the waste straw from beds, the ashes, and refuse of the poorhouses; and they are too often much neglected. I am of opinion that it is almost unavoidable to have such a provision in every Union, but the less it is allowed to accumulate the better. It is the practice, too common at the present time, to deposit the waste straw from the beds, both of the hospitals and convalescent wards, in a loose manner, leaving it liable to be scattered by the winds.

In an explanation to be hereafter given on the arrangement of the drainage of the poorhouses it will be seen that it is considered impossible, with few exceptions, to avoid the construction generally followed; there will therefore be a discharge of surface water, and soap suds and waste water from the kitchen and scullery, which must be carried somewhere. When it can be conveyed away beyond the site, it is desirable to have the means of being able to do so, so as to retain so much of it only for a manure pit as may be required, for unless the straw and other refuse is altogether removed away each day, it will be required; where, however, the straw and other refuse can be conveniently removed daily from off the premises, it is, I think, desirable to have it so removed. I fear, however, from interruptions likely to arise in engagements with contractors, from the difficulty of getting any convenient waste ground where to deposit it, and the neglect it may be liable to, that there will be few instances where it can be at once removed from the workhouse premises. Where it cannot be so removed, I see no reason, when it is properly attended to, to apprehend any inconvenience from it, but, with proper usage, I believe it may be made a source of profit and free from objection on the extensive area of the workhouse premises, and be the means of giving employment to some of the inmates in attending to it.

In most Unions two manure pits will be found necessary, and formed, if possible, where the overflow from the drains will discharge into them at a distance on the site as far as practicable from the building; for this reason, a large pit from three to four feet deep will be required, and to be formed of an even and regular shape; if the sides are walled it will preserve their proper order, the straw from the beds and other refuse should be deposited in a systematic order, so as to absorb the discharge from the drains, and the portion so saturated should be subject to an occasional turning; none of the discharge from the drains should be allowed to stagnate in pools. Where pits have been so formed and properly attended to, I have heard of no complaints of unpleasant smell, and the Union has derived a considerable sum from the sale of the manure at certain periods, or it has been profitably used on the land around the Workhouse.

Drains, &c.

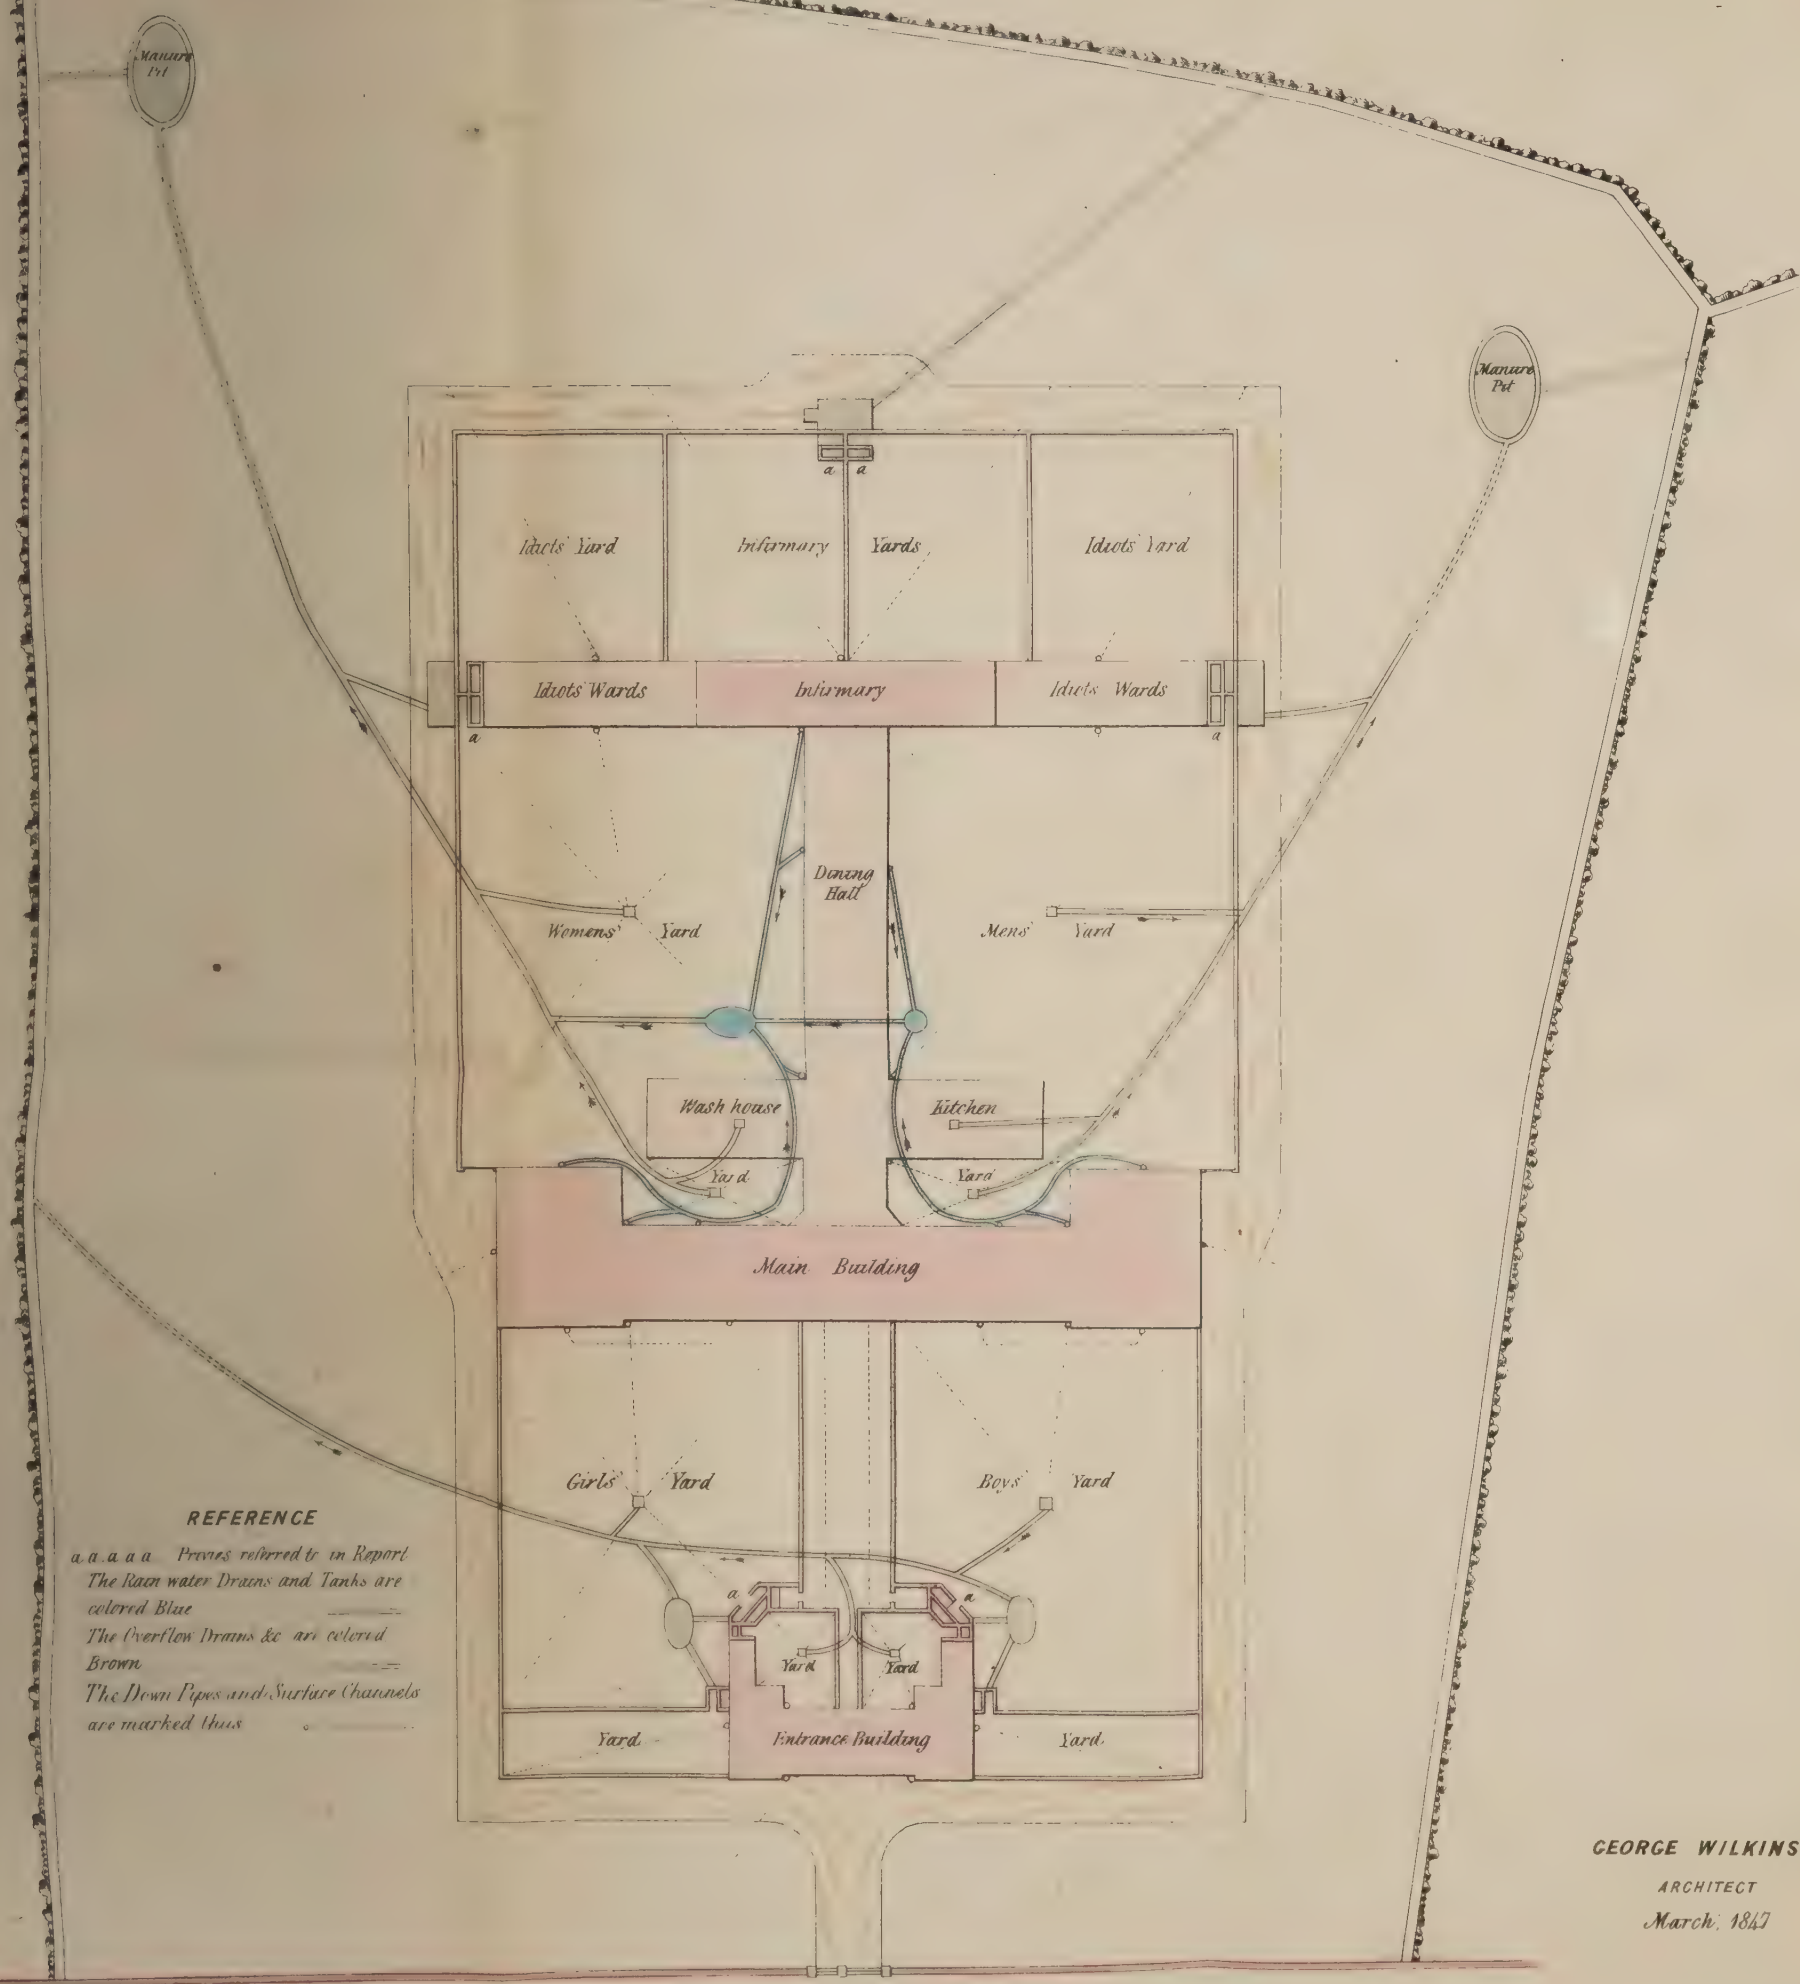

The accompanying plan exhibits a general arrangement of the sewerage of the poorhouses. The explanation on the drawing describes the several drains; the drains are of two kinds: those coloured blue are constructed for conveying underground the rain-water discharged from the roofs, which is deposited in a large rain-water tank underground near the wash-house; the other drains, coloured brown, are drains for carrying away the surface water from the yards, and the overflow and waste water from wash-house, &c. The portions coloured dark brown are underground cesspools belonging to the privies.

The drains of the workhouses are intended chiefly to carry away the surface water, and the discharge at the outlet of several of the drains is therefore chiefly the surface water falling on the yards, and which was originally required from the builder of the workhouse to be conveyed some few feet only from the building. The principal overflow, and frequently the only overflow except that before-mentioned, which occurs after heavy rains, is that from the kitchen and wash-house drains, and from the fertilizing nature of this liquid it ought to be retained on the workhouse site for the benefit of the land, and be made to mix with the dry straw from the beds, and by proper care produce valuable manure; there are few Unions where the owners of adjoining lands will object to the discharge of this drain into their ground. In most Unions these drains have seldom been carried beyond the workhouse site, leaving the workhouse master, under the Guardians' directions, to make profitable use of the same.

The drains of the poorhouses, generally, within the limit of the buildings and yard walls, have been found to answer their purpose very satisfactorily, and are generally in good order; being covered over, however, they are liable to disorder from rats, and from becoming choked with sediment require occasional cleaning, and care should be taken to have the small grated cesspools which are constructed in the yards occasionally cleaned, these small cesspools being about three feet square and carefully formed to catch any sediment and prevent it flowing into the drains, the mouths of which are purposely placed in the upper part of the small cesspools.

Cesspools.

It will be readily understood that the poorhouses, from the large number they contain and the class of people who occupy them, differ from almost any other institution; many of them equal the size of the largest barracks, which have been built over many acres, with extended buildings, on which a great expenditure of public money has been allowed, while in the regulations which have influenced the plans of the poorhouses the subdivision and discipline of prisons is approached rendering several yards necessary, in each of which a privy is required, and to be so constructed as to be within the bounds of the yard-walls of the respective classes.

A reference to the plan will explain the position of the privies near the cesspools. These latter are vaulted over, and are common to the privies of the adjoining yards. A circular opening covered with a large stone has been provided for their being cleaned occasionally; all of them require cleaning at least once a-year, and perhaps two or even three times; they are often neglected for a long period, and the stone is not always kept over the opening, or covered with earth. The construction of cesspools has been adopted from the practical experience gained by those in charge of such institutions as being the best system. It is, however, very generally felt that drains to carry away the soil would be better, and hence the system of cesspools is frequently complained of, and very much on account of their being neglected, and the drainage has on this account been often said to be imperfect. When the several points from which drains are required are examined, and the great lengths which would be necessary, it will be understood that, however desirable they may be, they are not practicable, for they would be constantly choked, and that therefore cesspools are unavoidable; the drains connected with them are for carrying off any overflow, to prevent the flooding of the privies at any time, and they may also often serve for cleaning the cesspools. It is required, therefore, that persons should be employed to clean out the cesspools in a proper manner, and a contract for the work is desirable; in some localities it is found necessary to pay much more for the first contract for this kind of work than for those made at after periods, when persons more readily engage in such an undertaking. It is not a good practice to employ the paupers of the house in attending to them, for they seldom do the work effectually, and the partially employing them at times is very objectionable.

An unpleasant effluvium is often experienced from the privies, and in some instances useless expedients have been resorted to for avoiding it; but most of it arises from causes capable of remedy to a great extent, and growing out of the too ready disposition to leave such matters to keep themselves in order.

In condemning objectionable matters it is to be observed there is almost always an oversight of the general bearings, and in getting rid of one objection the creation thereby of greater inconvenience is commonly lost sight of.

If the privies of the men's and women's yards could be removed some forty or fifty feet away from the yard-walls by enclosing an outer yard as a passage to them, I think that position for them, chiefly on account of their distance, would be better than where they are at present, and which is shown on plan of drains by letters a a; the practical inconvenience arising from this arrangement, however, may be found greater than the gain by the alteration. Such was the case in the Limerick Union, where a somewhat similar kind of experiment was tried, and the privies so constructed have however been since removed and the original ones are now in use; but now an attention is there paid to the proper cleansing of the cesspools at the required times instead of their being neglected or overlooked, as too often is the case in many Unions.

In each of the children's yards at rear of the entrance building are also privies. Here there are three yards, viz., the boys' yard and two probationary yards attached to the entrance building on the male side, and a similar arrangement on the left; one vault serves for each of the three privies; an effluvium is often found to arise from these places. Were it not for the necessity of having a provision for the probationary yards, the privies for the children, in some of the workhouses, might be placed at the side-walls of their respective yards.

The chief cause of the effluvium, where it is found to arise from the privies, and distributes itself around, is the circulation of the air down the vaults from one yard, and its escape into another, according to the wind.

These nuisances may in a great measure be remedied by the putting doors to the doorways when found practicable, and the construction of a large air-tube of $1\frac{1}{4}$ -inch deal, 12 inches square inside, carried up inside the walls from just below the underside of the vaulting, and elevated a few feet beyond the top of the roof, covered with a louvered head.

To prevent the escape of a current of air from those vaults situated in the children's yards, close-fitting lids (hung with hinges), on an incline, and made to fall of their own accord, could be attached to the privies of the two small probationary yards, and doors could also be added to these two small privies.

Some pains were taken in the year 1842 in preparing printed instructions for the guidance of the workhouse master in attending to the drains, cesspools, &c., and a printed sheet was forwarded to each poorhouse for the purpose of being hung up in a frame for reference. These have been neglected in many Unions, but they ought to be carefully preserved and referred to. A copy of the same is contained in the Annual Poor Law Report for 1842, and the instructions relate also to ventilators, flues, wells, lime-whiting or whitewashing the walls, and all the various building details, to which the master's attention is constantly required. A plan of the drains of the building has also been prepared and sent to each workhouse, and ought also to be carefully preserved in a frame for reference.

Burial-ground.

In some Unions portions of the site are appropriated for burial-grounds, and where the area of the site is limited it seems to me a very objectionable practice, and will be the means, independent of other strong objections to which it is open, of soon rendering useless that portion of the site where such interments are made, and prevent future improvements or building extensions which may be required. In some Unions the places appropriated as burial-ground will not be sufficient for even one year; and unless the portion of the site so appropriated is, from the irregularity of the boundaries, at a considerable distance from the building, the appropriation of it to such purposes should in my opinion be avoided.

It may not be an unimportant matter for me further to remark on the want of greater attention to the workhouse sites of most of the Unions, in the proper cultivation of the land, and the arrangement of the paths and roadways around the workhouses.

In some Unions where individual Guardians have taken an interest in these matters, or where there has been an intelligent and active workhouse master, the ground is well cultivated, the roadways and paths are carefully formed and well covered with broken stones or gravel, the open drains are kept clear, the outer yard-walls are being covered with ivy or other creepers, and neat shrubs, evergreens, or trees contribute to give a cheerful and inviting appearance to the establishment, occasioning it, with much advantage to the institution, to be visited and inspected by the inhabitants of the Union, and a warm interest to be frequently taken by visitors in the welfare of the inmates and the good management of the institution, instead of its being rendered repulsive, as is sometimes the case, by the appearance or neglect of its external features.

For the keeping in repair the various works of the house, such as the plumber's, slater's, locksmith's, &c., for which your Board has recommended annual contracts to be made by the Guardians, and also for the painting the wood and iron work of the house, there have been already numerous specifications prepared, and which are always forwarded to those Unions where the Guardians apply for them.

REPORT of the ARCHITECT of the POOR LAW COMMISSION to the CENTRAL BOARD OF HEALTH, with Plans of Temporary Fever Hospitals.—Communicated to the Poor Law Commissioners.

GENTLEMEN,

Dublin, March, 1847.

I HAVE the honour to submit the accompanying drawings, which have been prepared in accordance with your instructions, for the erection of Temporary Fever Wards of a simple and economical construction.

The following are the particulars of their construction, arrangement, and cost:—

The buildings are intended to be erected with wood framing, as shown on the sectional drawing (B), and to be boarded with rough boarding, nailed on the outside of the studs or framing, the boards to have a lap of one inch; the floors to be formed of inch deal, resting on joists 4 inches by 2, and 15 inches from centre to centre, and supported on dwarf walls.

The sides of the building to be 7 feet 6 inches high, resting on low dwarf walls of brick or stone, as shown in section; the width of the building to be 15 feet 6 inches, which will allow a 3 feet 6 inch passage down the centre of the ward, and the heads of the beds to be placed along each side.

The roof to be also boarded with inch boards, having $1\frac{1}{4}$ inch lap; and if thought advisable hereafter, it can be covered with "asphalte felt, or tar paint."*

The windows to be formed on both sides, to be 3 feet by 2 feet 6 inches high, to hang on centres for opening, and glazed like common greenhouse lights, and to have proper lines for opening and closing.

On the ridge of the roof small ventilating hoppers to be formed, and about two of them to be placed in a length of 50 feet of roofing. By this arrangement the breath of the patients will be drawn towards the roof, leaving the centre passage of the room the most free from infectious air.

Plan (A) show an arrangement for a building capable of accommodating 50 beds, spread 1 foot 5 inches apart; it exhibits two wards, one for men, and another for women, with a fireplace between. I purpose the construction of air-flues, 14 inches by 9 inches, in the chimney-shaft, to be carried up from the back of each fireplace to the chimney-shaft above the roof, having an opening from the upper part of the room into the air-flue for the escape of vitiated air, which will be drawn into it by the current of warm air in the air-flue, and be of much service in cold weather when the windows cannot well be opened. At each external gable-end of the wards an opening of about 1 foot 6 inches superficial is to be left, and to be covered with a perforated zinc plate fixed against the boarding.

The bedsteads to be formed of planed boards, 6 feet long, resting at the foot on a deal tressel, and at the head on a ledge, formed in an economical manner, by the constructive arrangement of the frame-work of the side-walls. By this method a deal plank 12 feet long, with two saw-cuts down, will make two bedsteads of the cheapest possible construction.

The sectional drawing (C) represents the arrangement of the bedsteads, and the framing of the wood-work of the windows, chimney-shafts, &c.

For the accommodation of a greater or less number than the 50 bedsteads shown in the accompanying plan, the wards, which are 50 feet in length each, will only require extending or shortening; and for every two feet added to the building, space will be obtained equal to one additional bed, 3 feet 11 inches lineal space along each side-wall being the allotment for each, with the beds placed 1 foot 5 inches apart.

The cost of the building for 50 patients, according to the foregoing particulars, and the plans referred to, including bedsteads, will be £l. 10s. per foot; and for every two feet additional length added to the building, being the space, as before stated, for providing each additional bed, a cost of 3s. may be calculated.

When it may be necessary to provide additional rooms for convalescents, or for other purposes, a similar kind of building can be placed

* If determined, in the first instance, to be covered with asphalte felt, the boarding might be $\frac{3}{4}$ -inch thick (four boards out of a 3-inch plank).

Union Workhouse.

SECTION OF A TEMPORARY DORMITORY.

The Dormitory may be erected of any length, and on any part of the Site or against the Yard Walls, which will save the studding and boarding on one side.

The sashes to be 1 1/2 inch thick made in two compartments the upper one to be hung on centres &c and glazed.

1/4 INCH SCALE.

The passage to be 4 inches above the present surface, and the platforms to be 8 inches above the passage. The walls under the joists and studding to be 9 inches thick of Brickwork, or 16 inches thick of Masonry, and to commence at 9 inches under the present surface. The joists of platforms are to be 3' x 2' spaced 16 inches apart. The flooring to be 1 inch thick, planed and jointed; plates (on centre walls) under joists to be 4 1/2 x 1 1/2 plates or sills on outside walls under joists and studs to be 6' x 2'

The upright enclosures and roof to be of 1 inch rough weather boarding nailed to studs 3' x 2', and rafters 4' x 1 1/2 each, spaced 3 feet apart. Collar ties 3' x 1' one to each pair of rafters. Ridge board 5' x 1". Tie beams 3' x 3' one at every 15 feet in length head 4' x 3'. Windows to be 3 feet square, one in every 10 feet in length, and all hung on centres. Doors to be 1 inch thick rebated and ledged, to have hinges, lock and latch, proper casings and stops to the windows and door.

The boarding of roof and sides to have a lap of 1 inch, and to have all knots and shakes well secured. The whole to be made air-tight.

The passage to be either flagged or laid with bricks.

If preferred, the roof may be covered with 5/8" boards and overlaid with "Asphalted Felt" instead of 1 inch boards as above described, and if considered necessary the studding may be boarded on both sides, and the space between filled with turf or other matter, to give greater warmth.

GENERAL REPORT of the ERECTION of the WORKHOUSE BUILDINGS in IRELAND.—By Geo. Wilkinson, Esq., Architect of the Poor Law Commission.

Architect's Department, Poor Law Office, Dublin, April 24th, 1847.

GENTLEMEN,

I HAVE the honour to submit to your Board the following general account of the building operations connected with the Union poorhouses in Ireland since the period of their completion up to the present time. First, however, I will briefly exhibit the general result of the building operations with reference to the original buildings.

Since the date of my last general Report to your Board on this subject all the workhouses of the 130 Unions have been completed agreeably to the contract arrangements entered into with the respective parties employed to build them. Of the 130 Unions, 125 of them have been new buildings and the 5 others have been old buildings repaired and enlarged. In three of the Unions it was necessary to finish a great portion of the buildings independent of the contractors, by the employment of persons under a provision of the building contract, and by the weekly payment of the workmen. Out of the great number of contractors employed, there have been only two of them with whom legal proceedings have been incurred, which have been brought into a court of law, these being for a claim on the part of the plaintiff for a greater allowance than was awarded them by your architect for the amount of their contract and contingent additional works. In each case the plans and specifications and other contract documents were considered binding, and the contractors' proceedings were therefore unsuccessful in accomplishing their object. Had any success, however, attended these early proceedings, it is probable that much difficulty would have arisen, inasmuch as the contracts were made from unlimited competition; and, circumstanced as the Poor Law Commissioners were, it was unavoidable that a great variety of contractors were employed, and the undertakings of many of them on the whole afforded them perhaps but little, if any, adequate remuneration, for the undertakings generally were at a very low rate for the value of the work obtained.

The total accommodation afforded in the poorhouses as originally built may be estimated at 93,860 persons, divided into four principal classes of adults, children, infirm patients, and idiots or lunatics not dangerous; each of these classes having distinct wards and yards attached, in addition to which are wards and yards for probationary paupers of each sex.

The total cost of the building sites, buildings, and fixtures, including bedsteads, tables, &c., clerks of works, and law expenses for title and conveyances of land, was 1,145,800*l.*, being at the rate of about 12*l.* per head for each inmate provided with building accommodation.

Since the completion of the original buildings considerable additions have been made to many of them for giving accommodation to a greater number than the original buildings were erected for ; detached buildings for fever hospitals have also been erected on the workhouse sites of many of the Unions, and many are now in progress of erection, and plans are being prepared for the intended erection of others ; and it may be assumed that sooner or later few of the poorhouses will be without these buildings.

Buildings of a temporary nature have also been added to many of the workhouses to a considerable extent, in order to meet the pressure brought upon the buildings in the early part of the present eventful year.

The total amount of accommodation thus afforded by the workhouses at the present time, independent of works in progress, may be considered equal to the safe and healthy lodgment of about 6000 more persons than the buildings were originally planned to contain, making a total of about 100,000 persons for whom workhouse accommodation is available.

In addition to which, buildings have been taken temporarily in many of the Unions as auxiliary poorhouses, affording accommodation for about 5000 persons, the particulars of which are elsewhere shown.

The overcrowding the workhouses, more especially in the present year, was calculated to seriously prejudice the health of the inmates ; and some of the houses being occupied to a great extent beyond what the house was planned to contain, even in some instances to the extent of half as many more, to prevent this overcrowding many communications have been made by your Board to the several Unions where an excessive number have been received into the poorhouses, with a view to limit or reduce the number of the inmates.

In consequence of the serious overcrowding the poorhouses, and to call attention to those matters affecting the sanitary state of the establishments, I addressed a Report to your Board, dated the 10th of March last, relating to the ventilation, drains, manure-pits, burial-ground, &c., a copy of which is annexed. This Report was circulated by direction of your Board to the different Unions, and much good has already resulted from it. The urgent demands made for workhouse admission, from the great scarcity or high price of food, during the past year, occasioned your Board to consider the possibility of enlarging the workhouse accommodation by the erection of additional buildings ; and, in obedience with your instructions, I prepared a Report, dated the 6th of December, 1846, in which is set forth the extent of accommodation of the original buildings, and the extent to which it was possible to extend them by permanent erections, without prejudice to the air, ventilation, or general arrangements of the original plans ; and the same Report exhibits the rate of calculation allowed in determining the capacity of the original buildings, showing that the number of persons the houses were originally planned to contain are as many as can fairly be lodged in them, having due regard to their health. The extent to which the permanent buildings can be thus conveniently extended, by new erec-tions, is estimated at 120,000 persons, if ever necessary. It will be possible, however, to considerably increase this number in many houses, even on the existing sites of the poorhouses, if required.

The following will exhibit the particulars of the different kind of buildings affording the accommodation to the 6000 persons before stated to be provided with workhouse accommodation, in addition to what is contained in the original buildings :—

1st. By the temporary buildings the principal accommodation is obtained by the construction of galleries in the upper floors of the dormitories of the wing buildings, the particulars of which are set forth in the Report of the 6th December, 1846, before adverted to, wherein it is assumed that, by carrying them out in the whole of the poorhouses, sleeping accommodation might be obtained in the most speedy manner for 20,000 persons, at the rate of about 12s. 6d. per head.

By the construction of dormitories and day-rooms in wooden buildings, according to the annexed plan.

By the erection of wooden buildings for fever wards at the rear of the poorhouses, according to the plans contained in the Annual Report for 1846.

And by the erection of detached wooden buildings for fever patients, according to the plans annexed hereto, which were prepared for the Central Board of Health for the construction of such kind of buildings in different parts of Ireland.

The additions made by the erection of permanent buildings are exhibited as follow :—

In new buildings, such as the extension of infirmary buildings and erection of additional wards in seven of the Unions, by which accommodation is obtained for 985 persons and buildings of the same kind are now in progress for the additional accommodation of 906 persons ; and various plans for other buildings are in preparation.

In detached fever hospitals, erected on the workhouse sites in 32 Unions, affording accommodation to 1427 persons

In 27 other Unions, hospitals are also in progress, which will afford accommodation to 1384 persons, and several plans for other hospitals are in preparation.

In the erection of some of the first fever hospitals, the buildings were small in extent and deficient in the necessary out-offices, from the reluctance of the Guardians to incur the necessary expense ; plans, therefore, were adopted in several of the Unions with ill-judged economy. In the arrangement of the plans, however, I endeavoured in all cases to have them made as part of the buildings, which ere long were likely to be considerably extended ; and in a Report made to your Board on the 4th of July, 1846, I urged the importance of placing them on a site that would admit of extended arrangements at an after period ; and I am enabled to state that in very few instances have any buildings been so planned or placed as not to admit of their being considerably enlarged, and made convenient portions of a much larger building, if found necessary, and such has been already found to be the case in five different Unions, where additions are now being made to the original building. In all cases the specifications, with regard to the substantial character of the materials employed, have been made the same, so that, where a limited outlay has been allowed, it has resulted rather in effecting a less extent of buildings than in a slight execution. In four instances only have Guardians followed plans of their own obtaining, rather than those submitted by your Board—in three instances from the supposed greater economy, and in the fourth from a desire to carry out a more extended arrangement, as at Belfast, where a building capable of containing upwards of 300 fever patients was planned, and one-half of which has been now completed and occupied; in all cases the plans were submitted to your Board, and suggestions for improvement, or otherwise, were offered to the Guardians, and acted on more or less; in two instances, however, the buildings have been erected, unfortunately, with rooms of too little height for the proper treatment of fever patients, and in some other respects with ill-judged economy.

During the past year numerous plans have been proposed for making minor additions and alterations for increasing the accommodation of the poorhouses, which have been calculated to prejudice the buildings, such as making a dormitory of the dining-hall and other rooms, and in various ways to interfere with those arrangements laid down as essential to the proper order and discipline of the establishment, which, in a time of overcrowding, was perhaps more than ever necessary for the health or management of the inmates.

Where the Board of Guardians have applied for such plans, or submitted such arrangements for the sanction of your Board, they have, as far as considered prudent by your Board, been either advised against or objected to, and they are the more to be regretted because they would in the aggregate produce but a very slight increase of accommodation; it is to be hoped, however, that ere long many of the objectionable arrangements which have resulted from the past and present pressure on the houses, and which impair the efficiency and character of the buildings, will be altogether remedied or be removed by the Board of Guardians of the different Unions where they have occurred.

On the 12th of January, 1847, a Circular was addressed by your Board to the different Unions, pointing out the way in which it was desirable to enlarge the poorhouses where additional buildings were required. In some Unions, however, the small and unimportant additions which have been injudiciously made to some of the buildings prevent the erection of larger buildings in the way most desirable; hence there is a necessity for sacrificing the outlay so made, or the new buildings will be placed with more or less inconvenience.

For the sake of the future efficiency of the workhouse buildings in Ireland, as well as avoiding the hole-and-corner places which are frequently exhibited as the cause of disease or irregularities in some of the English poorhouses, it appears very necessary to carefully examine and cautiously sanction all the additions which may be projected to the workhouse buildings, for in the desire of the Board of Guardians of many unions to provide all possible accommodation during the present time, new buildings are often proposed of a slight and temporary design, which, unintentionally perhaps, become adopted as part of the poorhouse not likely to be again disturbed. In the case of the Cork poorhouse, in particular, I would wish to remark that the buildings projected and more or less finished, are much too extensive for the healthy or effective management of an institution on so limited an area.

To exhibit more effectively the advantage of following some preconsidered general plan for the future enlargement of the poorhouses, and also to show the capability of extension of the original buildings, I annex hereto a ground-plan and a perspective view of the yards and buildings of the Limerick poorhouse, originally built to contain 1600 inmates, but capable of holding, with the additional buildings, as many as 2500 persons, with as much of air and ventilation to the different wards and yards as belonged to the original building, still preserving, without the least sacrifice of the original outlay, all the first arrangements and all the various offices, with equally convenient access thereto from all parts of the new buildings.

In houses of smaller size the disposition of the new buildings varies, but the same general result is obtained by adhering to the preconsidered plan of enlargement.

The additional buildings which appear to me to be the most advantageous are the erection of buildings for women with infant children, which are become and probably are likely to continue a numerous class, and greater than originally contemplated, and the extension of the infirmary building. In most Unions this is best accomplished by the erection of a building of two or three stories high alongside the wall of the women's yard, having an additional yard along the side where necessary. These buildings are particularized in the Circular of your Board of the 12th of January last, and they are being carried into effect, or are projected, in several Unions. Another way beyond what is there described for the mode of enlarging the infirmary, is to raise another floor over the idiot wards in those smaller-sized houses in which there is no second floor over them.

In several Unions the extension of the infirmary buildings having been effected by encroachment on the idiot wards, and propositions for removing the cells or occupying them for infirmary purposes have emanated from the different Boards of Guardians.

The original designs for the poorhouses were without any wards for the above classes; the absence, however, of any public institutions sufficient to receive such persons, I assume to be the chief cause for inducing the Poor Law Commissioners to direct such wards to be added to the poorhouses; and until there may be the means of removing such a class from the poorhouses, it appears to me that it will be desirable to preserve these portions of the building. The position of the idiot wards is convenient, but they adjoin the infirmary range of building; the male class on one side, and the female on the other, as shown on the ground-plan of the Limerick poorhouse annexed hereto, and therefore occupy a position perhaps best adapted for the future extension of the infirmary. If I may be permitted to observe on this subject, I would advance an opinion that asylums erected specially for pauper lunatics would be much better adapted for them than the workhouse wards, where, from the comparatively small numbers in most of the houses, they cannot receive that attention or possess those conveniences which would be obtained in a building specially adapted for a larger number.

Assuming such asylums to be desirable, the great expense of providing them is likely to be the impediment to the erection of the required number of buildings, the cost of the ten new asylums last erected being nearly 250,000*l.*, at the rate of about 150*l.* to 200*l.* per head for each inmate; and in some new pauper asylums projected by the Government, of a larger size than the present asylums, the cost will, I believe, be not less than from about 70*l.* to 100*l.* per head.

The number of pauper lunatics in the poorhouses is about 2000, and about 3500 more in other public asylums, including Island Bridge and other local asylums, which latter are considered objectionable places for continuing them. In the existing district asylums there are about 2500; and considering those persons who are applicants for admission, a class likely to increase with the advance of the social institutions now extending throughout the country, it may be assumed, that to provide in new asylums for those at present in the poorhouses, in the objectionable local asylums, and those who require admission, that new building accommodation will be required for between 3000 and 4000 persons commonly included under the class of lunatics. The average cost of the poorhouses has been about 12*l.* per head for each inmate; but as the allowance for other public buildings is on a much more liberal scale than has been permitted for the poorhouses, I doubt not that buildings well adapted for the purposes, with cells only for about one-sixth to one-fourth the number of inmates, could be provided at a cost of about 30*l.* to 40*l.* per head, which, in my opinion, would be found sufficient to erect buildings equally sound and durable in construction, more cheerful in arrangement, and better adapted for such a class of inmates than the prison-like corridors which form the wards of the existing asylums.

I may here remark, with reference to the asylum at Island Bridge, on which I have of late made some Reports to your Board, and recently received instructions, through your Board, by directions of the Lord Lieutenant, that I have put myself in communication with the Inspectors-General of Lunatic Asylums on the subject of providing more suitable premises. I intend to submit to the Inspectors-General the erection of a building to be arranged, as above proposed, to contain 350 inmates, and at the above rate of cost, such building to be used chiefly as an asylum for chronic cases, or lunatics considered incurable.

In conclusion, I may be permitted to offer a few remarks on the general result of the building operations carried on under your Board, in the providing the workhouse buildings required for carrying into effect the Poor Law introduced into Ireland; since, from various causes, the feeling with regard to the New Poor Law is now different to what it once was, and has sufficiently moderated to allow a calm and fair consideration to be given to the results of the building operations.

In a professional point of view I wish, therefore, in justice to those engaged in the erection of the Union workhouses, to make a few observations, and put on record a few statements with regard to the cost and execution of the buildings.

1st. As to cost: 125 new buildings and 5 altered buildings, containing 93,860 persons, have been provided, as stated in a former part of this Report, for a sum of 1,145,800*l.*, being an average of about 12*l.* per head, including all expenses; the greater part of the work has been paid for by contract, the remainder by valuation, such as fixtures and foundations, the rate at which the latter was paid for being in accordance with the rate of the contract calculations; taken either way the prices are very much less than those paid for barracks or any other public buildings whatever. The buildings since erected, such as new fever hospitals, erected on contracts accepted by the Boards of Guardians, have also been paid for at a higher rate of prices for work of the same quality; and no future works, taken on the whole, are, I believe, ever likely to be executed at so low a rate of cost as the new poorhouses have been. In offering these remarks, I have carefully examined the prices paid for work in new barracks by the Board of Ordnance, as well as other public buildings, and, taken in any way, or for any of the works, I feel myself fully justified in advancing the assertions above made.

I may also add, with regard to the construction of the poorhouses, that I feel much satisfaction in being able to state that the constructive design of the original buildings has been universally followed in all the various buildings which have since been erected.

I can also state that up to this time I am not aware of any failure in the works that deserves even mention, or, from first to last, of even a settlement in the walls of any of the main buildings of the 130 poorhouses that deserves such a name; and the best proof of the substantial character of the buildings is the way in which they have been used, by raising new walls on others never intended for them, adding new floors, and greatly increasing the weight on the new walls, and even suspending new floors to roofs originally designed to carry their own weight only.

Many of the buildings, however, require much more attention from the Guardians than has yet been given to them; for the painting of the wood and iron work, the repair of the roofs, machinery of pumps, cleansing of drains, &c., is much neglected at some of the poor-houses, both to the serious prejudice of the buildings, and proper order of the establishment; but with proper care, and that attention which, with laudable feelings, many of the Guardians have shown in the desire to maintain and improve the institutions, I entertain the belief that, when the present calamitous period has passed, the Irish poorhouses will, at no distant time, be found, with regard to their general building arrangements, a very superior class of public institutions of the kind.

I have, &c.

GEORGE WILKINSON.

To the Poor Law Commissioners.
